BRAVE LOVE
He'd nothing but his violin
I'd nothing but my song.
But we were wed when skies were blue
And summer days were long.
And when we rested by the hedge
The robins came and told
How they had dared to woo and win.
When early spring was cold.
We sometimes supped on dewberries
Or slept among the hay.
But off the farmers' wives at eve
Came out to hear us play
The rare old tunes—the dear old tunes:
We could not starve for long
While my man had his violin
And I my sweet love song.

The world has aye gone well with us,
Old man, since we were one;
Our homeless wandering down the lanes—
It long ago was done;
But those who wait for gold or gear,
For houses and for kine,
Till youth's sweet spring grows brown and sore
And love and beauty pine,
Will never know the joy of hearts
That met without a fear
When you had but your violin
And I a song, my dear.
By Mary Kyle Dallas.

PERSONAL notices of visitors in the city, or of Coos Bay people who visit in other cities, together with notices of social affairs, are gladly received in the social department. Telephone 133. Notices of club meetings will be published and secretaries are kindly requested to furnish same.

will provide for you the brightest spots in your life. No one who has not tried it knows the gladness of having helped or cheered a friend. And there always seems to be some one in need of help. Your duty to your neighbor is your duty to yourself—make new friends.

When you are married at first you are all in all to one another, you don't want friends. Perhaps just for a little while neither does he, but "love is of man's life a thing apart." He wants the life in spite of the love; you are foolish not to give it him.

Friends will provide relaxation for him and will give him a keener appreciation of your society. Friends will entertain him and make him more fit for his work. Friends will put him "up to things" and will help him in business. Friends will stand by him when fortune falls. Your duty to your husband is clear.

FOR MISS MATTHEWS
Miss Harriet Collins and Miss Marie Gregg gave a linen shower on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Ruth Matthews who is soon to be married to C. B. Landers, formerly of this city and now agent for the Breakwater at Portland. The affair was at the home of Miss Matthews on Fourth street. She received quite a number of handsome presents in the shape of linen pieces. During the evening the company was entertained with music. Miss Sigma Larson played the mandolin and Miss Collins the violin and Misses Farringer and Kelly gave piano selections. The young ladies in attendance were: Adelaide Clark, Ursula Farringer, Bruce Kelly, Marie Gregg, Alice McLain, Charm Kinney, Rose Miller, Sigma Larson, Harriet Collins, Anna Holland, Ruth Matthews.

BELIEVE that people who don't make friends have three reasons for not making them—because they don't want to, because they are too proud to, and because they can't be bothered. They like to keep "themselves to themselves." They are quite content at home and they can't see why other people are not so also. Going out disturbs them and having people in completely upsets the apple cart. Friends have no place in their program.

They haven't money to entertain and they don't want people to know it. They belong to the "eye-for-an-eye" crowd; they don't understand that friendship is not "giving" but "having." They themselves go out for the entertainment they get, and they think that other people do the same. The meaning of hospitality is lost upon them; they don't know the value of a "cup of cold water."

They resent invitations—they "wish to goodness" people wouldn't ask them. They are too indolent to refuse, but they spoil other people's pleasure by endless objections—"cold," "fatigue," "no clothes," each has to be combated.

Independent of friends you may be just now, but just wait a bit, says Doris Blake. There will come a day when you long to "tell" some one, a day when you care not to burden those near and dear to you, a day when, perhaps, the latter are far removed from you. Then you will regret that you have not bound yourself with the bonds of friendship to some one who will advise and sympathize and love. That is what we want—as much love as we can get, and the more friends we have the more we will get—the less chance there is of ever being lonely, sorrowful, or afraid.

The benefit acts both ways—you need not wait for the rainy day to learn the benefit of friends. They

ELROD-WOODFORD NUPTIALS
At eight-thirty on the evening of July 14th, at Coquille, in the presence of relatives and intimate friends of both the contracting parties, Iris A. Elrod of North Bend, and Ruth E. Woodford of Coquille, were united in marriage at the home of the bride by the Rev. William Horsfall, Vicar of Trinity parish, Coquille, and Arch-Deacon of the Diocese of Oregon.

The impressive ring service of the Episcopal church was read and the wedding was pronounced by all present the prettiest affair of the season. The bride's home had been decorated for the occasion with lavish contributions of flowers from her many friends, and the result was a magnificent display of roses and dahlias in masses, while the formal decorations were of jasmine and sweet peas, the color scheme being pink and white. The bride entered on the arm of her father, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Mrs. Wm. Stratton.

The ceremony was performed beneath an arch festooned and trimmed with jasmine and sweet peas, before a mass of green and white.

OGREN-WHEELER NUPTIALS
Last Wednesday evening in Bandon, before a large assemblage of Rebekahs and Odd Fellows, occurred the marriage of Mrs. Margaret Ogren and Louis I. Wheeler, both of that city. Judge James Watson, of Coquille, officiating, with the ring ceremony, previous to which Mr. Wheeler was installed as Noble Grand of the Odd Fellows lodge.

