

WILL NOT LET WOMAN ESCAPE

District Attorney Liljeqvist Insists on Ruby Morrison Testifying—Marshfield Case

(Special to The Times.) COQUILLE, Or., Sept. 17.—District Attorney Liljeqvist today announced that Ruby Morrison, who caused such a furor in a Marshfield police court trial a few weeks ago, would have to appear before the grand jury if she had to be brought on an invalid's cot. The statement was made to Constable Cox of Marshfield when Mr. Cox notified him that the Morrison woman, who is now at Lakeside, claimed that she was ill and could not appear. When Constable Johnson of Lakeside served the subpoena on the Morrison woman, she announced that she was sick and would not go, claiming that she would get a physician's certificate as an excuse. Mr. Liljeqvist announced that she must appear.

Marshfield Society Case.

While nothing was given out by the officials, it was learned today that a grand jury subpoena had been issued for Mrs. E. F. Morrissey of Marshfield. It is understood that she is wanted to tell of conversations she heard relative to a Marshfield social controversy a few months ago, in which some woman is accused of taking another's jewelry.

Young Wins Case.

The jury in the case of Young vs. Burkholder brought in a verdict for $75 for the plaintiff. Young bought Burkholder's real estate business and was suing for commission on a deal which he claimed that Burkholder made in violation of their agreement.

Marshfield Liquor Case.

Joe Schott and Arthur Yake of Marshfield are in Coquille to appear before the grand jury today in connection with the drinking escapade in Marshfield last Saturday night, in which it was alleged that Schott and others allowed three boys under 21 to drink beer.

Get Ross Witness.

Marshal Carter of Marshfield today sent Emil Johnson to Coquille to appear before the grand jury against Jim Ross, charged with stealing Johnson's watch. Johnson was on South Inlet and it was with difficulty that he was found. The watch was sent over with him.

ALLEGANY HAS THREE CASES

Grand Jury Probes Bootlegging Charges, Bounty Deal and Calf Stealing

(Special to The Times.) COQUILLE, Or., Sept. 17.—Two cases from Allegany are now being considered by the grand jury in addition to the calf stealing case. The witnesses in the calf stealing case, in which C. A. Rodine charges Mr. and Mrs. Petromoux with killing a yearling heifer and salting the meat, will be examined today.

One of the other cases is an investigation of the charges of bootlegging at Allegany. It seems that someone started a report reflecting on P. E. Larson, who dispenses soft drinks. According to some a brand of bitters which Larson sells has a terrific kick to it and the grand jury will probably determine whether this is a violation of the liquor law.

The other case is that of Art Clarno, who is accused of taking a panther hide to Coquille, swearing that he killed the varmint and then collecting the bounty and spending the cash. Judd Schappers claims that he and a companion killed the panther and that Clarno was to take the hide to Coquille and collect the bounty for them and bring back the money.

Marshfield Case Up.

The case of Geo. B. Hughes vs. John Dotson for damages he claims to have sustained as a result of the site of the Dotson Hotel being filled by the dredge last spring is still on trial and probably will not be completed before tomorrow.

SALE OF PORT BONDS IS MADE

Port Approves Deal With Seattle National Bank—Commissioners' Meeting

The Port of Coos Bay at a meeting approved of the sale of the new Port bond issue, through the Puget Sound Bridge and Dredging Company, to the First National Bank of Seattle at the same price that the first issue sold for. The dredge company was taking bonds in payment for its work but it was thought better to separate the sale of the bonds and the contract. The last issue is $200,000, making a total of $600,000 to be issued. The Seattle National bank simply takes the bonds up to the amount of the earnings of the dredge Seattle and also $30,000 more, the latter being to pay for inlet improvements.

The Port Commission also decided to advance the expenses of the dredge Oregon until October 1. It is likely that Coos Bay will be able to retain the Oregon all winter.

Empire has asked the Port of Coos Bay to dredge a deep channel from the regular channel in to the wharf, a distance of about 800 feet. Their petition was referred to Messrs. Simpson and Loggie, who will try and have the Southern Oregon Company defray part of the expense.

PARIS PAPERS SMALL

Supply of Paper Short and Size of Sheets is Greatly Reduced (By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

PARIS, Sept. 17.—All Paris newspapers are printed on one sheet only. The supply of paper is limited, most of the staffs have gone to the front and nobody cares for anything but war news. The police have forbidden vendors to cry out anything but the names of papers so there are no shouts about big battles and big losses. There is far less "yellow" or exaggerated news in those papers than in the evening papers in London where "the big battle" has been dressed up daily for two weeks.

INSPECTS RAILROAD WORK.

Supt. Dixon Says No Trains to Mapleton Until November 1.

A Eugene paper says: "Thos. Dixon, superintendent of construction for MacArthur, Perks & Co., general contractors on the Willamette Pacific, accompanied by E. D. Geoghegan, office man for the company at its headquarters in this city, arrived home yesterday forenoon from a trip over the entire line of the new railway, going out by way of the Siuslaw and returning by way of Coos Bay and Drain.

"Mr. Dixon said that the work is progressing rapidly all along the line, especially on the several tunnels south of the Siuslaw River and on the big bridge that will span an arm of Coos Bay. There is a very large force of men on the bridge and they are now putting down the sheet piling which will be used as forms beneath the surface of the water for the concrete piers.

"The railcrew is now at the sixth crossing of the Siuslaw River and will proceed toward Mapleton as soon as this bridge and the one across Lake creek are finished. Mr. Dixon says that the crew expect to reach Mapleton with the rails by the middle of October, but his prediction made two years ago that it will be the first of November before trains can be run to that town still holds good."

WESTERN UNION LINE.

The foreman of the Western Union telegraph construction crew, which has been at work for two or three weeks extending the line along the Willamette Pacific railway, said yesterday that he was getting ready to bring his crew in for the winter. The line has been strung only as far as seven miles from Mapleton. It appears that there will be no telegraphic communication between Eugene and Mapleton this year, although it is probable that the railroad will be completed to that town some time next month.—Eugene Register.

MAETERLINCK'S VIEWS ON WAR.

ROUEN.—I found Maurice Maeterlinck hard at work with women and old men in a harvest field, said.

"I could not fight and feel that I must do whatever was necessary to fight. The harvest had been in soon, as Belgium had been drawn into the war by the madman's egomaniac kaiser, but it was in the civil guard, but it was two days ago that I received a letter that I wanted. It was late as the civil guard had been banded.

"I have tried to write (but it is impossible to begin) a series of articles on the war. Nothing has come of my effort. One's imagination is paralyzed by that only a few kilometers away millions of men ranged against one another to maim or destroy, blot out cities or thought.

"The waste of it! After all, it is fought so valiantly against death and death, after we have successfully against nature, to fall at the will of a despot, this waster of carnage."
