WOULD HAVE LOCAL CARS IN TOURING CARRY PENNANT

Words "Coos Bay," It is Believed, Would Create More Than Passing Interest

Coos Bay cars that leave for touring trips should carry Coos Bay pennants. This is a move that frequently in the last few days has been talked of.

It is pointed out that a car leaving here and going to San Francisco or further south, passes through dozens of towns and cities. In every place the dust grimed car shows itself at once to be a stranger and therefore more than a passing glance of interest is taken in the passengers.

BUY AMERICAN MADE ARTICLES OF ALL KINDS

United States Made Goods for United States Citizens is Country's New Slogan

One good growing out of the great war in Europe is a new spirit of self-reliance by citizens of the United States. Many articles that the people of this country had come to rely upon Europe to produce were shut off by the war and consumers were compelled to turn to their own country for supplies.

Foremost in the lines in which the foreigners have heretofore predominated is perfumes. Milday insisted that Paris label be on the bottle of her favorite odor. That, too, has been changed. Paul Rieger, the well-known California perfumer, has been probably one of the most prominent factors in this change.

That Coos Bay people may become familiar with the merits of "Rieger's Flower Drops," there will be a special sale at three stores tomorrow at which you may purchase a regular 25 cent bottle for only 10 cents. This is for Saturday only and the stores are the Brown Drug Co., Lockhart, Parsons "Busy Corner," and the "Red Cross Drug Store."

ROY WERNICH CONNECTED WITH BIG MILL COMPANY

Manager Sash and Door Factory of Clatsop Mill Company and Sales Manager Also

Roy A. Wernich, eight years manager of the sash and door factory of North Bend, has just been appointed manager of the sash and door factory of the big Clatsop Mill Company of Astoria, and sales manager for the entire concern. His contract with the company is said to have been signed up last Saturday.

Friends of Mr. Wernich are greatly pleased to learn of his success in his new position as viewed as one of the best among the mill companies on the Columbia River.

During the period that he has been a resident of Coos Bay Mr. Wernich has made a host of acquaintances who now wish him the best of success, though at the same time they are sorry to lose him from the vicinity.

Mrs. Wernich returned this morning on the Breakwater from Astoria. She will dispose of a share of the household goods, moving part of them to Astoria, where they now intend to settle.

ASHLAND OFFERS US FREE CAMPING GROUNDS

Spend $175,000 Improving Their Springs and Now Invite the World to Visit

Ashland offers free camping ground with plenty of space for parking cars, pitching tents and in places equipped with gas for outdoor cooking if people will come and visit there. She has spent, or is still spending rather, $175,000 in the development of her natural spring. She is proud of them and the invitation is sent now to all travelers who can stop over that way.

The springs are of lithia, soda and sulphur nature and situated but a short distance from the city along side of Ashland creek.

Having improved to draw the outsiders to her, Ashland has made the surroundings particularly attractive. The invitation was received here from M. J. Duryea, secretary of the Commercial club of that city and formerly located in a similar capacity in Eugene where he was well known to many people of Coos Bay.

P. H. POOLE WEDS MISS CARPENTER

(Special to The Times.)

BANDON, Ore., July 16.—P. H. Poole of Port Orford and his bride left on the steamer Elizabeth for San Francisco to visit the exposition on their honeymoon. Mr. Poole was married to Miss Eunice Carpenter of Bandon, the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's parents in this city. The officiating clergyman was the bride's father who is an elder in the Latter Day Saints church. The bride and groom while the ceremony was performed crossed hands over an open bible which was the same one the bride's mother and father used in the same manner when they were married.

It's Well Known.

For several years past the bride has assisted her father in his store in Bandon and is a popular young lady. Mr. Poole formerly resided in Bandon and was the secretary of the Commercial club here. He now lives at Port Orford. He is manager and partner in the firm of McKenzie & Poole, conducting a general store at Port Orford and has taken active part in the affairs of the Commercial club and public enterprises and is one of the live wires of Port Orford.

Some in Doubt Yet

"In proportion to the number of cases which have actually occurred, the number of the proved instances is exceedingly small. Up to this day, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs is still without information concerning the fate of several consular officials who have been arrested. The Austrians and Hungarians who are being detained in hostile countries can be counted by the thousands. Almost all of them still endure in silence the outrageous methods wherein the governments of hostile countries set human dignity at naught. The breaches of the laws of warfare as compiled in part of this collection, must likewise be considered, however, as only individual evidence. For the time being we cannot have anything approaching a comprehensive knowledge of events in the territories beyond the enemy's lines. And yet, from the reports which reach us and from trustworthy news published in foreign daily papers, it is possible to draw the well-founded conclusion that thousands of shocking violations of the law of nations have occurred, especially in the districts of our country occupied by the enemy.

Troops Violate.

"It may be conceded that certain breaches of international law seem to be an inevitable consequence of the massing of troops on so huge a scale as this war has produced. But it is nevertheless most disappointing that the international agreements assuring the protection of lives, the honor, the freedom of the religious faith of peaceful citizens, and the arts and sciences, should be vitally violated by the troops and officials of the very government under the aegis of which The Hague Conference reformed and completed the laws of warfare. One of the main causes for this unfortunate situation must be ascribed to the employment of troops wholly unable to perceive the legal restrictions applied to warfare.

Indirect Troubles.

"The object of this publication is to adduce only such violations of the international law as have been perpetrated directly and individually against nationals of the dual monarchy; it, therefore, does not include the evidences of numerous exceedingly grave breaches of the law which affected Austria-Hungary in an indirect and general way. Such breaches are to be found in the arbitrary and unlawful declaration of France and Great Britain with regard to the status of Morocco, Egypt and Cyprus, in the violation of the rights of neutral nations and in the systematic disregard of the regulations provided by maritime law.

