

WHITE CEDAR BRINGS $95

Bay City Cuts Most Expensive Lumber Ever Turned Out Here No.

The Bay City mill of the C. A. Smith company has been turning out some of the highest priced lumber that has ever been cut in any considerable quantity on Coos Bay. It is an order of select Port Orford white cedar which is bringing $95 per thousand wholesale.

The Bay City mill has been cutting white cedar exclusively for the past ten days and last week averaged a little over 140,000 feet per day. It cannot cut as much white cedar as it can of fir or spruce as the white cedar is more expensive and has to be more carefully handled.

The large quantities of white cedar are being obtained from the new camps on the Smith-Powers line south of Myrtle Point is even surprising the officials and the quality of it is much finer than was anticipated in the large quantities. The white cedar commands at least $10 per thousand more on the market than the best grades of fir, so that the company's income is being materially enhanced by it.

COOS BAY BAND CONTINUES TO MAKE GOOD

Have Arrived at Salem and Begin Their Engagement, Which Will Last for Week.

Continued success is the note from the Coos Bay Band, which has arrived in Salem and is now well started on their week's engagement there. A card was received this morning by R. O. Graves from Robert Fenton, director of the band, who declared that the boys have been shown every courtesy and have made themselves acquainted everywhere they have been.

The postcard has the picture of the band printed on one side, together with the day's program of the Salem State Fair. These cards, according to Mr. Fenton, are being freely circulated over the grounds and the first concert on Monday was quite a drawing card, a large crowd gathering to hear music from Coos Bay.

JURY PETITIONS COURT TO PARDON JOHN KELLY

Young Man Convicted of Larceny in Bandon Case May Be Paroled This Week.

A petition already signed by eleven of the twelve jurors who convicted him of larceny may result in the parole of John Kelly, a young man of Bandon who was convicted Monday at Coquille. The man is to be sentenced on Friday and on that date the jurors will present their petition to Judge Coke asking his leniency for the man, whom they declare is not a criminal and will take another stand if allowed to go free with the sentence hanging over his head as a warning.

Kelly declared at the trial that he was drunk at the time the robbery was committed. His lawyers showed that immediately after his arrest the young man underwent treatment for delirium tremens and hence, they pointed out, the man was not in the store under his right mind and his act was entirely without any criminal aim.

Whether or not this petition will have any part in securing a parole is a matter of much supposition to those who have attended court, though many declare that Kelly should be given another chance and that a severe sentence at this time will undoubtedly make of him a criminal.

Along the Waterfront.

The A. M. Simpson will tow a large scow which Kruse and Banks have just completed to San Francisco on its next trip. The scow is 75 feet long and is built for Henry Peterson of San Francisco, who will use it on the Sacramento river service. This makes several of this kind that Kruse and Banks have built for him.

The Flyer, which has been into a tender for the Southern Pacific bridge work is now ready for service. The other boat which Kruse and Banks built for them is also about completed.

Due to the breaking down on the backing gear of the gasoline launch Vega, plying between here and South Inlet, the gasoline boat Big Chief is on the run for the next four days.

WILLAMETTE PACIFIC CROSSES LAST OBSTACLE TO OCEAN

Reaches Lake Creek and After This Is Crossed Mapleton Is Much Nearer.

That the Willamette Pacific has already reached Lake Creek, the last obstacle between Eugene and Mapleton, which is the height of the tide water, is the substance of a report just received from the north. Railroad work will be in operation between Eugene and Mapleton, the end of the line, by October 15.

At present the bridge crew is busily engaged in throwing across Lake Creek their great iron girders and it is believed that their bridge will be complete within ten days and the remaining work to bring the line into Mapleton is but a small task.

There is a strong belief on Coos Bay that with the opening of the Willamette Pacific to the head of tidewater that passengers will practically all be routed through Florence and thence down the beach. By doing this many here are of the belief that through service would then be possible from Eugene to Marshfield in one day, providing the tides are right for the running of the auto stage on the beach.

Baseball players, actors and others are involved. Four who were arrested today are Elmer Lober, outfielder, and Robert Davis, third baseman, of the Portland Coast League team; Bert Roach, the leading man of a local stock company, and Joseph Berger, a jewelry store proprietor. ## WIRE ENDANGERS PEDESTRIANS

Youngsters Place Wire Across Sidewalk on Central Avenue—Police on Watch.

Officers are on the track of several youngsters operating in the neighborhood of Fourth street and Central avenue, who have been stretching wires across the sidewalk at night for the purpose of catching pedestrians. Should this be done again Chief of Police Carter declares he will be on the watch and will deal severely with the boys if they are caught.

