TANGO AND RESTAURANT SIDE-STEP FOR QUADRILLES

Old-Time Dances Revived by Old-Time Dancers at Jolly Gathering.

"My girl's pretty and so is yours," You swing mine and I'll swing yours," barked the caller. At the corner a piano, a fiddle and a violin worked overtime, while in the center of the floor merry married couples laughed and fairly bounced themselves with glee as they heard the old tunes again and their feet unconsciously carried them through the maze of the old-time dances.

The occasion was the "top" of the Quadrille Club Saturday evening in the I. O. O. F. hall. Dancers, some of them, who had not danced for 25 years, came to join the throng.

"These dances and restatons can't hold a candle to the ways we used to dance," remarked Levi Smith as Coos River ran very many days ago. On this remark hinges the revival of the dances and the forming of the club.

Seventy-six ladies reported for the opening; there was a quartet of men. "Make 'em stay home with the children," was a feminine remark, and the dance was on.

"Get your partners," shouted the callers, Carl Albrecht, Frank Lowe and Levi Smith. Everyone rose to the occasion. The musicians struck up "Money Musk." Al Harrington played the piano, Frank Smith brought harmony forth from a banjo and Levi Helmsner and Mr. Adams tested their chins on the fiddle and fiddled up as they did in the good old days.

The crowd thoroughly enjoyed the venture, coming away declaring enthusiastically that the new fashioned "corkscrew bends" and slippery "skidlers" have not a thing on the schottisches and quadrilles.

PLAN TO CHANGE OREGON GAME LAW

State Sportsmen's Association Recommends Changes in Seasons—New Dates

The following recommendations were made at a recent meeting of the Oregon Sportsmen's League, at Portland, and are of considerable interest to the sportsmen of this state:

It is recommended that the law be changed to provide for the opening of the deer season September 1, instead of August 1, as at present.

Some—Oregon is one of only a few states where deer are not protected in August. In this state deer killed in August are in very poor condition, moreover the weather being so warm much of the meat spoils before it can be used. Many times are killed by accident or otherwise, that have small horns and these horns are not old enough to arrive. The loss from this source is very large.

The danger from fire in August is greater than at any other period of the year, and since two-thirds of the forest of the state is privately owned the consideration should be given to this class. Closing the deer season during August will greatly reduce the fire hazard and loss.

It is recommended that the China pheasant law be changed to provide a bag limit of five birds in a day, or ten birds in seven consecutive days, each bag of five to permit of or to exceed two females.

Some—Since the male China pheasant is not a natural polygamist bird, but mates and assists in rearing the brood, the present law of permitting the killing of male China pheasants only, has resulted in decreasing the male sex to that extent that a large per cent of China pheasant eggs are infertile. The proposed change in the law to include two female China pheasants in each bag limit is to better protect the male bird and increase production.

It is recommended that there be no change in the law affecting the game land, or the State Park and Game Commission, or in any laws in relation to migratory birds, until the constitutionality of the Federal law in regard to migratory birds has been determined.

It is recommended that a resolution be framed asking the Oregon Legislature to confer with the Legislatures of California, Washington and Idaho, in the end that a uniform law may be enacted in such of the above states pertaining to game licenses and the protection of game birds and game animals along the state lines, which at the present time conflict.

It is recommended that the law be changed to prohibit net fishing on the Willamette River from Oregon City falls to its mouth.

It is recommended that the law be changed to provide for the killing of China pheasants from October 1 to October 15 in Jackson and Union counties.

It is recommended that the law be changed to provide for the open season on prairie chickens from September 15 to October 15, inclusive, in Wasco County.

It is recommended that the law be changed to provide for the opening of the grouse season in Gresham District No. 2, on August 15, and close October 15.

DAMAGES FOR SON'S DEATH

Alva Bacon, Formerly of North Bend Now Slayer of Boy.

The following from a Salem paper will be of interest here as the Bacon family formerly lived at North Bend, moving from there to near Salem a few months ago:

Alleging that general damages in the sum of $1121.50 for the loss of his son and claiming punitive damages in the extent of $10,000, Alva Bacon this morning filed suit against Blaine Grazer to collect the above damages in the circuit court of this county. Elmer Bacon, the son of Alva Bacon, was shot and killed January 4 of this year and the subsequent confession of Blaine Grazer showed that he was the person who fired the fatal shot.

Bacon states in his complaint that his son, Elmer Bacon, was born February 23, 1893, and that the boy had been of sober and industrious habits since birth. He states that at the time of his death the boy was earning $1.50 per day cutting wood. By reason of the loss of the support and assistance of his son he alleges a loss of the amount asked for general damages. Blaine Grazer, who will be placed on trial for the murder of the young man, owns an acreage tract about a mile from Liberty.

