WILSON TAKES A FIRM STAND

His Note to Germany is Written in Friendly Terms But is Definite

ENDS IT TONIGHT

President Put in Part of the Day Adding the Finishing Touches

NO ADVISE WAS ASKED

Other Countries Not Consulted in Matter and Do Not Know What Course Will be Followed if Germany Refuses

HISTORIC NOTE ON ITS WAY

WASHINGTON, May 13.—At 1 p. m. the note had been cleared over the telegraph wires from Washington and started on its way over the cable. It must go by way of Gibraltar and Malta then to Rome and by overland lines to Vienna and Berlin.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 13.—

President Wilson's note to Germany regarding the sinking of the Lusitania will be given out in Washington tonight. During the afternoon the President put the finishing touches on the note.

Few changes are believed to have been made in the document, the principles as outlined in the note Tuesday being maintained. The note is couched in friendly terms to Germany. It does not say what steps will be taken or what course will be pursued in the event of an unfavorable reply but it indicates the United States will spare no pains to attain acquiescence in its position.

Asked No Advice.

It is known positively that the United States government has had conversations either in Washington or in foreign capitals with other governments concerning the note or the course that will be pursued should Germany refuse to comply. In some quarters friendly to Germany the impression prevailed that Berlin would accede to the American demands and state its expectations that the United States would endeavor to secure unrestricted passage of food stuffs consigned to the civilian population of Germany. In announcing the decision on the note he published tomorrow morning Secretary Bryan said he expected it could be transmitted to Germany in time for delivery to the German Foreign Office early tomorrow.

He said this could be fought about only through an imbroglio war between labor and capital with a general strike and confiscation of the means of production.
