

RESERVE CREATED

RESIDENT PLANS TO PROVIDE FOR ALASKA RAILROAD

Purpose Also to Forestall Speculators—Land Open to Settlers Without Timber

[By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.] WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—Supply timber for construction of Alaskan railway and to forestall speculators President Wilson created a timber reserve 200 miles long and five to ten miles wide along the line. Only timber is reserved however and the land remains settlers.

PROSY NOT SO BAD AS BELIEVED

D. W. Montgomery Says That Disease Slightly Contagious

[By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Horreprosy is an inheritance from middle ages and is not justified facts, said Dr. Douglas W. Montgomery, of San Francisco, in paper presented this morning before the Sixty-Sixth annual session of the American Medical Association. A repulsive appearance of leprosy the fear of its extreme contagion to misunderstanding of the name of leprosy as mentioned in the Bible have created a belief in the public mind that leprosy is extremely contagious. This belief, says Dr. Montgomery, is not founded on fact. Leprosy is very slightly contagious, a slowly progressive disease, much dangerous to the community or the individual than smallpox, tuberculosis and many other diseases. The growing economic and industrial importance of public health work was emphasized by several speakers.

WILL SELL FAMOUS SILVER

Historic Dinner Set to Furnish Aid to Red Cross

[By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.]

LONDON, June 26.—The dinner set of 23 pieces used by Horatio Nelson on the Victory up to the battle of Trafalgar has been given to Navy League by an anonymous donor to be sold for the benefit of the Red Cross and St. John's Ambulance societies, conditional on the purchasers presenting the pieces to messes of warships distinguished themselves in action. The proceeds to the ships will be made a special committee at the close of the war.

MUST GIVE ADDRESS

England All Belgians Are Required to Register

[By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.]

LONDON, June 26.—Hereafter only Belgians in Great Britain who fail to register their addresses will liable to punishment by $500 or six months' imprisonment. Persons with whom Belgians are living are subject to the same penalties if they fail to see that an order is carried out. This rule will bring a large number of Belgians to account who have managed to escape the call of King Albert for military service.

SUMMONS

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, in and for Coos County. Hilma Ahlquist, plaintiff, vs. Egen Ahlquist, defendant.

To Egen Ahlquist, the above named defendant: In the name of the State of Oregon: You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you herein within ten days from the date of the service of this summons upon you if served in this country, or if served in any other county in this state, then within twenty days from the date of such service, but if served by publication or by personal service outside of the State of Oregon, you shall appear and answer on or before the 9th day of August, 1915.

If you fail to appear and answer as above required, the plaintiff will take judgment against you for want thereof and will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in this complaint, a correct statement of which is: That she be granted a decree of divorce from you; That she be awarded the custody and control of the minor children of the plaintiff and defendant.

Service of this summons is made publication pursuant to an order made by the Hon. John S. Coke, Circuit Judge of Coos County, Oregon, which order bears date June 26, 1915, and directs publication thereof in the Coos Bay Times once each week for a period of six weeks, the first publication thereof to be made on the 26th day of June, 1915.

E. BERGLAND, Attorney for plaintiff. First publication June 26, 1915, all other publications August 7, 1915.

NEED MORE LOCAL HEALTH OFFICERS

U. S. Health Officer Gives His Views on Proper Precautions For Public

[By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—The employment of full-time health officers which has been made the keynote of the sanitary policy of several states, has not fully met the health needs of the time, according to Assistant Surgeon General J. W. Kerr of the United States Public Health Service, in an address on the subject of "The Need of Full Time Health Officers at the American Medical Association meeting here yesterday.

"We need to strengthen the purely local health organizations if public health work is to progress as it should," he said. "The usefulness of full time health officers employed by the state must depend to a great extent on the existence of efficient local machinery with which they may work."

Quarrel of Squire Bull and His Son Jonathan

An Old Time Fourth of July Allegory

By JAMES KIRKE PAULDING

[By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.]

JOHN BULL was a choleric old fellow who held a good manor in the middle of a great mill pond and which by reason of its being quite surrounded by water was generally called Bullock island. Bull was an ingenious man, an exceedingly good blacksmith, a dexterous cutter and a notable weaver besides. He also brewed capital porter, ale and small beer and was, in fact, a sort of Jack-of-all-trades and good at each. In addition to these he was a hearty fellow, a jolly companion and passably honest as the times went. But what tarnished all these qualities was an exceedingly quarrelsome, overbearing disposition, which was always getting him into some scrape or other.

The truth is he never heard of a quarrel going on among his neighbors but his fingers itched to take a part in it, so that he was hardly ever seen without a broken head, a black eye or a bloody nose.

Such was Squire Bull, as he was commonly called by the country people, his neighbors—one of those odd, testy, grumbling, boasting old codgers that never get credit for what they are because they are always pretending to be what they are not. The squire was as tight a hand to deal with indoors as out, sometimes treating his family as if they were not the same flesh and blood when they happened to differ with him in certain matters.

One day he got into a dispute with his youngest son, Jonathan, who was familiarly called Brother Jonathan. He fell upon him and beat him soundly. After this he made the house so disagreeable to him that Jonathan, though as hard as a pine knot and as tough as leather, could bear it no longer.

Taking his gun and his ax, he put himself into a boat and paddled over the mill pond to some new lands to which the squire pretended to have some sort of claim. Jonathan intended to settle the lands. When he got over he found that the land was quite in a state of nature, covered with wood and inhabited only by wild beasts.

But, being a lad of spirit, he took his ax on one shoulder and his gun on the other, marched into the thickest of the wood and, clearing a place, built a log hut. Pursuing his labors and handling his ax like a notable woodman, he in a few years cleared the land, which he laid out into thirteen good farms, and building himself a large house, which he partly finished, began to be quite snug.

But Squire Bull, who was getting old and stingy and besides was in great want of money on account of his having lately been made to pay heavy damages for assaulting his neighbors and breaking their heads—the squire, I say, finding Jonathan was getting well to do in the world, began to be very much troubled about his welfare. So he demanded that Jonathan should pay him a good rent for the land which he had cleared and made good for something.

He made up I know not what claim against him and under different pretenses managed to pocket all Jonathan's honest gains. In fact, the poor lad had not a shilling left for holiday occasions, and had it not been for the filial respect he felt for the old man he would certainly have refused to submit to such impositions. But for all this in a little time Jonathan grew up to be very large for his age and became a tall, stout, double jointed, broad footed cub of a fellow, awkward in his gait and simple in his appearance, but having a lively, shrewd look and giving the promise of great strength when he should get his growth.

He was rather an odd looking chap, in truth, and had many queer ways, but everybody who had seen John Bull saw a great likeness between them and declared he was John's own boy, a true chip of the old block. Like the old squire, he was apt to be blustering and saucy, but in the main was a peaceable sort of careless fellow that would quarrel with nobody if you only let him alone. He used to dress in homespun trousers and always wore a linsey woolsey coat, the sleeves of which were so short that his hand and wrist came out beyond them, looking like a shoulder of mutton. All of which was in consequence of his growing so fast that he outgrew his clothes.

While Jonathan was coming up in this way Bull kept on picking his pockets of every penny put into them till at last one day when the squire was over more than usually pressing in his demands, which he accompanied with threats, Jonathan started up in a passion and threw the teakettle at the old man's head.