CHAS. H. ZEVELY IS UNDER ARREST

School Teacher, Formerly of Coos County, Faces Serious Charge at Eugene

EUGENE, Or., Jan. 25.—George Croner, deputy sheriff, returned to Eugene from Oakridge, 20 miles east of Eugene, with Charles Zevely, formerly principal of the Oakridge grade school. He is charged with contributing to the delinquency of Rachel Miller, a 17-year-old pupil in his school, whose death followed childbirth, a week ago. Her death, it is stated, resulted from loss of blood, due to the failure to have a physician present. The boy will live.

The complaining witness is Thomas Miller, father of the school girl, now residing at Cottage Grove. The daughter sought to protect the name of the man who had wronged her, but before her death she broke her seal of silence and confessed on her death bed to her mother that her former teacher was the father of the child.

She stated that he had kept her after school on a disciplinary matter one day and that his attentions had followed. Childbirth is dated at the occurrence. The girl was killed by the entire community.

From Coos Bay.
Zevely stood high, especially as a teacher. He is about 35 years of age and was regarded as the best teacher the school ever had and his pupils progressed rapidly, according to statements made to the district attorney. He came here from the Coos Bay district and is said to have always borne a good reputation.

The action taken by the officers today is believed to have prevented personal violence to the man. According to J. M. Devoon, District Attorney, a mob of some 25 engaged men was formed two nights ago and looked only a leader to direct them in making the law into their own hands.

The school was closed Tuesday and the principal's resignation was received Wednesday night following investigation by the District Attorney. He was found packing his household goods, having the deed of his property. He pleads innocence.

The man was brought before Justice of the Peace Wells and bound over to the grand jury on $2000 bonds which he failed to furnish. He wife does not believe him guilty.

REEDSPORT WATER SYSTEM

Actual Construction Starts to Bring Clear Lake Water to This Town.

Actual construction of the new Clear Lake Water system to supply the town of Reedport will start in a few days. E. L. Robinson left yesterday for there to look after the canal work for which the contract was recently awarded to Peter North. The water will be piped about seven miles and will have a pressure of about sixty pounds at Reedport. It will be a gravity system and a 12-inch main will carry the water from Clear Lake. The pipe line, tunnel and intake will cost about $1,000,000.

The system is being put in by Warren Reed, the Reedport capitalist. Mr. Reed also owns the Clear Lake water system, which is now supplied by a series of springs. If this proves inadequate, it is probable that the Clear Lake supply will be looked on also.

Mr. Reed is just planning a 170-acre tract, to be known as Railroad Addition to Reedport. This will be placed on the market soon.

AID FOR LIBRARIES

Persons wishing to help the public libraries of Marshfield and North Bend can do so without sacrifice Monday and Tuesday evening, by attending the production of "America" at the Lemanaki and Star Theaters. Ten per cent of all gross receipts both for an evening and afternoon show will go to the libraries, according to arrangements made between the library boards and Mr. Lemanaki.

"America" is a collection of films representing scenes, places and events in American life and will be educational in value as well as entertaining.

The prices charged will be fifteen cents for adults and five cents for children. Why not give a theater party, entertain your friends and thereby help the library.

ORCHARD PESTS MENACE COUNTY

Professor Brown, of O. A. C., Writes on Needs of Orchardists Here.

Orchard pests threaten Coos county. This is the statement of Professor Brown, of O. A. C., who for three days has carried on demonstrations in this section showing the various ways in which these pests attack the fruit trees, and how to protect them from their attacks.

Professor Brown left Saturday for home, in spending of the fruit situation in this county he said, in particular in this county he said, in particular.

Coos county has for some time been noted justly for her Geverson apples. There is no fruiting that this delicious variety can be grown in perfection here when properly taken care of. There are several other varieties of apples, however, that seem to do very well in this section, such as Home Beauty, Golden Golden, King of Thompkins County, etc.

In addition to the apples, practically all the fruits of the temperate zone do well in this vicinity. Pears, cherries and peaches have all been grown here for some time and only need a good market to be raised on a commercial scale. All the small fruits, including strawberries, loganberries, raspberries, etc., do remarkably well under these climatic and soil conditions.

PEAS MENACE COUNTY.

"I find in going about the county that the peas which I have examined are for the most part fairly healthy, but there are some insect pests and plant diseases being introduced. These troubles will spread unless the growers understand how they can be kept in check. Careful inspection by the county fruit inspector will be needed to control these troubles and he should be given every assistance possible by the growers in carrying on this undertaking.

Restraints to be Suggested.

"Many of the contacts which I have observed are badly in need of drainage. It would seem to me that some enterprise party who can place a good field drainage on the market at a reasonable figure might be built up a splendid business in Coos county. No farm practice is more neglected than sufficient drainage in this part of the state. Many contacts have been investigated for several seasons and some are seriously suffering for this reason. Restraints in this climate should be placed and carefully outlined all through the growing season.

