

STRICT MEAT AND MILK INSPECTION

Such is Need Say Doctors at Meeting of Coos and Curry Medical Association

Inspection of meat and milk were the principle topics discussed at the meeting last evening in the office of Dr. Mings of the Coos and Curry County Medical Association.

The greatest danger to the consumer, he pointed out, arises from unexamined meat killed in the unclean private slaughter houses so commonly found on the outskirts of our cities.

"To control this it is essential that laws be enacted for the proper supervision of such establishments. He advocated as even better than supervision the adoption of a municipal slaughter house where all animals would be brought for killing and where they all could be properly looked over by experts before being sent to the retail butcher shops.

About 60 per cent of the total meat supply of the United States is under federal inspection, according to Dr. Masson. During the last seven years there have been inspected in this country more than 378,000,000 animals and of this number 1,000,000 have been condemned as unfit for food.

"Animals are frequently found," he said, "that have every appearance of being perfectly healthy and in good condition, but after slaughter are found to be badly affected with tuberculosis."

"There is still another inspection which should not be overlooked and that is the inspection of the retail markets.

"Only a short time ago I entered the back rooms of a local market and found some of the employees making sausage of a mass of meat, the stench of which was almost unbearable. It is my intention to photograph some of the existing conditions in these markets and slaughter houses and show them to this association."

The doctors spent the time in an anatomy and surgery quiz, Dr. Mings conducting the former and Dr. Dix the latter. Questions relating to these parts are thus brought up for thorough discussion to serve as a means of freshening the memories of the physicians.

The next meeting of the Association will be held the first Thursday in April in Marshfield. Those who were present last evening were Dr. E. E. Straw, president; Dr. George Dix, Dr. Everett Mings and Dr. H. M. Shaw, of Marshfield; Dr. Culin of Coquille; Dr. L. G. Johnson and Dr. J. L. Masson, of Myrtle Point. It was one of the best meetings the association has held in a long time.

SEEK DAN STEIN FOR NEW OFFENSE

Man Punished at Coquille for Contempt Evades Sheriff—Sought at Roseburg

Dan Stein, who was roundly scolded by Judge Coke in Circuit Court at Coquille this week for perjury and fined $25 for contempt of court in addition to being ordered by the court to pay a judgment or go to jail, is being sought today by Sheriff Johnson at Roseburg. It was learned yesterday that Stein had started away from the county without settling the judgment as ordered by the court and immediately Sheriff Johnson began trying to locate him.

Judge Coke when apprised of Stein's act, was highly indignant and last evening personally hunted up Deputy Sheriff Laird and instructed him to see that Stein is apprehended and returned to Coos County.

In addition to facing contempt charges again, Stein's case is likely to be taken before the grand jury as Judge Coke on the bench denounced Stein for perjury and knavery.

Stanley is Scored

Attorney A. H. Blatchley, of Coquille, who represented H. B. Welger, who was trying to collect the claim from Steig, his brother-in-law, was here last evening on business. He was highly indignant over the case and Stein's later action. Mr. Blatchley said that it was plainly a case or two for the grand jury, perjury and subordination of perjury being two of the worst offenses that the courts have to contend with, in his opinion.

It seems that the way that Stein happened to get away was this, according to a story from Coquille. Sheriff Johnson was not given a full copy of the court order in Stein's case. After the hearing was over, Stein left the courthouse in company with his attorney, J. J. Stanley, of Coquille. When Sheriff Johnson was apprised that Stein was wanted, he started to find him. On finding Stanley, the latter said that Stein had given him $25 to pay the fine for contempt of court which Judge Coke had imposed and this was turned over. Supposing that this was all, Sheriff Johnson accepted it. The next morning Mr. Johnson received the full order of the court and again sought Stein, only to find that he had left during the night for Roseburg.

WANT TO MERGE PORTS.

Bandon People Want to Absorb Upper Coquille River Organization.

The Bandon Recorder says: "The Port of Coquille River, which comprises the watershed of the river above Coquille, has held its annual meeting and elected officers as follows: M. O. Stemmler, president; P. L. Phelan, vice president; J. N. Gaerhat, secretary and E. H. Huling, treasurer. There had not been much done in the way of improvements during the last year and that all the appropriations by Congress were for the river below Coquille. It is to be hoped that within a short time the Port of Coquille River and the Port of Bandon can be merged, a proposition that would be to the benefit of both ports."

SIMPSON HOTEL SITE CHANGES

Report That It May be Erected on Bank of Oregon Corner—New Company.

