LOCALS BREVITIES

TIDES FOR NOVEMBER Below is given the time and height of high and low water at Marshfield.

The tides are placed in the order of occurrence, with the times on the first line, and heights on the second line of each day; a comparison of consecutive heights will indicate whether it is high or low water. For high water on the bar subtract two hours 34 minutes.

Table with 3 columns: Time, Height, and another column. Rows represent tide data for various days in November.

WEATHER FORECAST (By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times)

OREGON—Cloudy and probably rain in West, rain or snow in East, Southwesterly winds.

LOCAL TEMPERATURE RECORD

Ostlund, standard government meteorologist: Maximum... 51 Minimum... 39 At 4:43 a. m. ... 45 Precipitation... 0.7 Precipitation since Sept. 1, 1914... 18.89 Precipitation same period last year... 11.17 Wind... Southwest, partly cloudy and rainy.

Change in Time.—Commencing today the launch Express will leave the head of navigation at 3 o'clock in the afternoon instead of 3:30 as heretofore.

To Plan For Rest Room.—There will be a special meeting of the Coos Bay Men's Club this evening at the home of Mrs. J. Wright Wilson when plans for financing a permanent public rest room will be considered.

New Location.—Chas. Stauff has leased the building on Front Street near Central, recently vacated by W. J. Rust, and will move his grocery business there about this week and Hansen will utilize the quarters which he will vacate at Commercial and Front.

No Council Meeting.—There will be no meeting of the city council this evening, the City Fathers having decided the business of the city is not a pressing nature this week and thereby the treasurer is saved the sum of $14. The next meeting will be on Nov. 23.

Begin Cheese Shipments.—After a dull fall in which the price of cheese has been low and the demand below normal the market is again taking a rise and this morning the Coos Bay Creamery on Coos River sent down 25 cases of cheese for shipment to Eureka. During a good season hundreds of cases are sent from this creamery.

He Didn't Mean To.—That he didn't mean to get drunk and that he had sworn only $15 before coming to town from his work at South Inlet was the plea of Frank Koskne before Police Judge Butler. Having had his good time Koskne was without funds this morning and hence unable to pay his $5 assessment into the coffers of the city. This he promised to attend to the next time he comes to town and the Judge allowed Koskne to go back to his work.

Adds New Lines.—J. N. Bayliss returned today from a business trip to Portland, where he made some advantageous connections with prominent Portland concerns to represent them on Coos Bay and in Coos county. Among the houses he will represent are the Dennison Building The Co., the Portland Sheet and Metal Works, metal sash and doors, and Portland Boat Works. These are all in addition to the lines already carried at "The Fireside."

Many Receive Trees.—Representatives of the Oregon, the Albany and the Capital City Nurseries visited the Coos Bay last spring taking orders for ornamental and fruit trees. The deliveries of these orders have just been made and hundreds of trees were taken from the boxes at the foot of Commercial Avenue and distributed to their owners. It was noticeable that a good share were fruit trees showing the tendency of the Coos Bay farmers to take more seriously to the idea of fruit raising for more than family use.

Plenty Water on the Bar.—That four or five days soundings of the Bar ascertained the fact that there is at least 21 feet at low tide and more or more than 22 at high water statement today of Roy Rozell who accompanied C. R. Wright, a government engineer of Portland, when he took readings on the Bar a few days ago. On a gasoline boat the men took soundings first going directly across the Bar and returning and later they crossed at right angles, dropping their lead for depth every 50 feet. These figures will be given to Major Morrow.

Life Saving Man Hero.—E. H. Ropes, of the Life Saving Bureau at Washington, D. C., came down this morning from Portland on the Elder which he left at North Bend meeting a tender from the Coos Bay Life Saving Station there in which he visited the station down the Bay. It is believed he is an inspector appointed to examine into the movement of the Station across to Charles ton Bay.

That the exhibition of the new Dodge car, the appearance of which automobilists throughout the country have been looking forward to with the keenest of interest, in Chicago last week drew a crowd that would make a metropolitan sensation seem tame, was the story by J. H. McDiarmid of Portland, manager of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company's business in this district, who arrived here today.

Mr. McDiarmid has just returned from a trip east and happened to arrive in Chicago the same day that the first of the new cars reached there.

The agency in Chicago is located on Michigan avenue, about five blocks below the Congress Hotel," he said. "We reached there before the display room was opened and at least 1500 people were gathered in the street outside. When the door opened, there was a bargain counter rush. The police had gathered round. Once we got started we just had to keep going and I was barely able to get a good look at the front, a glance at the side and at the rear as the crowd pushed us ahead."

"The Dodge car is a beauty and will make the greatest hit ever. If you have seen the 1915 Oakland, you can form an idea of it. The Dodge car is minus the bull nose of the Oakland and is consequently more attractive. The body is arranged so that the occupants of the rear seat can look forward past those in the front seat without craning their necks to do so. It is a fine feature and only found in some of the highest priced cars. The Dodge car has a number of other attractive and valuable features which must be seen to be appreciated. I noticed that Dodge Brothers had doubled the capacity of their factory in an effort to fill their orders, but I am certain the car will have a greater run this year than any car ever has had."

George Goodrum, who has taken the Southwestern Oregon agency for the car, heard Mr. McDiarmid tell his story and was all wreathed in smiles. Mr. Goodrum is expecting a demonstration car soon and will have the pictures and detailed description of the new car in a day or so.

BOX OF CRACKERS MAY BE DOWNFALL

Paroled Man Faces Long Prison Sentence for Pilfering Food at Ocean Dock.

Theft of a box of crackers from the Ocean Dock may be the cause of sending John Kelly to prison to serve out a one to seven year sentence. He was paroled at Coquille but three weeks ago after being sentenced to the penitentiary for stealing clothes in Bandon. Late Saturday afternoon Officer Richardson arrested the man and today he was taken to the county seat in custody of Constable Cox for examination before Prosecuting Attorney Lilleqvist.

Disappearance of small articles from the warehouse at the Ocean Dock has bothered the agents of the Swayne and Hoyt line for the last two weeks. Several men have been seen about the building and W. P. Murphy began a "still" hunt for the guilty parties.

His efforts were rewarded when Saturday Kelly entered the warehouse and talked for a few minutes and then casually walked out. A moment later he reappeared and this time shyly slid a box of crackers under his arm when he left. The box he deposited among some timbers. Mr. Murphy immediately called a policeman but when Officer Richardson took the man in custody he denied all knowledge of the crackers.

Several months ago Kelly was caught stealing at Bandon. He was arrested and sent to Coquille where he spent four months in the county jail awaiting the action of the grand jury and at this fall term of court had his trial and was given the sentence of one from one to seven years. At the time the grand jury unanimously asked that Kelly be paroled. Judge Coke gave him his liberty and Kelly came to Marshfield where he has remained since then.

Whether or not the theft in which he was detected by W. P. Murphy will be enough to send the man to serve his long sentence is a matter to be decided by Judge Coke and Prosecuting Attorney Lilleqvist.