"In regard to the grading I would say that in general, the contacts here have either been badly neglected or neglected. Many old, overgrown orchards are in evidence and a menace to their communities and do nothing more than clutter the ground. It would be better to pull out such orchards and put in a crop that would bring in some revenue to the owner of the land. By the good attendance at the printing demonstrations it is evident that the growers are very much interested in this subject and are anxious to learn everything that may be of value to them.

Co-Operative Marketing.

"It seems to me that one of the greatest needs of the fruit growing communities at present is the formation of co-operative marketing organizations. When the young orchards of this section come into full bearing it will be necessary to develop markets outside this county. To do that will mean that Coos county will build up a reputation for the quality and pack of her fruit which will insure her good prices in the large markets of the country. This work of developing markets is much too large a project for any single individual or corporation, and to be successful must have the active backing of the growers of this section. Rights in this connection it may be well to add that we must begin to turn the fruit which is not good enough to ship out to any distance into a product that will bring us fair returns, instead of allowing it to go to waste. It is estimated that the state of Oregon is losing annually about $2,000,000 in the fruit and vegetables that go to waste. It is high time that growers awake to this situation and organize for the purpose of installing and operating canneries, evaporators, vinegar factories, etc., for the utilization of this waste product. The question of fruit and vegetable by-products is one of our most one of the greatest outstanding the growers of the southwest."

Visited Pine Orchard.

Prof. Brown reported that he had some good meetings in the Coquille Valley. At Ridge, about 45 ranchers turned out and many of the pupils of the bridge school were present. The Ridge section impressed him most strongly.

He spent a night at the ranch of Dr. Gen. E. G. and Ben Ho-

SEN. SMITH STOPS PENSION SYSTEM

Coos County Legislator Blocks Memorial to Congress—Holds it Unnecessary

Special in The Times
EUGENE, Or., Jan. 25.—One of the features of the legislative session so far has been the stirring fight led by Senator L. S. Smith of Coos and Curry counties which resulted in the quashing of a joint memorial to Congress providing for a pension system as employees of the civil service of the Federal Government.

Practically leading the campaign single-handed against the memorial he secured a following which finally defeated it after it had been passed twice.

The memorial was championed by Senator Kallender, of Portland, originally designed to benefit other members, it would have created the whole wide range of civil service employees. As the first introduction Senator Smith led a sharp but unsuccessful fight against its passage.

The following day, however, it was voted up for reconsideration and after a sharp debate in which Smith was a central figure, the memorial was ordered and was sent to the final voting place in the Senate just here.

Had it passed, the memorial would have provided for a half pay pension to a civil service employee who desired to retire after thirty years work in the department, the half pay to be dependent upon the salary which he had received during the five years past preceding his retirement. It also provided pensions for those retiring at the end of 25 years and of 10 years on a smaller percentage of their salary while in the service. An additional provision it would have furnished a pension of half pay to anyone permanently disabled, who had worked for five years.

Senator Smith took the position that such a memorial was merely a move on the part of the Legislature to promote a plan which would eventually mean an increase of cost to the taxpayers. He pointed out, that while the bill, if passed by Congress, would call for Federal expenditures only, nevertheless the cost for maintaining it would ultimately come out of the pockets of the citizens of Oregon, and that the citizens of Oregon would have to stand their share.

"The bill, if passed by Congress, would mean the expenditure of millions of dollars annually in pensions," said Senator Smith in discussing the memorial. "People who enter the civil service do so by choice and are paid good salaries for their work. They should be in a position to save enough for a comfortable old age. If we pension Federal employees we should follow the same system in the state. I am heartily opposed to such a memorial and believe that such a bill would inflict a heavy burden that should not be inflicted."

BIG SHIPMENT OF FORD AUTOS

CARLOAD OF 1915 MACHINES AND CONSIGNMENT OF PARTS AND SUPPLIES FOR POPULAR CAR RECEIVED BY ISAAC R. TOWER.

I. R. Tower on the Paraiso Saturday received his first carload of 1915 Ford autos and a big shipment of supplies and parts for the Fords. Since taking the agency for the Ford, Mr. Tower has made arrangements for a complete supply depot for the popular car and will give best possible service to Ford owners.

The arrival of the new Fords has been anxiously awaited by Coos County autoists and prospective auto purchasers.

The Ford promises to be more popular than ever this season. Always and everywhere recognized as the car that gives the best service and particularly adapted to the roads of Coos County and coast country, Mr. Tower expects that the sales this year will far exceed the sales in any previous year.

Mullen on the South Fork and was delighted over it. He said that it had fine drainage and fine soil and should be a good fruit producer. They have about 35 acres of trees planted, some producing. He suggested that Pomeranian trees be mixed with the Gravensteins to insure good production. He said that the China pheasants there were doing fine and so are the quail.

Mr. Brown was highly pleased with the work that Coos County Agricultural Smith is doing in this section and the excellent feeling of harmony between Mr. Smith and the ranchers.
