WITH THE TEA AND THE TOAST

GOOD EVENING.

One lesson, and only one, history may be said to repeat with distinctness—that the world is built somehow on moral foundations; that in the long run it is well with the good, in the long run it is ill with the wicked.—J. A. Froude.

SOMEHOW OR OTHER.

Life is a burden to everyone's shoulder;
None may escape from its troubles and care;
Misfit in youth and 'twill come when we're older,
And fit us as close as the garments we wear.
Sorrow comes into our home uninvited
Robbing our heart of its treasure of song;
Lovers grow cold and our friendships are slighted,
Yet somehow or other we worry along.
Midst the sweet blossoms that smile on our faces,
From the rank weeds that would poison and blight,
And e'en in the midst of earth's beautiful places
There is always a something that isn't just right.
Yet oft from the rock we may pick a gay flower,
And drink from a spring in a desolate waste;
They come to the heart as a heavenly dower,
And naught is so sweet to the eye or the taste.
Everyday toil is an everyday blessing,
Though poverty's cottage and crust we may share;
Weak is the back on which burdens are pressing,
But stout is the heart which is strengthened by prayer.
Somehow or other the pathway grows brighter
Just when we mourned there was none to befriend;
Hope in the heart makes the burden seem lighter,
And somehow or other we get to the end.

The thread of many a discourse is merely a yarn.

Some Coos Bay people are too polite to be truthful.

F. E. Westerberg says better one boll on the stove than two on the neck.

Disappointment in love saves many a man from paying alimony.

After children grow up their parents often prove a disappointment.

Some women can't lose the married look, even after the become widows.

It's easier for a man to shut up a 100-ton safe than a 100-pound wife.

The difference between a retreat and a tactical maneuver depends on the side reporting it.

The warring nations seem to have appointed President Wilson a grievance committee of one.

Probably once in about four hundred years a man who is licked in a fair fight has no excuse to offer.

One can judge a woman's wardrobe by the clothes she takes with her on a two days' visit; they are the best she has.

The ancient motto: "What is home without a mother?" has been relegated to the attic and a "Votes for Women" pennant now occupies its former place on the parlor walls.

You can't judge a Coos Bay woman's disposition by her telephone voice.

REPUBLICAN RALLY IN GRAND THEATER

County Candidates to Present Issues and Measures of The Coming Election

The second bomb of the five-day whirlwind Republican rally will burst this evening in the Grand Theater at 8 o'clock, when will be heard speakers putting before the voters their choices for office, the platforms of the party and what it means to Coos Bay.

At the meeting held last evening in North Bend at the Star Theater there was a packed house and an enthusiastic audience to greet the speakers, who were repeatedly cheered for their remarks. A. H. Derbyshire, city attorney, introduced Hall-Lewis, the county chairman, and several speakers followed in turn.

Because of the illness of Hon. C. R. Zeek, of Gold Beach, his place on the program will be taken this evening by W. U. Douglass. Live issues of the campaign will be discussed by Hon. C. I. Reigard, Hon. C. A. Seibred and Hon. I. S. Smith, all of whom are on the Republican ticket through the county.

Because of the recent decision of the Supreme Court, James Watson, Republican candidate for the office of county judge, is not accompanying the other members of the party.

R. R. Watson, candidate for county clerk, appeared on the program of last evening, and also George J. Armstrong, candidate for county commissioner, though the principal speaker of this evening will probably be P. M. Hall-Lewis, county chairman of the Republican party.

To everyone a general invitation has been issued to attend the meeting this evening in the Grand Theater at 8 o'clock.

RECEIVES PATENT FOR UNIQUE APPLE RECEIVER

Machine Chutes Apples from Top of Tree to Ground Without Bruising Them.

Joseph T. Vasey, a foreman in the Smith-Powers Logging camp near Myrtle Point, has just received a patent from the office in Washington for a machine which he has perfected and with which a person may pick apples minus the customary bucket and tramping up and down a ladder. With this arrangement the apples are sent down a chute into a large canvas basket.

Under ordinary arrangements the sliding of apples to earth in this manner would result in disastrous bruising. But to counteract this effect there are arranged within the long zinc chute small trap doors, working on springs and all well cushioned, so that each apple is gradually slid to the bottom of the hopper and entire without damage.

With this patent Mr. Vasey believes he has found a means for cutting almost in two the present cost of apple gathering. Under the old and present method each picker climbs a tree, bucket in hand, and holding this fills his bucket and then must descend the ladder when this is filled. By means of the chute a picker would be enabled to continue his picking until finished with any particular side of the tree.

The machine is a long zinc chute arising from a platform bed on which rests the canvas bag for receiving the apples from the chute. The top of the chute, or the hopper, is made fast to the trunk of the tree. The height of the chute is adjusted easily by shifting the platform at the bottom of the tree.

Already several offers have been received by Mr. Vasey, through his attorney, C. I. Reigard, but at present he is undecided what to do with his patent, which has been issued for 17 years.

EASTSIDE TO LET LANDING CONTRACT

Determined to Open McKay Street—Will Petition County Court for Money

A contract for the building of the proposed elevated road down McKay street to the harbor line, to be built as a ferry landing, will be awarded this evening at the meeting of the Eastside city council. It is probable that at the same time a petition will be framed for presentation to the county court, asking them to reconsider the order to repair the present elevated road and subscribe the $2000 on the new project.

Determination marks the efforts of the Eastside citizens to put in a new ferry landing. Displeased because of the alleged inadequacy of the present system, both as to the location and to service as well, the people there declare now that they are being driven to desperate means to secure an adequate roadway into Marshfield.

With the annexation of Cooson there are more voices being added to the protest that something must be done by the city of Marshfield if it would continue to have the trade from across the Bay.

