END MILL SLOUGH DRAIN TROUBLES

A joint meeting of the Port Commission and City Council is being held this afternoon to settle the Mill Slough drain difficulties. It appears that they will agree on a basis of the city paying the port $1000 and the latter then defraying all costs of opening the drain and putting a new drain in the north arm of the slough.

PAROLED MEN TO BE TRIED TODAY

Gustafson and Kelly Up in Circuit Court—Other Matters Stated for Trial

Judge Coke left this morning for Coquille to resume the December term of circuit court which was adjourned for the holidays. The criminal cases will be called first this morning and if they are not all ready for trial, other jury cases will be taken on so that the jury can be excused just as soon as possible. This will leave the equity business for the windup of the session.

Among the cases to come up are those of John Kelly, under parole, who was arrested for the theft of goods along the wharf. Another is that of Gustafson, a well known character on the Bay, who was also under parole and who was arrested by Officer Doane when he found him intoxicated. One of the provisions of Gustafson's parole was that he abstain from the use of intoxicants. He was on the blacklist. Since his arrest he refuses absolutely to tell who gave him the liquor.

Another criminal case to come up today is that of a prisoner named Frances, arrested for robbing the Owl saloon till.

The case of McVey of North Bend, under indictment, will be one of the last criminal cases called.

Whether the perjury cases of Mrs. Ruby Simpson-Noller and Mrs. Pfortner, growing out of the Treadgold-Simpson-Coach mixup at Bandon, will be ready for trial this week is not certain.

It is doubtful if the suit of W. P. Murphy, as representative of the creditors of the late F. S. Dow, to secure $5000 life insurance left by Mr. Dow will come up for trial at this term of court. The insurance policies were changed, making Mrs. F. S. Dow instead of the F. S. Dow estate the beneficiary shortly prior to Mr. Dow's tragic death. Hence the suit of the creditors of the estate.

GOLD BEACH DEAL.

One of the most important real estate deals that has been consummated in these parts for many years was "put over the plate" last week by D. M. Moore and J. R. Stannard when they closed the deal with the Strahan estate for the six acre tract of land lying north of the Presbyterian church and west of the county road.

GLADING NEARS COMPLETION.

The work of grading for the railroad near the Umpqua and Smith Rivers is very nearly done, and will be finished in ten days, the only part remaining at present to be done being along Smith River this side of Jack France Slough. Work will then commence of laying rails from Jack France Slough to Five Mile Lake, so as to enable the railroad company to transport lumber and piles from Smith River to the Lake country over this part of the road, which will be more convenient and cheaper than hauling over the hill by wagon. The work in the lake country between here and the Sluslaw is steadily progressing, and this gap will be finished by fall if not sooner, as it is the intention of the contractors to bring in all the heavy material to be used in building the bridges across the Smith and Umpqua rivers over the road from Eugene and also a great deal of the material which will be used in building the bridge at Coos Bay. A great deal of bridge material for the bridges across the Umpqua and Smith rivers is stored at Reedsport, together with the cement which will be required in the building of the same.—Gardiner Courier.

WORK AT BROOKINGS.

New Mill Is Now Cutting 75,000 Feet Per Day.

Editor Masters of the Gold Beach Globe writes:

At Brookings we found everything aglow with business from early morn until late at night. The west half of the mill is now running full blast, cutting on an average of seventy-five thousand feet of lumber per day. The company is at present getting logs from the mountain south of the river and east from the Chetco ferry, bringing them off the mountain into the river in a chute built for the purpose. The logs float down the river for a short distance where they are hauled out and loaded onto logging cars and hauled to the big dam at the mill. The company has the road complete about three miles up the river and the right of way cleared for about a mile and a half above the end of ties and rails.

The company now has a pay roll of about $10,000 per month, and are increasing their plant and improving the townsite as fast as possible. The mill with its electric lights and the hum and buzz of machinery, together with the whistling of the locomotives, donkey engines, steam cranes, etc., reminds the stranger more of being in a large manufacturing city, rather than in a secluded spot in Curry county.

We also visited the county's $7000 monument in the shape of the Chetco bridge. All there is in evidence to the casual observer for the large sum of money paid out by the county is a few pilings standing in the river and a cement pier on the south bank.
