Annual Meeting.—The annual congregational meeting of the Marshfield Presbyterian Church will be held Friday evening, April 2nd, in the church.
Wagner Picture Show.—Henry A. Schroeder is perfecting plans for opening a moving picture show at Wagner in a building being erected by the Smith-Powers Co. Thus does Wagner move toward a metropolis.
Receiving New Machine.—Isaac R. Tower, agent in Coos and Curry county for the Ford machines, received a string of six on the breakwater this morning. Paraded down Front Street they attracted much attention. The machines of the year are electric lighted.

Funeral on Monday.—The funeral of Mrs. J. D. McEllan who died on Thursday night will be held Monday morning at nine o'clock from the Catholic Church. Friends who wish to view the body may do so between two and four p. m. Sunday at the Wilson Undertaking Parlors.
Taxes Due April 1.—The first half of the taxes are due and payable April first and not the first Monday in April. Some taxpayers seem to have received the erroneous idea that they were not due until the latter date. If you wish to escape the penalty you must pay by April first.

Open Bids Monday.—Bids will be opened Monday morning in the office of C. A. Schibrede, referee in bankruptcy, on the stock of the Murphy-Wentberg five ten and fifteen cent stores of Marshfield, Myrtle Point and Bandon. The bids will be on the three stores as a whole and not individually.
Dies in Spokane.—News has reached here of the death in Spokane of Clair H. Yake, a formerly well known Marshfield young man, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Yake, of Eastport. He was at one time a driver of one of the Conner & Hoagland delivery wagons. His parents had started to Spokane but did not reach there before he passed away. His brother Otto Yake left yesterday for Spokane.
Food Most Needed.—A letter has been received by The Times from the Committee for Relief in Belgium which states that enough clothing has been donated from the United States to last for several months and asks that special emphasis be laid on the sending of foodstuffs, food being sorely needed by the Belgians. From Marshfield a good sized donation in money and clothes was sent to Europe.

Field Takes Lumber.—L. A. Baker, of the Folgers Coffee Company, returned yesterday from Crescent City to which place he drove from Bandon and back again. Only one day was he caught in the rain though he says the roads are almost impassible in some places. Along the coast Mr. Baker reports business is on the increase. At Brookings he found the big mill working full shift. The Field, he said, has been chartered to carry lumber from Brookings, aiding the steam schooner Brooklyn.

Old Picture of Marshfield.—A picture of Marshfield drawn in 1884 is on exhibition for a few days at the Chamber of Commerce, through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Rood. Marshfield was then a straggling village. There are trees and stumps of trees on the main streets and not a great many houses at that time made their appearance. Particularly noticeable about the drawing is the absence of the big Smith Mill, the point at the entrance of Isthmus Inlet showing as a bare tract of land. The drawing was made true to life, the picture being a lithograph.

Sharks Tell Spring.—The sharks traveling in schools tell of spring and are of themselves barometers, is the contention of Captain Bodge and the First Officer of the steam schooner Northland, newly arrived in Portland from San Francisco. The seamen state that when off the mouth of the Umpqua and also when not far distant from Coos Bay they sighted schools of sharks, always the sign of spring. Other seamen say the appearance of "Portuguese warships," little animals of the sea that drift by the wind on the surface of the sea are the real harbingers of good weather.

Army Coming.—Lieutenant Colonel J. P. O'Neill writing from the War College, Washington, D. C. states that there is no intention of bringing an army to Coos Bay and that questions relating to the chances of caring for 10,000 soldiers here were asked as information to be filed away for possible use. Some time ago he wrote asking if there are about 500 acres on Coos Bay easily available for quartering troops and with wood and water within close range. Such questions, it is understood, are asked of most every community in the United States.

New Bank Assured.—That a new bank here is assured is the statement of John E. Ross, who returned yesterday with his wife, Mr. K. Bugge, associated with Mr. Ross was married yesterday in Portland and will take a two week's honeymoon trip to the Fair before coming here to locate. Mr. Ross states that the $25,000 stock for the bank has been sold locally. The charter has been granted by the state. A location has not yet been selected but probably will be announced very shortly, he said. Today Mr. and Mrs. Ross were out securing apartments.

Have Plenty Money.—J. Shipton and Dan Williams were arrested last night for celebrating via the liquor route. When the police examined the men at the station they nearly fainted to find more than $300 in bright and shining "yellow boys." From Shipton, who formerly worked here and who now has just returned from working at the Exposition, was taken $32 and Williams carried $290 cash. Shipton was induced to enter the station only after Gordon Smith had used his fists as means of persuasion, the result of which was a blackened optic for the man who commenced it. The police have no place in the station for taking care of the money. In a bag it was taken away to a safety deposit box for the night. They claim a safe should be put in the station for the keeping of valuables.
