TRACE OF POISON FOUND IN MYRTLE POINT MAN'S BODY

Clarence Russell, Brother of Arthur Russell, Informed of Result of Analysis
WM. PENTLAND IS IN CUSTODY IN IDAHO
Star Witness Finally Located—Sheriff Johnson Awaits Result of Second Analysis
(Special to The Times.)
COQUILLE, Or., Feb. 16.—It is expected that there will be sensational developments in the Russell poisoning case near Myrtle Point within the next ten days, as the result of the second disinterment of the body Sunday. Additional vital parts of the body, together with samples of water from the grave and from the nearby spring which flooded the grave are being sent to the Portland chemist who made the analysis of the contents of the stomach. These are being sent by express from Marshfield and will leave Marshfield Thursday so that the report of the chemist should be received early next week.
At the exhuming of the body Sunday, Clarence Russell, a brother of the dead man, and S. D. Pufford of Myrtle Point, an attorney who has been engaged by the Russells, were present. Sheriff Johnson informed Mr. Russell that the first analysis had shown a trace of poison. However, he said, the poison was not in great quantity and it might have been one of the amount contained in some medicine he had taken. The second analysis is expected to show whether or not there was sufficient poison to cause death.
While the nature of the poison found in Russell's stomach was not officially given out, it is understood

FINDS SACK OF UNFINISHED COUNTERFEIT COINS ON BAY

Wm. A. Glover, U. S. Secret Service Man, Reveals Operations of Local Men.
TYPE METAL WITH THIN SILVER COAT
Money Found Had Not Received Finishing Touches—Demonstrates Their Methods
Seated before an opened suit case in the police station last evening, William A. Glover, 15 years a secret service operative on the Pacific coast in the employ of the U. S. Treasury Department, described minutely to a small audience the operations of the counterfeiters. He looked up the moulds used by J. Stevens and Z. G. Harshman, alleged bogus money men who were captured Sunday, showed how they had secured the imprints of coins in a plaster of paris casts and how the metal was poured in left to cool.
To illustrate his points, Mr. Glover then thrust his hand into a long bag half filled with 50-cent pieces in the rough, loot captured at the time the plant was discovered in lastside.
The face of the money seemed perfect. The edges were rough and not yet finished off and the rings were missing. Hadn't got to the plating stage," explained the operative. "A small machine was to have been used in riming the coins, when they would have been plated and the money would have weighed about as much as an ordinary half dollar and would have sounded like metal too when dropped on the pavement."
He brought out two casts for the old and new types of $5 gold pieces. The imprints in the wet plaster of paris were very plain. "What did they make them out of?" was the query and the operative laughed. "Nothing but plain type metal," he said. You see these fellows were in the game to make money. Type metal is worth about 35 cents a pound. One pound would make a small fortune of this kind of money. "But how did they coat them?"
"Simple again. Take a few copper rivets, melt them up and several coats of this applied to the coin give it a backing and also weight. Then over this a very light coating of pure gold is made. I have seen gold pieces fixed up like this that have been six months in circulation. You couldn't detect them from the real stuff until the light gold coating began to wear off."
Discovered Big Plant.
Years on the service, ever on the alert for the makers and passers of the "queer" have brought out stories exciting in their action and continent wide in their scope. Mr. Glover was the operative who three years ago discovered on Nootka Island, off the British Columbia Coast, the largest counterfeiting plant ever found in North America. Eighteen thousand dollars worth of $10 green backs were found in a cabin, the leader of the gang was caught two weeks later in New York with $10,000 worth of the worthless paper in his possession.
The men were well-educated Russian nihilists. The leader, a man named Leon, had perfected a process by which he could photograph colors onto a negative and transfer them later to prints, a process for which scientists have delved for years and which in itself would be worth thousands of dollars. Leon put his inventive genius in the wrong channel, was caught and now occupies a cell on McNeill's Island, with the other members of his gang.
A United States Marshal is expected in here on the Brockwater Thursday and immediately the two accused counterfeiters will be taken before A. K. Peck, United States Commissioner and given a preliminary trial binding them over to the Federal Court in Portland.
"I shall take the counterfeiting outfit right into court," said Mr. Glover, "and show the judge and jury how the operation was made. I shall make bogus money and I believe that we shall have such evidence that there will be no danger these fellows will get away very soon."
No Reward, Says Chief.
Chief Carter this morning declared that there is no reward coming for the apprehension of the counterfeiters. "Green did find some stuff in the cabin left by these fel-
