FOURTH OF JULY DRAMA

Time—Ye olden time.
Place—Central Avenue.

He, Fisher, who with several others has just been awarded a dance concession at 50 shuckels and all expenses. "Methinks, my Lord, 'twill be a winsome night," he gazed aloft, craning his neck in all four directions. "Aha, a star. 'Tis true, 'tis true. 'Twill be a winsome night. Every swain and salsined in the county should be there."

"Aye, aye," quoth Sir Lawyer. "Even the oldest inhabitant says it will be a clear night."

There is a loud noise and liveli din, being the rejoicing of Jaws Motley and Rudolph Coppel who they are interrupted by a shout from the contention watchman on a prapet of the tallest Central Avenue skyscraper.

"My Lords! My Lords! the fog, the fog. It comes."

Great clouds of wetness roll in from the hills and cover the dance platform and the music dies to a squeak while the concessioners groan. Loud groans are heard in all directions and in one voice the four knights are heard chit "c. "Oh, Death, where is thy sting?" Curtain.

The next installment of this thrilling drama will show where they are dividing the profits of the dance. Watch for it.

SMILE-A-WHILE
THINK IT OVER WATSON

J. E. Montgomery brings this over to Ye-Kid to translate. We don't know the answer and we gotta give it up.

"It makes me wonder as I write. It sure is mighty strange. Why does a man say money's tight? When he has some loose change?"

SMILE-A-WHILE BETCHA!

This would be a lovely place. A paradise, ah, me!

If men were but as perfect as our wives think they should be.

SMILE-A-WHILE HALT, BURBANK!

We have the wireless telegraph. The horseless car is here. And yet we've no desire to quit.

A glass of foamless beer.

SMILE-A-WHILE A SAD TAOL

An Englishman who was in gaol. Enlited a very loud wail.

"I am locked up," said he.

"Where they never serve tea.

And I don't know where I can raise tea."

—Australian Jack.

SMILE-A-WHILE

War Fever Spreading.—It is said that the war fever, or rather one of the by-products of the European war is spreading in our midst. It is what is known as a moratorium and some of our gay youths are said to grow intensely patriotic the 1st of every month and renew their moratoriums in another thirty days. Such a warlike spirit ain't good, we say.

SMILE-A-WHILE

Has Gold Machine.—J. L. Koontz came over from Front street yesterday to say he has gone Long gold machine but being a little short of gold will sell the long machine for a short piece of gold and he says anyone who gets it and finds the right place can make Monte Cristo look like a piker.

SMILE-A-WHILE

No War News.—War news has been kinder scarce this wk. There was too much celestia and Lord Kitchener Harrigan has been to busy entertaining some relatives to alien his forces to Kaiser Sengstacken's maneuvering. This, in, there has been a axin of ammunition, even the pizza has been saved by the lokut cohorts out of all the gas they have used since the war began.

SMILE-A-WHILE

Social Collyum.—Walter Butler, Al Myers, Del Sengstacken, Frank Harlocker and one other fellow entertained one guest to a dinner ride the Fourth of July. Our society editor was not able to get her name.

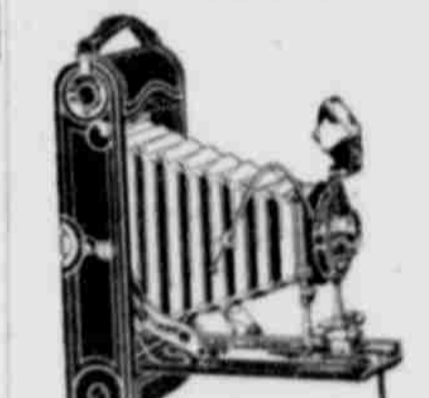

SMILE-A-WHILE

Lew Thomas was seen on Central Avenue this week exercising his charger again. Harry McKown insinuated that Lew's animal hadn't had hay, tacked away over the backbones, but Lew say that's what shows off his One-points and that Harry doesn't no nothing about two horses now.