"The preposterous claim of the hostile nations to the right to subject the entire population of large countries to famine must be stigmatized as a sacrilegious violation of the rules of warfare. No less sacrilegious is the act of the hostile governments in tolerating, if not actually inspiring, the unprecedented agitation of a press which disseminates lies and fosters hatred. Most of the excesses to which thousands of innocent and defenseless people have fallen victims are the direct outcome of that agitation.

Laws Have Decayed

"The collection of evidence, as now published for general information, cannot convey even a faint idea of the decay which the notions of international law have undergone and which in the course of a few months have destroyed many a hope; it may, however, furnish some facts for the reflection of those whose judgment has remained unbiased as to who is responsible for the collapse of the law of nations and of the sense of morality in a war brought on by our enemies for the purpose of crushing nations engaged in the peaceful pursuit of the blessing of civilization, and as to who has the right to claim that he is fighting this hotly-contested struggle for the sake of liberty and humanity.

Names Withheld.

"The names of a number of witnesses have been withheld at their own special request; they have reasons to fear that the publication of their names would tend, as long as the passions aroused by the war last, to subject them to reprisals and thus endanger either their interests or those of other persons in hostile countries. The identity of all the witnesses has, however, been carefully established by responsible government officials; the names which have for the time being, been suppressed will be available when their publication will not be liable to entail harm to them or other sufferers of the war."

Gives an Example.

"A typical example" of the treatment of Austrians in Belgium is described in a letter from an Austrian merchant in the pertumery business who had lived for fifteen years in Belgium.

Paris and was forced to leave within twenty-four hours.

"The hostility and brutality of the population of Brussels towards Germans and Austrians," he writes concerning his journey through Belgium, "was beyond description. From Brussels we proceeded to Antwerp where we were arrested by the Carde Civique on the station platform. . . . My poor wife was hurried on with the butt ends of the guards' rifles. As she took no heed of this, she was struck across both legs with a rifle and was injured. We witnessed most pitiable scenes. A child, nine years, was so frightened that it refused to follow the others and clung with both hands to the railings at the exit, a garde civique hit it with its sabre and cut its left hand off. . . .

Pierces Woman's Eye

"An Austrian couple, who had owned a restaurant at Antwerp for the last sixteen years was terribly ill-treated by the mob. The poor woman had one of her eyes pierced with a fork while her husband had two fingers cut off. Another Austrian woman was expelled from a maternity home with her five days-old baby. She had neither dress nor shirt on her body which was only covered with a dirty bed sheet. It was a heart-rending scene yet it did not prevent a garde civique from making fun of her in a shameful manner; it was such a 'comedy,' very amusing, indeed."

With reference to the treatment of Austro-Hungarian nationals in France, the chief complaint was against the hardships imposed upon innocent women and children in the concentration camps. A deposition of Miss M. E. Schreiner, a graduate nurse, pictures conditions in a convent at Garnison to which Austrians, Hungarians and Germans were ordered after a march of 20 kilometres. Here they were informed that they were prisoners of war.

Treatment of Prisoners

"There were altogether about 1000 prisoners," declared Miss Schreiner, "half of whom were women and children. There was no furniture available and straw was the sole bedding. Under the pretext of safety, the existing latrines were boarded up and holes in the ground were dug by the male prisoners in lieu of other arrangements. There were no provisions made for washing. Insufficiency of food and the weather conditions soon brought about serious illnesses such as dysentery and in consequence epidemics broke out. Two women were confined and had to put up with the most atrocious treatment. Four people died."

Other cases cited included the "malicious punishment, rough medical attendance by a veterinary surgeon," and the "shameless molestation of interned girls by French soldiers" at Sables d'Olonne.

Young Girls Exposed.

"The young girls," according to one of the depositions, were exposed to criminal assaults by the soldiers. In the beginning, they were herded together with the young men and had to share their rooms or stables with them. Modesty forbids specification of all the acts of indecency to which we had to submit; worst of all offenders was the commission of police Maternes, who unmercifully maltreated all those who opposed his immoral designs."

The Royal Hungarian Ministry of the Interior obtained on January 11, 1915, a report of "the murder of interned Hungarians at Argenton-sur-Creuse, Angers, Bastide-St. Pierre, La Courtoine, Geratson, and Orville."

Checked by Kitchener

In Great Britain, insufficient food and accommodations, it is claimed, were accorded the interned nationals at Devonport and Newbury. "Colonel Haines," (presumably in charge of the detention camps), says a letter from Baron Giskra to Count Berchtold, "would have been quite willing to do something for the prisoners, but his humanitarian impulses were checked by Lord Kitchener."

Similar complaints are made of the prisoners at Dorchester and the Douglas concentration camp on the Isle of Man.

Prisoners Plundered.

In Russia, the intelligence department of the Austro-Hungarian general staff learned of "barbarous treatment inflicted on the interned at Arsenburg, where typhus and starvation depleted their ranks by the hundreds." In Serbia besides "rough treatment, plundering and insufficient food, compulsory naturalization was enforced, prisoners of war were robbed, badly fed, and forced to work for military purposes."

Worked Under Lash.

Cases are recorded of looting and killing directed especially against Jewish civilians who also "were forced under the lash to work in the trenches during their holidays." Atrocities committed by the Cossacks, assassinations and robberies and wanton destruction, all supported by concrete instances, were verified in Belgium included after the Austrians recoiled.