J. O. Langworthy, while returning to his home about 8 o'clock, in the darkness was unable to see the wire until he was directly upon it, and did stumble, though he was able to catch himself before falling to the walk. Directly behind him came an old woman and had the wire not been discovered and removed by Mr. Langworthy, she would have been in great danger of severely injuring herself.

"It's all right for the boys to have fun, but this is far past the limit," declared Chief Carter. "We have had several reports from that vicinity in regard to this and after this the youngsters will be rigidly watched."

COOS BAY PROSPEROUS, SAYS R. M. JENNINGS

Former Eugene Man Tells of Business on the Coast.

That the cities of Coos Bay are all growing and that there is great activity in all lines of business on the Bay, is the statement of R. M. Jennings, formerly manager of the Oregon Power company's plant in Eugene, now employed in a similar capacity at Marshfield. Mr. and Mrs. Jennings are visiting friends here for a few days.

"The C. A. Smith sawmill, with a capacity of 700,000 feet of lumber each day, is operating steadily and the big pulp mill owned by the same people is starting up again on a larger order which will keep it busy for at least four or five months," said Mr. Jennings yesterday. "This order is for 4000 tons of pulp to be shipped to Japan. Other large shipments have been made from the plant during the past few months. The output of this mill is of exceedingly fine quality, indeed too fine to be used in the manufacture of the ordinary paper that is made on this coast, hence a foreign market is sought. The plant employs forty-five men when operating to its capacity."

"The work of building the big railroad bridge across the bay is being rushed," continued Mr. Jennings, "and the people of that section are expecting that the road will be completed by a year from the first of October. A trip over the right of way indicates that this prediction will be fulfilled. Everything is being rushed by the contractors and one sees great activity on almost every mile of the road between Eugene and Coos Bay."

Mr. Jennings said that there is a large force of men at work on the big bridge across the Bay and that enough gravel has been piled up at the bridge site and stored to keep the crew going all winter and spring. The gravel is obtained from a point 55 miles from the bridge. It is impossible to get it during the winter, so a large supply of the material has to be obtained during the summer months so that there will be no cessation of the work during the winter.

"The Port of Coos Bay is spending $600,000 in dredging the harbor," said Mr. Jennings, "and a channel 25 feet deep and 300 feet wide is being maintained from Smith's mill to the bar, a distance of 14 miles. We gave the government $6000 for the use of the dredge Michie which is now in operation and also gave the government $9000 to keep the dredge Oregon at work on the inner harbor."

"There is no boom on at Coos Bay, but we are enjoying a steady and natural growth. The payroll of the Smith mill is over $90,000 a month and with the payroll of the pulp mill and the other industries on the Bay, that section of the state is quite prosperous."

Mr. Jennings manages the electric and gas plants of the Oregon Power company on Coos Bay and the electric plants at Myrtle Point and Coquille. The latter two will soon be connected with the larger plant at Marshfield.

BIG LEAGUE BALL SCORES

BOSTON WORKS INTO SAFE LEAD IN NATIONAL—PHILADELPHIA LEADS AMERICAN—MILWAUKEE WINS PENNANT.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Boston worked into a safe lead for the National League pennant during the last week, and nothing but a baseball miracle can beat the Braves out of the flag. Sweeping through the six day period with a record of eight victories and only one defeat, Stalling's men established a margin of eight and a half games over the tobogganing New York's who were swamped by Chicago and St. Louis in the series at the Polo grounds, dropping five straight games before they finally managed to pull out a victory. The Braves' Sunday had but eleven more games to play and need only to win three more to clinch the championship, even should the Giants' win all their remaining eleven games.

In the American league the Bostonians lost about their last chance for the flag dropping a double header to St. Louis. One game of their double in Chicago also went by the board Sunday and the Philadelphians are within short sight of establishing their right to the 1914 championship of the league to a mathematical certainty. Detroit and Washington are bidders for third place, while Chicago, New York and St. Louis are struggling for the modest honor of topping the lower division.

Of the second division clubs, only the Clevelanders are definitely settled in position, the cellar berth having been conceded them for weeks past.

The close of the American Association's race Sunday marked the end of another tight battle for the pennant in President Chivington's league. Not until Sunday was Milwaukee definitely known the winner Louisville right up to Saturday being a contender.

In the Federal League, Chicago again attained first place, the routing of Indianapolis at the hand of Baltimore topping the Hoofeds and putting the Terrapins in the running once more.
