WARDEN IS COMING WANT WIDE STREET

CARL D. SHOEMAKER IS EXPECTED HERE ON TOUR OF STATE

Deputy Game Warden Thomas Learns of Three Does Above Allegany

State Game Warden Carl D. Shoemaker is expected here within a few days on a trip of inspection through the state, according to Deputy Game Warden Thomas. He believes that Mr. Shoemaker will come in from the south with State Game Commissioner Stone who is now believed to be at Rogue River.

When the Santa Clara sailed north this afternoon she carried in her hold 217 pounds of choice smoked venison, captured a short time ago in the mountains above Allegany. Some of it was found to have spoiled.

Clarence Gould told Mr. Thomas that on the very day Devoe was arrested he, Gould, had come across blood stains on the trail leading to the Devoe camp and a short distance away he found the carcasses of three does.

After his arrest Devoe is said to have taken the deputy game warden away toward Allegany around a different path and the meat was allowed to spoil on the bank of the river. Mr. Thomas says he will take the matter up with the District Attorney and something may be done about it.

Mr. Thomas is leaving soon for various parts of his district with three deputies. He is on the look out for fishermen who catch trout under six inches in length.

OBJECTS TO WORK SUTTON GIVES BOND SAYS TIMES GOOD

TOWNSITE COMPANY TRIES TO THWART COOSTON PLANKING

Warning Given Council—L. G. Meeks Provokes Mirth With Aladdin Like Prospectus of Company

Pleading that the improvements of Cooston's streets would result in the practical confiscation of the property of the Coos Bay Townsite Company, Tom T. Bennett last evening warned the city council of Eastside that there would be legal steps taken to enjoin the work. The grading and planking of the five streets under construction according to the estimates of S. B. Cathcart would approximate $22,000.

Arguments of Mr. Bennett were met with a fusillade of facts and counter arguments of the Eastside councilmen. L. G. Meeks wanted to know why First Street in Marshfield was being forced through by Bennetts.

"The people there argue that it means practically the confiscation of their property, too," he declared. The attorney was told that his argument would be equally as good in that case cited as a parallel.

"There are plenty of other streets to travel on," continued the councilman. "People could go around, couldn't they?"

Other jibes were taken when the city councilmen joined in the argument. It was pointed out that Mr. Bennett stood exactly in favor of a street improvement in Marshfield, the like of which he contended in Cooston. They said the case is similar.

Literature Provokes Mirth

And to enforce his remarks L. G. Meeks produced literature and a price list of the Coos Bay Townsite company, put out, it was claimed, two years ago.

There was much fun when he read about the plan to string cluster lights along Willanch Inlet, making them various colors. Factories were going in, read the literature, and the city was to boom in a hurry. The price list of lots it was stated ranged from $300 up to $25,000 for choice factory sites on the waterfront.

Mr. Meeks pointed out that with property listed at this rate surely there could be no confiscation of property to put in improvements that would cost the company about $1,000.

"But that's no sign the land is worth that much," declared Mr. Bennett.

Had Promised Streets

Further reading of the prospectus was resorted to, showing the plans that had been made for the putting in of streets.

Mr. Bennett argued that there are not enough people now in Cooston to justify the proposed street improvements and said that he did not want to make any threats but, as attorney for the Townsite company, warned the councilmen that, if necessary, legal steps would be taken to enjoin the starting of the street grading and planking.

Because the plans and specifications for the five streets had not been fully completed an extension of time was allowed City Engineer S. B. Cathcart and a special meeting of the council will be called by the mayor of Eastside to consider the plans. It is expected this will be in about a week. The grades on the five streets have already been adopted. If the plans and specifications are favorable, the next step will be the posting of notices.

Bad Check Case

Sheriff Johnson says that Murgatroyd, who is in jail charged with passing two worthless checks on Peter Mirrasoul at the National Saloon in Marshfield about July 4, was to have his hearing today or tomorrow before Justice Stanley. Stanley, however, is out of town and the hearing may be postponed. Murgatroyd also goes under the name of MacArthur. He claims that it is all a mistake—that he should still have a balance of about $180 at the First National Bank at Reno, Nevada, instead of being overdrawn $30. He does not explain why he is going under different names. He was employed by the Smith-Powers Company for a time and was living at Powers with his wife when arrested.

AMONG THE SICK

W. G. Chandler is nursing a mangled finger sustained in the Elks ball game at Bandon Sunday.

Howard Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Edwards, fell on a glass jar yesterday, inflicting a wound in his wrist, which necessitated several stitches. He lost considerable blood before the wound was staunch.

PORTLAND PRIEST IS TAKEN ILL HERE

Operation for Appendicitis Performed on Father J. C. Hughes of St. Lawrence Catholic Church

Rev. Father J. C. Hughes, rector of St. Lawrence Catholic Church at Portland, was operated on for the relief of appendicitis at Mercy Hospital in North Bend yesterday afternoon. He was getting along nicely today and it is thought that he will rapidly recover. He was taken sick while traveling and it was necessary to operate at once.

Father Hughes was accompanied here by the Rev. Father George J. Marr, D. D., of Columbia University, Portland. They were on their way from Portland to Port Orford where they expect to make a visit. Father Hughes being a member of the well-known Hughes family of that locality. Being ill on the way down here it was necessary for him to delay his trip and enter the hospital.