The ladies had converted the lodge room into a veritable bower of flowers, using the lodge colors, pink and green, as the predominant feature of the decorations. Mrs. Ogren, escorted by her father, Jos. E. Fox, with her daughter Anna, preceding as ring bearer, and followed by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Fox as bridesmaid, was met under a large wedding bell by Mr. Wheeler and escort, L. B. Lowe. Here the impressive ring ceremony followed, after which the bride and groom were the recipients of many heartfelt congratulations. The lodge presented them with a handsome set of silver knives and forks.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of battleship gray silk poplin with lace trimmings and carried a showy bouquet of pink rose buds and maiden-hair fern. Miss Fox was prettily gowned in pink with cream trimmings and carried a shower bouquet of pink sweet peas. Anna Ogren, the ring bearer, was daintily dressed in white silk and carried the ring on a pink satin cushion. The groom wore blue.

During the evening Miss Fox, accompanied by Miss Alpha Mauzey, sang "I Love You Truly," and "When Song is Sweet" in her usual sweet way.

At a late hour the wedding party led the way into the banquet room which was profusely decorated with pink and green streamers and sweet peas of the same color. At the bride's and groom's places was a large white wedding cake with frosted wedding bell.

Immediately after the banquet Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, accompanied by the latter's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fox and Miss Alpha Mauzey, left in an auto for Marshfield. The bride and groom left Thursday for Lakeside where they will spend their honeymoon, and returning will make their home in Bandon.

banked to give the effect of a floral altar. The bride carried a bouquet of orchids (Cattleyas), lilies-of-the-valley, and forget-me-nots made up with maiden-hair fern, and was attired in a gown of cream "pussy willow" taffeta trimmed with old lace and the usual veil held with orange blossom wreath. She was attended by Miss Myrtle Lund, as bridesmaid, and was given away by her father, Mr. A. M. Woodford.

The groom was attended by Mr. John Miller, an old school friend, who acted as best man. The ceremony being completed, the company was entertained at supper by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Slagle, close friends of the bride's family, at their beautiful home adjoining, which had been formally decorated in green and pink, with occasional masses of roses and dahlias.

A company of twenty-one sat down to the wedding supper which was laid under a flat canopy of jasmine and pink rambler roses, upon one long table, tastefully decorated with Testout roses and forget-me-nots. The place cards were hand-painted by the hostess and were much admired. Those present at the supper were: Mr. and Mrs. Iris A. Elrod, Miss Myrtle Lund, Mr. John W. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Slagle, Mrs. Elrod, mother of the groom, Mr. A. M. Woodford, father of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Denning, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Saechl, Mrs. Jane H. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lamb, Mrs. Harry Slagle, Mrs. William Stratton, Mr. Owen Knowlton, and Masters Irving Lamb and Maurice Williams.

The local musical organization, popularly known as the "submarine" band, serenaded during the supper with several selections appropriate to the occasion. The whole affair from the beginning of the march to the last "good-night" passed off with perfect smoothness, and all present, were royally entertained, and departed for their homes about eleven p. m.

SOCIAL EVENING
Tuesday evening, July 13, a social was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Renchausen of North Bend. The greater part of the evening was taken up with a business session, Mr. Cavanaugh acting as president. Following the business meeting, two hungry looking specimens of humanity were selected from the crowd to test their eating qualities, and see which one could devour a slice of bread and jelly the quicker. The social part of the evening was conducted by a well known German soloist, especially noted for his extra good taste in the selection of songs, being very appropriate for such a rare occasion as this, one of the songs being, "Rock of Ages Cleft for Me," although it is firmly believed that he meant the other fellow. Following were those present: Jessie Heckathorn, Roy Heckathorn, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Coffelt, Doris Coffelt, Eyan Hodson, Mr. and Mrs. Youngmeyer, Allan Youngmeyer, Hazel Stewart, Garland Frey, Howard Frey, Mr. and Mrs. Renchausen, Minnie Renchausen, Nora Sells, Josie Caddenaw, Edith and Bert Cavanaugh, Mr. Cavanaugh and Earl Renchausen.

BRIDGE PARTY
Perhaps the most charming event socially during the past week was the one given given by Mrs. W. F. Miller, Mrs. F. M. Parsons and Mrs. R. M. Jennings, at the home of the former, Tuesday afternoon. The walls of the spacious rooms of the home were artistically and tastefully decorated with huckleberry, while hanging baskets hung here and there, and cut flowers, dahlias, sweet peas, and roses adorned the tables. The aroma upon entering the rooms were that of a beautiful woodland bower. Many lovely gowns were displayed and the affair was altogether a delightful one. Miss Margaret Powers received the guests and
