LEMANSKI THEATER TONIGHT

THE HOME OF BIG FEATURES AND VAUDEVILLE

The World Film Corporation presents "Protea 2," in five parts, showing the famous detective, Protea, in another series of thrilling and startling adventures. This photo feature is of the highest quality and best photography of any shown yet. It is a picture that you will go away still talking about.

Bob Leonard and Ella Hall in "The Bob's Nemesis." A melodrama written and produced by Mr. Leonard.

Here tomorrow night, Daniel Frohman presents William Farnum in the Progressive motion picture feature, "The Redemption of David Corson."

New vaudeville act. O'Dell and Hart, comedians, here tomorrow night.

day night. A dog made it pretty lively for the intruder, who was apparently trying to gain entrance to the house, but no trace of him could be found when the officers reached the house. Mr. Powers was out of town that night.

Postpone Service.—Owing to inclement weather, Rev. R. E. Browning has decided not to hold services at the Bunker Hill chapel this evening.

Pays Traffic Fine.—Fred Holmes appeared before Police Judge Butler this afternoon, pleaded guilty to running his machine on the wrong side of the street and paid a $5 fine.

Comes Back Married.—J. S. Edwards, a barber in the Bradford shop, left here two weeks ago for Salem—a single man. He came back yesterday on the Elder bringing his bride with him. The young couple are now receiving many congratulations.

Will Be Band Concert.—Director Fenton of the Coos Bay Band, this morning announced there will be a public band concert Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Because the Masonic opera house is now undergoing repairs it is not yet known whether the concert will be held there or in the Lemanski Theater.

North Bend Paper.—A Portland paper says: "B. B. Weldy, who has been at the Imperial for several days, left last night for North Bend, to take up his duties as editor of a new paper, 'Oregon Coast Daily Guide,' which will come out for the first time in about ten days. He was joined by his family last night at Albany."

Breakwater Captain.—According to a Portland paper, Capt. Archie Cann, a well-known Portland pilot, will be charge of the Breakwater for one trip and then Capt. H. C. Nelson, formerly of the M. F. Plant and Nann Smith, is expected to assume command. Capt. Macgenn has to leave Portland this week for Washington on the jetty proposition.

Elder Takes Six.—There were six passengers aboard the George W. Elder from Marshfield when the ship left her dock this morning continuing the trip to Eureka. She is expected back in here Thursday morning, providing the bar conditions at both ports will permit. Those who went south this morning were Lqrona Stone, H. F. Hart, C. Tower, Linn G. Sann, Walter Morgan and E. Duffy.

Delegation Still Undecided.—Coos Bay's delegation to the National Congress for the purpose of working for harbor appropriations is still undecided today according to Henry Sengstacken, who declares that no word has yet been received from C. A. Smith, in Chicago; Captain Macgenn in Portland or from L. J. Simpson, in Oakland. It is presumed that Captain Macgenn will be here tomorrow with the Breakwater.

Czarina Anniversary.—Today, January 13, is the fifth anniversary of the wreck of the steam schooner Czarina which went ashore at the entrance to Coos Bay during a howling gale in which 26 men gradually dropped from the rigging, within sight of shore, and gave up the struggle for life in the heavy seas that pounded them landward. There was only one survivor of this wreck to really celebrate at the anniversary, and he has gone, no one knows where.

Delay May Mean Another Week.—Yesterday was the weekly day for the handing down of Supreme Court decisions. Judge Hall expected that some word would come regarding the Coos county judgeship but no word was received and it is expected this will mean the delay of another week before a decision is rendered. Meanwhile the business of the county judge's office is being held up, both Judge Hall and James Watson being at a standstill as to what action they should take.

Here to Visit.—Lew Keyser arrived today from Los Angeles for a couple of weeks visit with friends here. He has been staying at the Hippodrome Theater in Los Angeles, which seats 3000, playing one performance in the afternoon and two in the evening. He will probably be pressed into service for a few musical numbers during his stay here as every music lover on the Bay wants to hear and dance to Lew Keyser's violin again. He says that while Los Angeles is nice, he misses Coos Bay greatly.