CLAIMS MISTAKE ABOUT ALLEGED LARCENY

Says George Bryant Alleged Ownership of Property—Sheriff Considers Bad Check Case

Geo. E. Sutton, charged with larceny from a building at the Salmon Mountain mine, was brought here late yesterday by Sheriff Johnson for his preliminary examination before Justice Penneck. Justice Stanley of Coquille was out of town and Sheriff Johnson went to Myrtle Point, but found when he reached there that Justice Dodge could not act because he was administrator of the Orville Dodge estate which holds the largest interest in the Salmon Mountain mining property.

Sutton was bound over to the grand jury and was to furnish $200 bonds today.

Claims Innocence

Sutton admits the general charge, that he assisted in taking an anvil and some drills from the buildings on the Salmon Mountain mine, but he claims that he accompanied Geo. Bryant and three others and that Bryant claimed that he owned the property and had a right to take what he wanted.

Sutton tells such a straightforward story of the matter that Sheriff Johnson feels convinced that there is some mistake. He says that Sutton proved by appearing at Coquille that he was not guilty of a crime, and Sheriff Johnson put such confidence in him that he practically allowed him his liberty before bonds were furnished. Sheriff Johnson says that if he was at Coquille when Sutton came in, he would not have put him in jail.

Will Produce Bryant

Sutton further says that as soon as his bonds are provided he will go out and get Bryant, who is prospecting in the Salmon Mountain country and bring him to face the charges against them. Bryant was a former Alaska miner and claims that he jumped the Salmon Mountain claim. He says that the holders of it have not done the assessment work required by law.

The charges against Sutton and Bryant were sworn out by Walter Sinclair of Coquille, who has an interest in the Salmon Mountain Mining Company and was attorney for Orville Dodge, who promoted it.

Good Looking Man

Sutton is a good-looking young fellow of powerful physique. He came from Missouri about 18 months ago and for a time worked for the Smith-Powers Logging Company. He stopped at The Chandler with Sheriff Johnson.

BEN LAWRENCE, MANAGER OF PAPER, IS HERE

Indiana and Middle West Enjoying Prosperity—Coquille Boy Attains Unusual Success

Ben Lawrence, a former Coos county boy who has attained unusual success in the newspaper field and who is now business manager of the Indianapolis Star, was here yesterday from Coquille where he and Mrs. Lawrence are spending part of his vacation at the home of his father, City Recorder J. S. Lawrence.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence left for the Maze on South Coos River where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. O'Connell at their home for a few days. They came over yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Johnson in the latter's car.

Mrs. Lawrence has been at Coquille for a few weeks but Mr. Lawrence arrived last week. He expects to be in this section for a week or so longer.

He was warmly welcomed here by his many old friends who are more than gratified over the success he has attained. The Indianapolis Star is one of the most successful papers in the Middle West. It is owned by a syndicate which controls a number of papers in that section. Mr. Lawrence entered the newspaper game at Coquille, later going to Portland as a reporter on the Oregonian and finally going east where he worked up by rapid strides from reporter to managing editor and later to the business management of the Star.

Mr. Lawrence says that Indianapolis and vicinity is very prosperous. The middle west, being a producer of foodstuffs and machinery for which the European war has created additional demand and higher prices, has enjoyed unusual prosperity the past year.

MRS. R. GIDLEY STRICKEN

Mrs. Rebecca Gidley, mother of A. B. Gidley, suffered a stroke of paralysis this afternoon and her condition is serious. She is past 81 years of age and has been confined to her bed at the Gidley home on account of a broken arm caused by a fall when up Coos River.

MRS. OLSEN DIES

PARALYTIC STROKE PROVES FATAL A MIDNIGHT

Deceased Lived in Empire—Was Mother Captain Olson of Gasoline Schooner Rustler

Mrs. Helene Olsen, aged 73 years, died at midnight, within an hour after she had been taken with a paralytic stroke at Empire. Up until 11 o'clock last night she was in fairly good health apparently. The deceased is the mother of Captain Pete Olsen, of the Rustler, and a grandmother of Captain Skog, of the Roamer. The funeral will not be held until both these boats, which are now out, have reported in harbor again.

The deceased leaves five children. They are Captain Pete Olsen, Mrs. John Peterson, Miss Mary Olsen, Hans Olsen and Annie Olsen, all of whom live at Empire. The grandchildren are Captain Skog and Louis Peterson, both of the Roamer, Alfred Peterson and Elmore Peterson.

Mrs. Olsen was born in Norway and lived there until 11 years ago when she came to America. Her husband died many years before she came here.

TELEPHONE COMPANIES LIKELY WILL SETTLE DIFFERENCES

Kenwill Line Wants North Bend Connection With Larger Company

The differences between the Kenwill Telephone Company and the Coos and Curry Company will probably be settled to the satisfaction of both. The Kenwill company is an independent line extending from Cooston up Kentuck, Willanch and Larson sloughs. The line now has connections with the larger telephone company at Marshfield but connections are asked for at North Bend as this would do away with about five miles of unnecessary lines.

In consideration of this change the Coos and Curry company wanted the Kenwill company to sign an agreement not to compete in their present field or any field that they might enter. This was regarded as indefinite. It appears that what the Coos and Curry company wanted was to keep the Kenwill company out of Eastside. The Kenwill company members say that they have no desire to enter Eastside but that if there is any big growth at Cooston they want to develop that field. It is likely the matter will be adjusted soon.

The Kenwill company will hold a meeting Monday when officers will be elected and the annual business of the company transacted.
