HARD TO FIND POISON TRACES

Analysis to be Made by State Chemist in Russel Case at Myrtle Point.

(Special to The Times.)
COQUILLE, Or., Jan. 19.--Owing to the lapse of three years and the decomposition of the body in that time, Sheriff Johnson and District Attorney Lilleqvist are dubious as to what may be accomplished by examining the body of Rancher Russell, near Myrtle Point, who is alleged to have been poisoned. However, they will assist Coroner Wilson and are trusting that they will be able to secure parts of the anatomy that will enable the state chemist to make a thorough analysis.

If a mineral poison was used, there is very little doubt but that the analysis will show it. However, if a vegetable poison was used, there is a question. While the contents of the stomach are generally used in an analysis to determine the presence of poisoning, it is said that if the body could have been secured soon after death for an autopsy, the kidneys would have shown the poisoning better than the stomach, that is, if he was poisoned, as alleged in Penion's sworn statement.

Considerable circumstantial evidence has been obtained and when Penion returns, it is believed that the legal investigation will be started. However, until the results of the analysis by the state chemist are secured, little can be done. It is said that cases of this kind are extremely difficult to establish. Even though there is a confession, it will be first necessary to produce positive proof that a crime has been committed. The motive back of the alleged crime has not been established other than through reported perfidy and jealousy. It is claimed that money was not a factor in the case.

GRISMAN SHIP IS BARRIED BY ENGLAND

(By Associated Press to Cos Bay Times.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.--The British government will not consent to allow the steamer Baltic, recently transferred from German to American registry, to proceed to Rotterdam under safe conduct with a cargo of cotton, the State Department was notified from London.

The British reply to the suggestion for safe conduct, correctly made by the State Department, came through the American Embassy at London. While the rest of the message is withheld, it is known the British objection is based broadly on retaliation to create a precedent, which it is felt would be followed by many similar purchases of German ships to America and efforts to separate them on foreign trade routes.

Albert Gunnell, of Catching Inlet, appeared before Justice Pennek today and pleaded guilty to a charge of killing a deer out of season and paid a fine of $25 and costs. The charges were preferred by Deputy Game Warden Thomas.

There was a heavy snow in the Arras region, where our artillery on several occasions silenced the enemy's batteries. A fairly spirited engagement has been developing at Valenciennes, where following the breaking out of several fires, we were compelled during the night of January 17-18 to evacuate our positions. These, however, were recaptured yesterday. In the sector of Soissons, the bombardment of the suburb of St. Paul on the night of January 17-18 was not followed by an infantry attack and yesterday passed in absolute calm. Attacks in Le Pretre Forest and Near St. Mihiel Made By French Again

BERLIN SAYS NOTHING IMPORTANT OCCURRED
Russia Thinks Encircling Movement Near Warsaw Will Change Situation

(By Associated Press to Cos Bay Times.)
LONDON, Jan. 19.--A further advance in the effort to pierce the German line above St. Mihiel, near the eastern end of the battle line in France, is announced in the Paris communication. It is said that another German field work in the Le Pretre forest was captured and 100 yards of German trenches occupied. At the same time the Allies are attempting to press forward to the northeast of St. Mihiel. These two movements, if successful, would cut through the German line or compel the evacuation of St. Mihiel.

The French have retaken the positions at Laboulle captured by the Germans, according to the French statement. The German statement says that an action of importance has occurred along the entire western front.

Russian attacks north of the Vistula river were repulsed with heavy losses, Berlin says.

Petrograd believes the Russian encircling movement in both the north and south will compel the Germans to break through the Warsaw front or retreat north to the German border.