According to a report at North Bend, one of the causes for delay in the Hotel Simpson project is a decision to change the location from the one originally chosen to what is known as the Bank of Oregon corner. Since the consolidation of the Bank of Oregon with the First National Bank, this property is left available and is declared to be a much more central and convenient location. In addition to being in the heart of the business district, it is about in the center of the main holdings of the principal men behind the project. W. U. Douglas, of Marshfield, owns a half interest in the Bank of Oregon property. It is said, and it is understood that negotiations are now under way to purchase it from him.

New Simpson Company.

It is stated that the Simpson heirs are organizing a new company to which will be transferred the real estate holdings on the peninsula. The four heirs shared alike in the distribution of the estate.

By forming a separate company, the North Bend and other realty holdings of the company on the peninsula could be handled more advantageously, it is said.

The estimate of $2,000,000 on Captain Simpson's estate is said to be only to the property in California. The Oregon and other holdings will probably double the $2,000,000 valuation.

L. J. Simpson is expected home soon from San Francisco. The annual meeting of the Simpson Lumber Company is to be held February 14 and that may develop something of importance locally.

DELAY NORTH BEND HOTEL

Simpson Will Not be Erected for Some Time Says Harbor

The North Bend Harbor says: "At a meeting of the board of directors it was decided not to take any further steps towards building the proposed hotel, for which plans were being prepared and a company formed to erect a building to cost about $75,000. This course was taken because J. C. Hammel had refused to pay any portion of his $10,000 assessment, stating that he was to put that amount in furniture or place it with outside capital. Also because of L. J. Simpson being unable to act for the Simpson Lumber Company, because of conditions which have arisen since the death of the late Captain Simpson, and over which he has no control. Until these two, which are the largest stockholders, can make payments, nothing further will be done."

Secretary Mullen was asked to obtain a bill from J. E. Tourtelotte the architect, for his services, which will be taken up at a meeting to be held upon receipt of the plans and the bill.

There has been collected from the small stockholders the first and second installments of 15 per cent, which in all amounts to $2,432.50. There has been expended, the greater amount being for excavating the basement $2,230.17, leaving a balance in the treasury at this time of $202.33."

NEWS OF NORTH BEND

Mrs. Warren Murphy, who has been in poor health for some time, has gone to Portland, from where she will proceed to California in hopes that a change of climate will benefit her.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Ashoe have moved into the G. W. Shelly residence on Sherman avenue hill.

Manager Wernich, of the North Bend Sash and Door Factory, has shipped about $15,000 worth of myrtle wood novelties to San Francisco to be sold at the Panama exposition. With it goes the furniture and fixtures for the Coos and Curry exhibit room in the Oregon building. These are mostly finished in myrtle.

Roy Miller and wife, who lived in a small house near a South Inlet tide camp, where he was employed became alarmed during the heavy wind the other night. They left the house and a few minutes later a big tree fell across it, crushing the buildings. Had they not escaped when they did, they undoubtedly would have been crushed.

SID CLARK WILL JOIN TRACK SQUAD

Crack Marshfield Athlete Hailed With Delight by Oregon's Coach

Sidney Clark, well known as one of Coos County's best high school athletes and a graduate last June from the local institution, expects to enter the University of Oregon within the next few days. Already Track Coach "Bill" Hayward is hailing the newcomer with delight announcing him as one of the speediest additions to his 1915 galaxy of crack cinder stars.

In the track meets through out the county Clark won his first spurs, time and again outdistancing the elementary athletes in the 220 and the century dashes. In addition to his fast traveling ability Clark is also hailed as a high jumper, the lad now being able to hop over the bamboo bar at six feet.

And "Bill" Hayward grins for the veteran coach, the man who in seven years has turned out several Northwest and Coast record men, for he believes that in Clark he has the man whom he can develop into the nimblest of the nimble footed collegians.

Lack of sprinters has been a night mare to the Oregon coach since 1913 when he lost Captain Erel Kay forcing him to rely on secondary sprinters for the 1914 season. Last spring the University was extremely weak in the sprints. Tommy Boylen, red headed Jack rabbit of eastern Oregon, did his best, at one time besting Baker, O. A. C.'s clever short distance man. But even at that Boylen was best developed as a hurdler and a distance man.

Over the prep school athletes of the state Hayward cast his envious and ever watching eagle eyes. Clark, of Marshfield, was one of his first best bets and as soon as the weather moderates in Eugene he will be out in his spiked shoes on the quarter mile track, training for the big meets of the late spring.

Clarke will find himself in fast company this year for there have been several additions to the track squad. There is Gorecky, of Columbia University in Portland, who has made the century dash in 10 seconds flat and the 220 sprint in 22-2-5 seconds.