Waiting For One at the Plate

Isn't half as much fun as waiting for a friend at the Smokehouse
The Home of Good Cigars and Good Tobaccos
Chandler Hotel Bldg.

PERSONAL MENTION.

FRED BUTLER, recently of Front street, has moved over to Central Avenue, and is now assistant mgr. of The Smokehouse. He is quite an addition to our sports front, being such a horse starter as he showed Louis Roberts, Harry Penster and some of the Myrl Pt. sports the other day. As a sample of his sports' philosophy he told us the other day that the most of money you bet on a mare don't always make her go faster on the home stretch. Welcome to our midst, Fred.

SMILE-A-WHILE
UNCLE GEORGE CARLTON, our est. tel. operator vicar, is might happy. He says that ever since he came to Coos Bay he's been trying to shoot the moon and he never succeeded until the Fourth of July. Good for you, George.

SMILE-A-WHILE
Frank Colman says as how the OWI is getting to be quite a stage depot and that he has had all the autos equipped this week with non-slipable skids so as they can run in the mud and water and that now he and Clay Church are figuring out a pneumatic tube arrangement that'll shoot passengers back and forth to Roseburg in a minute, more or less.

SMILE-A-WHILE
Gene Crosthwaite says through long experience he has noted a woman never fully enjoys a thimble party unless she has a startling piece of news to tell. We allow as how Gene is some keen observer of human nature.

SMILE-A-WHILE
Captain Dave Holden came over from Front street the other day to tell us that he has given up all hope for the Germans and is now working on a new spring lunis.

CENTRAL AVENUE SAYINGS

As a man grows older he sees the moonlight less and a lantern more.

SMILE-A-WHILE
A humbug isn't exactly a person who makes things hum.

SMILE-A-WHILE
Even the woman who paints isn't always true to her colors.

SMILE-A-WHILE
An egotist is a person who feels sorry for the people who don't like him.

SMILE-A-WHILE

Many a Coos Bay man who boasts of being the son of honor needs half smiling.

SMILE-A-WHILE

Next to prying an old bar bill, prying for a suit of clothes after it is worn out is the hardest job.

SMILE-A-WHILE

The looks say that no man over 45 ever has appendicitis. But most of us would take the risk for the privilege of being under 45.

SMILE-A-WHILE

When two Coos Bay men start in to tell each other how hard they work each is silently wondering how the other can be such a lay and live.

SMILE-A-WHILE

A man never gets any credit. If he talks in his sleep and says things about his wife she knows that he is just pretending to be asleep and is landing out a little naive because he knows she is listening.

SMILE-A-WHILE

It Will Surprise You

to know and understand, as we do, the fine results you can obtain with Anso photographic materials. Anso—the amateur camera of professional quality. Come in and let us demonstrate it. Anso Film is famous for its clear detail of shadows, high lights and freedom from halation. Anso Chemicals—prepared especially for developing Anso Film. We always have a fresh supply on hand. Cyan Paper—the prize-winning paper of fine, soft quality. Easily handled, won't curl. Used by amateurs and professionals.

OUR NEW POET

Now Henry Sengstacken is wearing a wee bit of the war britches and has gone in for the writing of classical poetry. He says as how he's just an amateur and not quite up to Captain Macgenn as yet but this week he was seen to slip quietly into the "manatorium" of ye ed and afterwards there appeared this scrap of rhyme and we don't know whether it's Henry's or the office devil's but anyhow it sounded that way. We don't remember just how it went, but it was optimistic we believe for it ended up this way saying "Bigger fleas has lesser fleas."

HERE, HERE!

Mel G. Duncan is a great joshier and now he's kiddin' the boys a plenty. Somewhere Mel happened to read a paper where it said that only one third of the senior girls at Princeton University had ever been kissed. Well, Mel he calmed himself quiet like and .ol' some of the boys on the sly and since then W. F. Miller says there's been great hopes of the fellows askin' the gals to Princeton. Well, Mel, did you get yourn yet?
To worry and to fit 'em, And lesser fleas have smaller fleas, And so on ad infinitum. Come again Henry, say we.
