NO NEED TO BOND

BANDON PORT TO HAVE OVER $50,000 FOR PROJECT

Taxes Held Up Pending Port's Boundary Determination Swell Dredging Fund

There will be no need of bonding the Port of Bandon for the present dredging project is the belief of R. E. Miller, superintendent of the dredge fleet.

With approximately $20,000 on hand before the Port case was decided by the state supreme court, there will now be turned into the coffers of the Port some $30,000 or $40,000 in taxes that have been held up pending this decision, according to Mr. Miller.

The material being dredged at present is harder to work with than on Coos Bay, said Mr. Miller, and for this reason the work will probably be slower. He believes the dredge will be there at least two months before the project is complete to Coquille.

There were five tows to move the dredge outfit down the coast, and not a bit of difficulty was experienced, said Mr. Miller, though he does admit that he was worried until the equipment was safe inside the harbor at Bandon.

CLEAN-UP-WEEK TWO MEN LUCKY

Sheriff Bailey and Roy Gibson Escape Ship Wreck. Two Coos Bay men were lucky in escaping being on the ill fated Randolph when she was wrecked.

CLEAN-UP-WEEK MORAL IN RECENT BUSINESS CHANGES

Changes in the business life of a community are always significant and oftentimes have a moral. During the last few months five firms in Marshfield have retired or been absorbed by other firms here.

CLEAN-UP-WEEK EARLY DECISION

An early decision is expected in the Oregon and California land grant cases according to the following from a Portland paper:

"A. W. Laferty has returned from Washington, D. C., where he participated in the argument of the O. & C. land grant case before the United States supreme court. He says it is possible the court will hand down a decision before the summer adjournment, which will be about June 15.

CLEAN-UP-WEEK SURVEYING THE RIVER

The Myrtle Point Enterprise says: "For use in asking permission of the War Department to make the proposed improvement of the Coquille River for a distance of several miles from this city, the Port Commission has ordered a contour map made of that section of the river."

DRUNKENNESS

IS FISH MERCHANT

MAN ACCUSED OF WHITE SLAVERY CLAIMS INNOCENCE

Brought Woman Here for Housekeeper, He Says—May Have Been Implicated in Other Trouble.

J. L. Campbell, arrested Tuesday and lodged in jail, charged with white slavery, appeared before A. K. Peck, U. S. Commissioner, late yesterday afternoon.

According to the story now told by the accused man he came here for the purpose of starting in the fish business. He claims to be an experienced fishman.

It is understood the local officers are looking for additional information that may connect Campbell with former misdemeanors of the type with which he is now charged.

He came here last fall, the officers aver, and sent for a middle aged woman to keep house for him. She came to Empire a few days later, was arrested on a charge of taking bed clothes from a rooming house there.

The woman then appeared and told her story incriminating the man and the case was dropped. Mina Deyoe, the woman now in jail and who told the first story, now claims that she is willing to go ahead with the prosecution though she did deny her affidavit shortly after it was made out.

The O. & C. lands are those now held by the Southern Pacific. On one of this land local people have filed in the boxes of a favorable decision in the cases brought to the solicitor to force the railroad to pay $2500 an acre not more than 160 acres (9 each actual settler. The decision is therefore of much interest here. Much of the land has valuable timber on it.

WILL NOT PAY FINE

OWEN SMITH, MINER, CHOSE TO GO TO JAIL

Arrested for Killing Deer and Claims Others Fed Venison to Their Dogs

Because he believed that his arrest for killing a deer in Curry County was brought about with the knowledge that he had money to pay a cash fine, Owen Smith, gold miner, has chosen to serve a term of twelve days in the Curry County jail rather than pay the money, although he had the funds with which to settle.

Owen Smith is the son of John R. Smith who has a mining camp on Rock Creek on the Coos County side of the line and has several men working at the mine. They are far up in the mountains and they claim that it was necessary to kill the deer in order to get fresh meat which was badly needed and which could not otherwise be procured in that locality.

According to letters from there and the stories of men who have recently come out of the country, Smith claims that old settlers in that part of Curry County make a practice of killing deer out of season regularly and that they have so much deer meat on hands that they feed it to their dogs.

Smith contends that when other people were thus killing that he had a right to secure meat for the camp when it was needed and he claims that he was tracked in the snow and arrested because it was thought that he had money to pay, while many of the other offenders have no cash money to pay if they were arrested.

CLEAN-UP-WEEK NORTH INLET NEWS

Wm. Waters was a business visitor in Marshfield today.

Reuben Lyon of Ferndale is spending this week on his cranberry marsh here.

Wm. J. Howard is suffering from an attack of grip.

Kaye Howard returned last week from McMinneville college.

P. H. Pinkerton of Lakeside was in Marshfield yesterday.

Mr. Steinhoff, the Baptist missionary worker who recently arrived on the bay from Kansas City, held a meeting at North Inlet chapel last Sunday. G. LeRoy Hall accompanied him, and in the evening they held services at Lakeside.

This was the best meeting in point of attendance that has yet been held in the chapel. A Sunday school was organized here, to meet each Sunday afternoon at 1:30. Mr. Howard was chosen superintendent. Mr. Steinhoff expects to conduct service here every three weeks, for the present. Our people extend him a hearty welcome, and we believe the good attendance at yesterday's meeting augurs well for that of future services.

STATION BY AUTUMN

CAPTAIN BRITT BELIEVE WILL BE READY THEN

Will Have Best Life Saving Equipment on Coast—Shoals Grow in Front of Present Station

That next fall will see completion of the new life saving station at the entrance of the harbor is the belief of Captain Brit, keeper of the Coos Bay Coast Guard Station. Contracts for the moving and the new buildings will be let July 19 in Washington, he said. Most of the contractors, says the keeper, are specifying the completion of the project within four and five months.

Shoaling in front of the present station makes it difficult to get the big power boat out at low water. Captain Brit stated that to get across to Empire at low water with this boat it is necessary to turn toward the bar as far as the government works where a channel is found deep enough to get the boat into the main harbor. And then the entire distance must be retraced to get opposite the starting point.

"At the new station," said the captain, "we will be able to get to Empire or points further up the bay in two-thirds the time it now takes." The present station is almost opposite Empire.

There is a possibility that the crew may be increased from eight to ten or twelve men, according to the keeper. Under the new Coast Guard Bureau the keeper is allowed a 30-day vacation annually with full pay and the surfmen ten days. Some one will have to take their places, he says, and for this reason he believes the increase will be made. Under the former service the men had to pay for someone to take their places.

"We'll have one of the best stations on the coast," the captain said, "and the equipment will be the best."

CLEAN-UP-WEEK LAWN AND GARDEN SPRINKLING

Everyone who expects to use water for lawn or garden sprinkling is required to sign an application and make payment before using any water for this purpose. The rate fixed by the Railroad Commission for sprinkling is $1.00 per month for each 5000 square feet (50 by 100-foot lot), or less, building space included.

The rules filed with the Railroad Commission require that payment for lawn sprinkling be made in advance before using morning and evening. No reduction in rate in case water is used for sprinkling without payment being made in advance, or outside of the fixed hours, the service may be entirely shut off and not turned on until $1.00 penalty is paid.
