A JOB FOR SANTA

If I were Santa Claus this year
I'd seek the trenches far Where all the men, with gun and spear,
In gory conflict are.
I'd end for them the bitter strife,
And bid the warfare cease,
To every man, I'd give for life
A Christmas gift of peace.

I'd rob the cannon of their hate,
The rifles of their sting,
And to the humble and the great This message would I bring:
"Go home to wives and children bright,
Go back to love and fun.
Peace reigns above the world tonight
And all the fighting's done."

If I were Santa Claus this year
I'd give the daddies back To children waiting far and near,
To greet them with a smack,
And husband I'd return to wives,
And sons, to mothers, too;
I'd brighten many dreary lives Before my work was through.

It WILL be a dancing winter.
Although there seems to be no definite reason for believing this pronouncement to be a true prophesy, yet from New York to San Francisco the edict has been accepted, and the character of the amusement having been decided upon, attention is focused upon the dances that will capture popular favor.

With the fortnightly dances of the Elks and Eagles, and the Owls social committee active along the same line, the delightful dances at The Chandler, which are coming to be looked forward to, and the usual round of dances by the other clubs and societies, there will be opportunities galore for dancing.

What promises to be one of the most important of these scheduled for the immediate future is the Charity Ball to be given by the ladies of St. Monica's on December
