ing the month of June there were 5,204 passengers that used the boat. 76 double teams; 201 single teams; 202 automobiles and 8 head of stock.

May Have Game Cases—It is expected that District Attorney Lilleqvist will be here tomorrow and the belief is that Deputy Game Warden Thomas will have a game case to spring for trial. No announcement of its nature has yet been made.

Watch is Found—A beautiful lady's gold watch was lost yesterday by Miss Alma Ekblad and found by C. H. Marsh. Last night a found ad was inserted in The Times and this morning the watch was restored to its owner, showing again what can be accomplished by a little notice.

Back from Trip—Cal Wright has received a long letter from his son Reese, who has just returned to Newport News, Va., from a trip on the Standard Oil tank line steamer Brindilla to Egypt. They did not encounter any difficulty along the road.

Many Pick Berries—These are busy days with the housewives who are many of them, canning wild blackberries. It is said that the woods are full of them and that they are ripe and ready for eating purposes. Many parties have gone blackberrying, whole families arming themselves with baskets and buckets to gather in the free crop.

Sued for Services—A suit has been brought in the justice court by Dr. Charles McCreery, of Tacoma, through his attorney, I. N. Miller, for the collection of $87 from F. R. Kirk, alleging this amount to be due for services. It is stated that Mr. Kirk claims the charge is exorbitant.

Paving Held Up—The Warren Construction Company in North Bend finds it impossible during the rainy days to continue with their paving operations on Sherman avenue, but they have not stopped work for today they are putting in curbing and also have a crew grading on Washington between Stanton and Sherman avenues.

Potato Blight—Wm. Hale, of South Marshfield, says that a peculiar blight is stunting his potato crop there. He is figuring on spraying them to stop the blight. A. O. Rogers has tried spraying on his South Coos River place, but E. C. Rogers says that he has found mowing the tops off the potatoes produces good results in such cases.

Returns Here—George Stephenson, of North Bend, has returned from a trip to Portland. It is understood that the plans to interest his uncle, Isaac Stephenson, the former millionaire lumberman-Senator of Wisconsin, in extensive holdings here, has been deferred for the time being. Geo. Stephenson will probably remain with the Swayne & Hoyt people here.

Wait for Word—It is expected that word will be received here soon from the State Supreme Court stating whether or not they are willing to grant the appeal of Mrs. Fannie O'Donnell for a rehearing before that body. This is said to be the last resort, and, failing, she will have to serve the sentence of the

Many Use Ferry—According to figures just made public by Captain Alex Hall, of the ferry Transit during the month of June there were 5,204 passengers that used the boat. 76 double teams; 201 single teams; 202 automobiles and 8 head of stock.

Will Not Leave—Before his arrival here from Salem where he finished college, Eric Bolt wrote his parents that he expected to leave this month for France with a shipment of horses for the government there. He has been forced to cancel this trip for it would take him between three and four months, returning him to this country too late for the beginning of school at Lebanon next September, where he will be the new principal of the high school.

Get Ready to Celebrate—Secretary South of the North Bend Chamber of Commerce has announced that on July 14 a meeting will be held in North Bend for the purpose of making the first arrangements for the celebration of the coming of the Willamette Pacific. It is planned to have the celebration in North Bend with the entire county cooperating. Committees will be appointed, he said, and everything taken in hand to welcome through traffic to the Willamette Valley. The festivities will probably be held at the completion of the big bridge across the bay.

Building Near Finishing—Carpenters have completed the main part of the building of the conservatory for Hendrik Gjerdrum and today are putting in the window casings and the doors. It is expected that the structure will be ready for occupancy by August 1 though the school will not open until September 1, according to Mr. Gjerdrum. The building is located on Eighth street and the city fathers have just authorized the laying of wooden sidewalks and a plank roadway there.

Are Young Farmers—Stanley and Robert Graves, the young sons of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Graves, are real farmers who work in their gardens and sell their produce in the markets. For weeks they have labored spading and hoeing, until now their vegetables are, many of them, ready for market. This morning they came in with a large basket full of radishes, red and plump, that they have raised. These were sold in the stores at a good price, and they say there will be much more to come. In this way, during their vacations, the boys are making money which they are putting away for safe keeping and a rainy day.

Bid on Night Service—At the county court in Coquille today were being received bids for the continuance of the night service to Knapdale with gasoline boats. For several months the contract has been in the hands of Captain Cavanaugh who first ran the Shamrock and later the old Union on the run, accommodating most months more than 1,400 people. The plan of the county court, it is understood, is to continue the service with the smaller boats and not to put on the Transit because of the greater expense and it is said that very few vehicles travel at night to and from there anyway.

Want Licenses
Many Seek Crabs, Clams and Mussels for Commercial Purposes—Must Have Licenses
Judge Pennock reports that in the last week there have been many people coming to him seeking licenses to catch crabs and gather oysters and mussels for commercial purposes. The applications have been made out, states the judge, and will be forwarded at once to the Master Fish Warden for sanction. John Kerrigan took out an application today. The law says nothing about catching crabs or securing mussels and claims for purposes other than sale.

The Magic Crystal

(TALK NO. 1.)
The purpose of these few paragraphs is to familiarize the housewife with the manifold uses of BORAX, a mineral almost as necessary to the life of today as that other mineral, salt.
To that end one of these talks will appear every other day. Watch for and read them—they will solve the problem of household drudgery for you.
BORAX is a crystalline salt found in the famous Death Valley, California, mixed with earth and other impurities. Carrying through the usual exhaustive processes of refinement, it reaches the market as a colorless crystal, or a pure white powder.
BORAX has been known since the time of the Sumerians for its ability to soften the hardest water. It is in this it finds its widest use.
But BORAX has hundreds of other uses. One of the foremost of these is as a mordant to set colors. It is for this reason that colored fabrics washed in BORAX or a soap containing BORAX will not fade, but appear fresher and brighter than before immersion.

RED CROSS ENDS

MRS. FRED KRUSE WINS GRAND PRIZE—WAS ONE OF MOST SUCCESSFUL HERE — A NEW STOCK TO BE ADDED SOON

The big auction sale of the jewelry department of the Red Cross Drug store came to a close last night. It was one of the most successful events of the kind ever held here and Manager Birch and Assistant Manager are pleased with the results. A large amount of goods was sold, last evening's sale probably being the largest.

In the ward of special prizes, Mrs. Fred Kruse received the handsome chestnut Mrs. Jean Brown of Eastside received two prizes, E. L. McClure received one and Mrs. F. K. Gettins another.

Buy New Goods.

The object of the sale was to close out certain lines of stock, reduce prices and raise ready cash. This was accomplished to even a greater extent than Mr. Birch expected. He did not exclude anything from the sale that parties called for and as a result some of his standard lines have been somewhat depleted.

He will leave soon for San Francisco where he will select new stock and new lines and will have even a better jewelry department than in the past.
