O TEMPORA! O MORES!

The fateful November approaches, the time for the casting of votes. George Feelig is fighting the Allies and some of us long for new seats. Up and down Central Avenue candidates hurry, some of them wild in their rage, and Lemanaki admits without worry he has booked all the stars for his stage.

Soon the rain will chase in Palmetta Parker. Soon the tumult and shouting will die, we'll forget each political barker, and the pleaders for wet or dry. Along on November the thirdly there will be quite a frost. We will marvel that folks vote absurdly, while we eat to the walls of the lost.

Alf Johnson will be back in Coquille, a-voting for Gage not at all, and whether we put the said frost on his hopes here, he'll smile through it all. Having thrown our political snazam, we'll subside with a satisfied soul, till we try to stretch over the chasm that is made by the bill for Dave Musson's coal.

Then we'll plot how to get a fat turkey, at a price that is not a plain theft, when the eve of Thanksgiving grows murky, we'll pay the top notch for what's left. And then, as the year, like a candle, is flickering down, down to die, we trust that there will be no scandal in the way folks bid '14 good-bye—With apologies to the Crawfish.

CENTRAL AVENUE JOTTINGS.

Central Avenue Beauty.—The Booster's beauty editor is to have competition. Mrs. Cenia Travis has established a beauty parlor on Central Avenue in the Ladies Emporium where she will do all kinds of hair dressing, manicuring, scalp treatment, etc. and will be pleased to meet the ladies of Coos Bay.

Back to Central.—Charles Van Duen, of the Chandler is home from an extended trip through the principal cities of the United States but no where in his trip did he see any street that looked as good to him as Central Avenue. Good boy Charlie, we're glad to give you the glad hand back.

Don't Forget the French.—According to the Monday Crawfish Dr. Andy Smith, the w. k. Portland physician and also well known on Coos Bay where he has visited, says an ideal solution of the war would be to have the Germans lick the Russians, the English lick the Germans and the Irish do the rest. J. T. Harrigan says Doc is just right.

Plenty of Time.—If you lack time time just look in the Marshfield Hardware Co's. window on Central Avenue. They have Clocks that tell the time all over the world as it corresponds with time in Marshfield. J. T. Harrigan says the idea was A. E. Neffs but Neff says that Harrigan wanted to know when the fighting was going on in Europe and he had the clocks fixed up.

SOME SWELL NEW DANCES.

THE ANTI-SKID.
Dorsey Kreitzer submits the following to the society editor of the Booster as one of the swellest of the new dances, and as Dorsey is some authority on social affairs it is given a place in these columns:
The orchestra substitutes an automobile horn for the fiddle. Gent takes atomizer from his left pocket and primes himself with gasoline by spraying his necktie. Lady and gent both remove gum from mouth, divide each piece accurately and stick firmly on soles of shoes. Each takes three steps forward and seven back-

PERSONAL MENTION

JAMES WATSON is taking quite an interest in politics these days. Jim wonders whether he is or whether he isn't.

C. S. WINSOR was over from North Bend Tuesday. He says that North Bend is more excited over politics that it is over the war.

HARRY McKEOWN, dropped into the Booster office this week and told us that he didn't object to our putting his name in the paper if we needed it to help fill up.

A. T. HAINES has a lonesome look but it has brightened a little since a letter said she was on her way home. There's nothing like absence to make the heart grow fonder of hot cakes like "wifie" makes.

TOM HALL took home a sample ballot from The Times office the other night. "I always take a ballot home and mark it for my women folks," Tom told us. "I mark it for the candidates I don't want to see elected. Then I know they will vote the way I want them to."

DR. HOUSEWORTH claims that through a Times want ad he has found $1.25 purported to have been lost by him one night this week between the Catholic church and his home on the hill. He really lost it in pool with Kreitzer, Crotshawite and C. R. Peck and he says they put the ad in The Times. (When a Times want ad can recover money from such a combination it certainly gets results.)

REFLECTIONS OF A BARBER

Selected by J. I. Terrell.
If wishes were whisks all youngsters could shave.

A rolling dome gathers some gloss.

Shave his neck; he'll go away, but come right back another day.

A clip in time saves a dime.

When hairs fall out, wig-makers get their dues.

There's many a slip 'twixt the shave and tip.

One touch of whiskers makes the whole world's chin.

Hew to the skin, and let the tips fall where they will.

A RARA AVIS.

A worthy man is Thomas Woller. He never wore a rubber collar.

—H. J. McKEOWN.

A sturdy youth is Guy Gebelat; He never wore a pair of spats.

—FRANK COHAN.

A cultured youth is John Von Tamps; He never wore white socks and pumps.

—W. J. CONRAD.

STORY FOR THE DAY.

ALL AS ONE VIEWS IT.

An Irish girl called at Mrs. Green's to get the place as cook.

"Are you a plain cook?" inquired Mrs. Green.

"Well, Mum," replied the girl, "yez may think so, but Offteer Mulligan was after tellin' me that me eyes wor like th' Lakes av Killarney."—Long Green.
