

AT THE SCHOOLS AND CHURCHES

FINE ADDRESS

Dr. Bertha Stuart, of the U. of O. who has been illustrating the State Manual of Recreation for schools in North Bend and Marshfield, left today on the "Breakwater" for Portland, where she is giving a course in folk dancing in Reed College for the benefit of the public school teachers in Portland. This form of extension work is new to the University and is proving very popular throughout the state. Dr. Stuart's lecture at Loggie Hall on Physical Education in Moral Training was followed by a demonstration of the folk games and dances for all those who cared to remain after the lecture. Dr. Stuart has made an impression on Coos Bay which will be long lasting among the young people and it is hoped her visit will be followed by an awakened interest in physical education in the schools.

HOW ABOUT THIS, MR. VOTER?

If you had in your employ a man who had been with you for years and who had proved by unflinching faithfulness in looking after your interests, that he was worthy of your confidence and support, would you discharge him and give his job to some untried, enthusiast, who promises great things but possesses neither the training nor experience to ensure you the same good service? Indeed you would not. Yet that is precisely what you are asked to do, when you are asked to vote against Mr. George J. Armstrong, for County Commissioner. Mr. Armstrong has, throughout his four years on the County Court, treated all sections of the county with equal consideration and absolute fairness. He has at all times advocated modern methods, wherever they tended toward economy in public expenditures. He has directly saved the county many times what the county has paid him as Commissioner, during his entire term, by getting greater returns for the money spent on road and bridge works, as the result of his eight years former experience as a member of the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors in California, before coming to Coos County. During Mr. Armstrong's incumbency, modern road building equipment has been substituted for the old time expensive hand methods in vogue when he became a member of the County Board. His aim has been and is, to make the county funds produce the greatest possible return per dollar of expenditure, a policy which, if continued by his re-election as County Commissioner, must obviously result in a lower rate of taxation, because if more can be gotten out of each dollar, there will be less dollars needed to run the county government. Mr. Voter, Mr. Armstrong has earned your confidence and respect by his past record, and you are asked to support him on November 3rd, by marking your ballot for him by placing your X between his number and name thus:
81 X George J. Armstrong.
