ELEVEN GRADUATE EXHIBIT THRONGED

MYRTLE POINT HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS HANDED DIPLOMAS

Commencement Exercises Last Evening. Senior Annual Is Clever and Bright Publication

(Special to The Times) MYRTLE POINT, May 22.—Eleven seniors of the Myrtle Point High School last night received their diplomas and stepped out into the world, completing 12 years of education. Yet not all of them are through. Several are planning on re-summing next year, going on through college.

Much interest was taken in the Commencement exercises held in the Unique Theater which was artistically decorated for the occasion. On Sunday the Baccalaureate sermon for the class of 1915 was delivered by Rev. J. F. Vernon at the Presbyterian church. The calla lily, selected flower of the class, was used profusely in the decorations of the building. And most successful, was the senior play on Wednesday evening "A Kentucky Belle." The Unique Theater was crowded. Between the first and second acts Floyd Walker, assisted by Don Snyder and Arthur Widby staged a series of acrobatic turns. Singing between acts was furnished by the Misses Ada Pratt and Crawford and Mesames E. C. Roberts and R. T. Worley.

Class Paper "The Orpheus," the senior annual, is a clever publication, full of bright and breezy bits of school life, well written and illustrated. The editors of "The Orpheus" are Josephine Hayes, editor in chief; Floyd Walker, assistant editor; and the assistant editors Rowena Roberts, Anita Johnson, John Hall, Elva Green, Lila Smith, Larry Miller, assistant manager; Audrie Bryant, advertising assistant; and Goldie Michael, stenographer.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY FRIDAY

Friday evening, May 28th, the Senior class of the High School will appear behind the footlights in their class play, "The Schoolmistress." This play is a very high class production, full of action and without a sleepy moment (unless it be where Midshipman Saunders drops off with his head on Gwendoline's shoulder.) "The Schoolmistress" has been presented many times at colleges, both east and west, and never has it failed to score heavily.

Ruddie Hillstrom as The Honorable Vere Queckett, who "could never stand the chaff about marrying a boarding school," has been losing sleep nights in acquiring a real, true English accent, don't you know? Mary Krush as Miss Dyott, The Schoolmistress, Marjorie Graham as Peggy, "the devil may care little school girl," Eric Storgard as the dashing lieutenant from His Majesty's Ship Pandora who thinks that Peggy "would make a jolly little sailor's wife,"—these and others by their clever acting help to make the play go off as it should.—in a right good, rousing style. Reserved seats are 50c. Tickets may be reserved at the Busy Corner.

HUNDREDS VISIT SCHOOL DISPLAY AT HIGH SCHOOL

Baked Bread and Pies of Boys' Class Draws Exclamations to Make Mother Envious

For three hours last night hundreds of people thronged through the rooms of the high school and into the gymnasium, extremely well pleased with one of the best school exhibits ever arranged in Marshfield.

Into the domestic science department the visitors went, looked long and longingly at the goodies resting there under a taboo, coming away to know full well that the younger generation is fast learning the art of biscuits such as mother makes.

Much attention was attracted by the display of the boys' cookery class. Bread had been toasted to a delicious brown, pies were baked to a turn and the cookies, too, bore mute witness to the fact that the days of equal suffrage have come. Miss Elizabeth Moore, head of the department, was highly complimented on the results of her two years in Marshfield.

With luncheons the girls this year have made enough money to buy full sets of table linen for the department, of which they are quite proud. The art exhibit of the students in the department of Miss Anna Vols was most interesting. From the grades into the high school drawings had been submitted.

In a class in card writing the instructor allowed the youngsters to pick their own sign. Practically all of them advertised the business of their fathers. One little fellow, who welcomes the close of the school year more enthusiastically than the beginning, made a large sign, significant, "Closed, legal holiday."

Tables, cabinet, stools and small receptacles of many designs was the display of the manual training department, of which Fred Planders is the head. Much interest was displayed in the work of the boys of all the several classes.

DODGE CAR WON CLIMBING CONTEST

George Goodrum, local agent for the new Dodge car which has won many laurels in its first year, yesterday received a telegram announcing another demonstration of the supremacy of the Dodge. It was from Spokane and stated that the Dodge car had outclassed all competitors in the annual hill climbing contest. The hill climbing contest is a big event there and is open to all four and sixes. Between thirty and forty machines were entered.

Mr. Goodrum will soon receive another car load of Dodge cars and the news of the Spokane victory is making him highly elated.