Brother Dangerously Ill.—Dr. Houseworth yesterday afternoon received a telegram from Guthrie, Oklahoma, his old home, stating that his brother, Dr. J. L. Houseworth, had just undergone a serious operation for blood poisoning in the arm. A wife was immediately dispatched to the wife of the sick brother stating that Dr. Houseworth would come at once if necessary and he was informed that there was no immediate danger. These two brothers are twins and for several years were engaged in practicing in Guthrie. About four years ago Dr. J. L. Houseworth came to Coos Bay visiting and while here made many friends.

Wed in February.—Friends have been apprised of the wedding of two well-known Coos Bay young couples, which will take place next month. The first will be that of Miss Ruth Magary and Earl Simmons. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Magary of West Marshfield, and has been employed in Dr. Vaughn's office. Mr. Simmons is an instructor in the Gravel Ford Academy. The other is the marriage of Miss Maggie Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robertson, of Seattle, and Harry Johnson, of the Eastside Star Grocery, which will take place February 14, St. Valentine's day.

Mrs. J. Irving Smith of Loon Lake is seriously ill of pneumonia at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Coffelt, in North Bend.

DEER SLAYER IS GIVEN PAROLE

Deputy Game Warden Thomas Tells of Trials in Langlois Case—Boswick Guilty

Deputy Game Warden James Thomas returned today from Langlois where he went to prosecute Ed Boswick, charged with killing deer out of season near his homestead in the upper Flores Creek district. Langlois pleaded guilty, was fined $150 and costs and paroled by Justice Cox.

In bringing the case to trial, Mr. Thomas had troubles of his own. It seems that Editor Smith, of the Langlois Leader, was elected Justice there to succeed Justice Cox. He had qualified except to file the bond and consequently had not received official sanction. He did not want to hear the case and Justice Cox did not want to, fearing that it would be illegal, as his term expired January 1. Finally Mr. Thomas called up District Attorney Meredith by phone and the latter instructed Mr. Cox to go ahead with the hearing as he must hold office until his successor qualifies.

Boswick had first pleaded guilty to Mr. Thomas and another witness but in the courtroom, prior to the opening of court, Ike Cross got to talk with Boswick and the latter asked for a jury trial. Justice Cox censured Boswick and Mr. Thomas told him if he went to the expense of a jury trial, he would file two or three other charges against him. Finally Boswick decided to ignore Cross' advice and pleaded guilty.

He was without funds and to make him serve out the time in jail would do no good. Then Game Warden Thomas remembered Mrs. Boswick and the little daughter in the lonely cabin in the hills and he decided to urge a parole during good behavior. Justice Cox concurred and Boswick was paroled.

MICHIE TO SAVE HUMBOLDT MONEY

Engineer Morton Tower Says Bar Dredge Proving Unusual Success There

EUREKA, Cal., Jan. 13.—A saving of nearly $50,000 is what the government dredger Colonel P. S. Michie will realize on the work in Humboldt Bay. The Michie, the first dredger of its type ever built, is engaged in its initial operations. It was built for use on the Oregon coast and will operate largely in the vicinity of Coos Bay and on the Columbia River. It was sent here for a try-out when the government found it difficult to contract with a dredging firm to handle the Humboldt Bay work within the limits of the available appropriation.

"The Michie might be called an experiment," said Morton L. Tower, government engineer in charge of the reconstruction of the Humboldt jetties, "but it is a remarkably successful experiment. It not only does its work well but cheaply. Furthermore it is speedy for in the 34 days it worked up to December 20, following its arrival on November 16, a total of 68,000 cubic yards of mud was removed from the channel."

The former dredging operations on this bay were paid from an appropriation of close to $85,000. The appropriation under which the Michie is working amounts to only $30,000 and $5000 of that amount had been spent for other work. However, the $25,000 remaining will be sufficient to clear out the channel as planned.

The dredger is so constructed that all of the debris it removes from the bottom of the bay is contained in the hull. When the hull becomes full the dredger puts to sea and dumps its cargo. It takes 1268 cubic yards of mud to fill the six bins.

This method has been criticized for loss of time, but the Michie works with greater speed than any dredger which has ever visited this bay.

Major J. J. Morrow, in charge of the engineer corps, with headquarters at Portland, visited the Michie prior to his departure for Fort Leavenworth, and pronounced its work highly satisfactory. Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas H. Rees, in charge of the California district wherein Humboldt Bay is located, has also inspected the work and is highly pleased.