Attorney Watkins for Eastside this morning said: "People across the Bay are hard put to it to secure transportation to and from their work in Marshfield. What they want is quick service. The present ferry starts up about 6:30 in the morning and runs approximately once an hour, though yesterday when I wished to be at Eastside at 1 o'clock I had to leave Marshfield at 11:30, for that was the last ferry for almost two hours. You see there is no chance for anyone to come home from Marshfield at noon for their dinner."

"The people there want a short elevated road to the harbor line and quick service when they get there. Paying the crew of the ferry good money should mean good service. There seems little use of having the boat stand down there idle at the slip."

There enters another point into the Eastside argument how that Cooson has been annexed. Cooson people declare they are willing to come to Marshfield and trade providing they have a road all the way. A ferry, they say, will be opened across Coos River, giving them connection with Eastside, but if there is no efficient way of getting into Marshfield they will continue to trade in North Bend.

From Allegany there has already been proposed a road into Kentuck Inlet and Cooson, declare the Eastside supporters, and for Marshfield to continue to hold that trade it will be necessary that a better ferry service be instituted. Within the past few weeks an open channel has been dredged in Willanch Inlet giving the people there a chance to get out to North Bend, which at the same time is making a strong bid for trade from up in that country.

That it is not absolutely necessary that the ferry land from McKay street to the foot of Ferry street on this side, seems the consensus of opinion in Eastside and many are favoring opening the landing which has been proposed for the foot of Commercial or Central avenues.

NOTED SUIT BEGUN

J. I. Wheeler Wants $10,000 Damages From Jackson Sheriff

To act as plaintiff in a suit against ex-Sheriff Jones of Jackson County for $10,000 damages on the grounds of false arrest, L. I. Wheeler left for Ashland.

Mr. Wheeler's announcement of the suit brings once more into the spotlight an incident which greatly surprised the people of this city three years ago, when he was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Eaton, of Jackson County, on the charge of being implicated in the murder of Nathan Rogaway, who was killed near Ashland, May 26, 1911. At the time of his arrest, Wheeler was running a grocery store on what is now Oregon avenue, opposite the school house, and although he had been here but a short time, was well thought of, and his arrest came as a surprise to local people—Bandon World.

C. C. Howell, who is in charge of the gold mining dredge at Whiskey Run is reported to be making big clean-ups. Small nuggets of gold from the size of a pin head to a pea are common, and one was scooped up the other day that weighed a trifle less than an ounce. A still more valuable find was made in the sands the first of the week when Mr. Howell discovered a one-dollar gold piece dated 1850. This had not doubt been lost in the early days when there was quite a settlement of gold miners at Whiskey Run. It was quite deeply buried in the sand, Mr. Howell is said to have been offered $125 for the coin, but has refused.—Bandon World.

Who Gets The Money

ACCORDING to the poster campaign meets defeat there will be paining of the "wets," if their some thousands of vacant stores in Portland, or words to that effect. The inference is that Portland business men will be out and injured, because there will be less money spent. We do not understand why there should be less money to spend except as the argument is made that a fewer number of people will come to Portland to spend it.

Veritable flapdoodle is all this. If the "dry cause is triumphant and in course of time, according to the provisions of the law, the saloons close their doors, the clothier and the show man and the haberdasher, and the grocer and feed man and the dry goods merchant will all be in business. They will all have goods to sell and people will come to buy them just as they do now.

In that connection there is just a thought. Do the clothiers, the shoe men, the dry goods men and the rest get the money that is brought into Portland to be spent with them? Not always. And why not? Because the saloon intercepts it.

Consider the lumberjack, for example, who comes to town with a pocket full of money—a month's or maybe a season's wages. He expects to buy clothes and shoes and all the rest of it; but before he does that he'll take a drink. That is the beginning and the beginning and the end may be in one saloon or distributed among many. As he drinks, bibulous enthusiasm possesses his soul, generosity exudes. He is a princeling as long as he has a dollar, but when his dollars are gone he is a "dub." He appears before Judge Stevenson in the morning with nothing to show for his month's or his season's work but a headache and a court record.

Did the clothing man or the shoe man, or the furnishing-goods man get his money? Not a bit of it. Who did get it? The saloons.

The bare statement of a case like that, and there are hundreds if not thousands of them, tells the whole story.—Portland Telegram. (Paid Adv.)

Vote to Save Industrial Oregon

VOTE "NO" NO. 329 AND "NO" 331

The very life of the future manufacturing and industrial progress of Oregon hinges upon the defeat of the so-called "Water Front" bills, to be voted on Tuesday, November 3rd.

So cunningly and adroitly are these bills worded there is grave danger that many people will be deceived.

If these measures become laws the result will be that the State will take title to the tidelands and submerged lands and will be prohibited from selling any of these lands. They can only be leased for docks. No more ship-yards, saw-mills, canneries or other plants requiring access to deep water—nothing but docks, docks, docks.

Every citizen of Oregon—wage earner, farmer, business man or woman, wants to prosper. These measures if enacted, will throttle progress at the gate. Investors will shun Oregon. This means no work for the wage-earner, nothing to pay the store-keeper with and therefore nothing to pass on to the farmer or producer. Let no one think these bills do not concern him.

Before you go into the booth to vote, read 329 and 331 carefully. Talk to your neighbors about them.

Oregon is rich in natural resources, but poor in development. What the state needs above everything else is outside money to come in and develop its resources. That means GOOD WAGES, PLENTY OF WORK, GOOD PRICES and GOOD TIMES.

This is not a political question; it concerns only the prosperity of Oregon and of you.

Give Progress and Good Times a helping hand by voting "No" 329 and "No" 331.