Then there has been a third addition to the squad. He is C. C. Claridge, of Baker, Kansas, who has negotiated the short distance hikes in record time that vies close to that of Gorecky and his best mark in the broad jump is 22 feet. But Claridge will be ineligible to compete in college meets this spring because of the fact that he comes from another college hence must attend the University a year before entering athletics.

Last spring through graduation Hayward lost one of the best high jumpers he has ever turned out. In this event Clark will probably be entered at his best by the veteran coach. At the present time there is no athletes from Coos county on any of the University teams.

MUST PAY OWN EXPENSES

Kinney Creditors Must Bear Their Share of Receivership Sale

According to E. R. Bryson, attorney for Receiver Watters of the Kinney properties, the creditors must share, pro rata, the expenses of the receivership sale of the property.

Owing to the general slack times and lack of demand for real estate, it is understood that the property will not be crowded onto the market now.

According to Judge Harris' decree, there are few priorities in the claims filed against the property. These were previously ordered paid by the Federal court and are said to be as follows:

Chas. McKnight, referee in bankruptcy, $500; A. S. Hammond, $1250; Beach Simon & Nelson, Farrin & Farrin, and C. A. Sehlbrede, $1000.

NEWS OF ALLEGANY

(Special to the Times.) ALLEGANY, Or., Feb. 5.—Jack McDonald has taken the heaviest part of his donkey engine out to Loon Lake. He had no trouble about cutting through the road and got in with it the second day. He used six horses part of the way.

The Smith-Powers crew under Mr. Davis, has cleaned the logs out of West Fork, as far up as the Fred Gage place. They used a donkey engine on a scow to pull and roll them in.

Bert Gould is over on a job for the Smith-Powers Company. He is to run a line on the head of Packard Creek. He also expects to do some work for Chas. Keeger and a number of others in this locality after the main job is done.

BARNACLE TO TRY BAR IN FEW DAYS

Delegations From Marshfield and North Bend to go out on Trial Trip

The seas breaking across the bar and covering it in a smother of spray and foam are enough to daunt even the larger craft that come into the Bay from up and down the coast. The bar for the last few days has been exceedingly rough, and meanwhile the owners, builders and navigators of the strange Barnacle grow nervous and anxious to get to sea.

A grand parade out to sea; the initiation of the Barnacle to real salt water, was set for yesterday, and only the condition of the bar held back the boat that is soon to sail for South America on its romantic gold search.

The owners, D. M. Poste, Frank Harris and W. S. Wilson, had arranged for the ceremonies. A delegation from the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce had been invited to attend. They were Dr. E. E. Straw, H. J. McKeown and Hugh McLain. Others from here were to be Fred Telander, J. S. Lyons and F. C. Hague. From North Bend Secretary Smith, Jeff Hartman, A. H. Derbyshire, Guy Turnbull and C. A. Metlin were invited from the North Bend Chamber of Commerce.

Now the owners are waiting for the bar to quiet down, when they say their craft will take to the open sea, and after trying her out on the ocean waves off Coos Bay they believe that they will then know definitely whether or not she will stand the long ocean voyage to the south.

A gasoline engine of 24 horsepower may be relied upon when the winds are unfavorable or in case of emergency. The craft is 37 feet over all. In the stern is the entrance to the cabin and in this entrance is situated the wheel and compass. By hanging their bunks from the walls the owners believe they will have plenty of room. The ceiling is high and allows even a tall man to stand upright, a distinctive feature of the little craft.

STREET ASSESSMENTS CASE

Arguments Finished Late Yesterday Afternoon—Decision Expected Soon.

Arguments in the street assessment case, that of A. B. Manly and others versus the City of Marshfield, protesting the legality of their assessments, were closed late yesterday afternoon and Judge Coke is now considering his decision.

The plaintiffs were A. B. Manly, of Portland, J. W. Motley, Minnie E. Stadelman and Henry H. Fletcher. They contended that the original petition for the improvement of Fourth Street was from Elrod Avenue to Coal Bank Inlet, but that the Southern Pacific Company protested the improvement beyond Kruse Avenue and brought a suit to restrain the paving and that for this reason the street now ends without leading any definite place.

Further improvement, say the members of the suit, could not be made on Fourth Street without the unanimous consent of the council and that this would be impossible to get.

On the other hand the city made plain its contention that the improvement of the street is temporarily held up by the injunction of the Southern Pacific and that the street will be graded out to Coal Bank Inlet at the first opportunity.
