IF THERE HAD BEEN CENSORS THEN

Cain came in touch with Abel.
The Philistines slew Samson. (Of-ficial.)

David and Goliath are believed to be feeling each other's strength in the valley of Elah. The result of the engagement will not be known for ten days, at least.

The Israelite infantry is reported as having been maneuvering in the outskirts of Jerico for the last seven days. Fugitives from the disturbed district report that several sections of the Jerico City wall need new cement.

The Trojan War Office issues the following bulletin: "Accounts of the fall of Troy are obviously inspired by the Greek government for the purpose of injuring Trojan credit abroad. Troy has not fallen. She has only slipped."

All Gaul is divided into three parts. Reports of the defeat of General Caesar's army in brushes with the Belgians, the Aquitanians and the Celts are not to be credited.

A slight skirmish is said to have occurred between the Allies under Wellington and Blucher and the French under Napoleon at the village of Waterloo. Several shots were exchanged and the French withdrew for strategic reasons.

HASSAN'S PROVERB.

THING HASSAN, well beloved, was wont to say
When aught went wrong or any project failed,
"Tomorrow, friends, will be another day."

And in that faith he slept and so prevailed.

Long live this proverb! While the world shall roll
Tomorrow's fresh shall rise from out the night
And now baptize the indomitable soul
With courage for its never ending fight.

No one, I say, is conquered till he yields,
And yield he need not while, like mist from glass,
God wipes the stain of life old battle-fields
From every morning that he brings to pass.

New day, new hope, new courage—let this be,
O soul, thy cheerful creed! What's yesterday
With all its shards and wrack and grief to thee?
Forget it, then. Here lies the victor's way.

—James Buckham.

WAR NEWS.

"Say," remarked J. T. Harrigan to George Seelig as George passed on his way to the bulletin board, "have you noticed the Kaiser has been moving his troops from Lyck?"

THE VERY LATEST FROM THE FRONT

(From the Lindsborg Posten.)
Turklet sum for sex dagar sedan genom en sjoctack pa Svarta havet innevaktat sig i kriget, har nu bedt om ursakt. England hade vantat harpa och hade ej annu forklarlat krig mot Turkiet.

"This war," A. T. Haines says, "is a pert educator along geographical lines, but it is costing rather more than the education is worth."

ST. PETER'S COURT (Via Simpleton to the Booster)—A Neverexist who arrived today unfolded the great secret of the engagement last summer off Shore Acres. The Dreadnots Thunder and Chain Lightning were engaged for several hours. Soon after the Ralndrop appeared on the scene, the Lightning disappeared entirely and the Dreadnot Thunder rolled away. The solving of the mystery caused much Thanksgiving and the news was ordered sent immediately to the Booster.

The British battleship Bulwark may have dreaded naught, but she would have been wise if she had.

CENTRAL AVENUE SAYINGS

A woman won't stand for anyone else abusing her husband. That is her exclusive privilege.

After meeting a nice young man for the first time a girl always lays awake for an hour wondering if she has made an impression.

The old-fashioned girl who used to have to carry the washtub up to her room when she wanted to take a bath had rosier cheeks than the girl who finds it work to turn on the faucets these days.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who used a moustache cup?

Every wife imagines that all the men she knows envy her husband.

Women are all alike, but have an idea that the dear things are all different.

A child receives kisses free, but a young man has to steal them and an old man has to buy them.

Occasionally we meet a man who speaks his wife's mind when he talks. The less some men know about anything the louder they talk about it.

Many a man's success, like that of a good actor, is due to a good manager.

Arm yourself with a dark lantern when looking for honor among thieves.

It takes an unusually handsome woman to wreck a sensible man's train of thought.

Sometimes a man has to be smart in order to make enough money to support his grownup sons.

SADDEST WORDS IN COOS CO.

Of all sad words under the sun
The saddest are these: "the wrong man won."

—From an unpublished poem by Sheriff Gage.

CENTRAL AVENUE JOTTINGS.

Flies Gone.—It looks like as if the wet spell had discouraged the flies, if anything can, which is a good thing say we.

Women Voters.—The late election settled one thing and that was that the women were libeled when someone sardened the story that when the women voted ballot boxes would button up the back.

A Problem in Strategy.—J. T. Harrigan of the war college board would like to know if the allies take a few pawnshops will they then be able to hoch der kaiser.

The Difference.—Eugene Crosshwaite says the difference between associating with a minister and a pickpocket is simply this: the pickpocket may slip your watch, but the minister will watch your slips.

Thomas on Duck Hunt.—If L. L. Thomas makes any brags about shooting a bunch of ducks on his Thanksgiving Day hunt, you may know he is falsifying, for he promised ye Ed a duck from his next bag and ye Ed has received no duck up to the hour of going to press.

A Philanthropist.—They were discussing the Belgian fund in "The Owl" store yesterday when Frank Colan, who is something of a philosopher remarked that "a philanthropist is a man who would rather distribute 10,000 collar buttons among 10,000 men than give one man a shirt."

Enough is Enough.—A traveling salesman from San Francisco stopping at The Chandler, received the following telegram from his wife: "Twins arrived tonight. More by mail." Rushing over to the Western Union he wired back: "If any more arrived by mail send them to the dead letter office."

PERSONAL MENTION

DR. A. L. HOUSEWORTH is provoked because we didn't mention him last week or week before and threatened to stop his paper. We hate to lose so good a subscriber, especially if his subscription isn't paid.

J. T. HARRIGAN walks on the south side of Central Avenue now since Henry Sengstacken made certain scurrilous and slanderous remarks concerning the speed of the Harrigan automobile.

HARRY M'KEOWN, mine gentel host at The Chandler, gave a charming dansant, whatever that is, at his popular hostelry last night. Harry is getting to be a regular social butterfly. Avast there, Harry.

J. F. TELANDER is preparing to make a trip to his black sand mines in Curry to look over the prospects. J. T. is going to make Monte Cristo look like a piker, and as he is going in for politics, too, he will probably make Senator Clarke of Montana look like an "also ran."

GENEROUS.

(At the Chandler.)
I caused the poor waitress to feel
I'm generous and really good hearted;

As soon as I finished my meal,
I tipped her a wink and departed.

CHEER UP!

Things could be worse,
Don't fret and sigh;
For you don't have
To swat the fly.

—RAY OLLIVANT.
For all, the Straight-and-Narrow Way is the approved roadway.

And yet most of us, strange to say,
Feel strangely drawn to Broadway.

—W. B. CURTIS.

LONGFELLOW REVISED.

He stood on the bridge at twilight,
In his muddy football clothes—
The bridge by the way belonged to
The rival half-back's nose.
