Parties Postponed.—Mrs. Charles Van Duyn is somewhat better today at her home but the bridge parties arranged for this afternoon and also for tomorrow have been indefinitely postponed on account of her illness.

Falls From Bicycle.—Arthur Crawford, formerly a carrier for The Times, while riding his wheel in West Marshfield last evening had a bad fall and his arm was badly bruised. His wheel was undamaged.

Have Social Evening.—The Owls lodge will have a social evening on Thursday evening, in conjunction with the Ladies' Auxiliary, recently organized. There has been a short program prepared and there will be a luncheon served later in the evening.

Locates Party.—Through an item in The Times, Mrs. R. O. Thorpe has located Mrs. L. P. Miller, concerning whom she had an inquiry from Margaret Walter of San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Miller now reside at Powers and noticing the inquiry in The Times concerning them immediately wrote to The Times.

Motor From Spokane.—J. E. Allen, son of Mayor Allen, with his wife and baby, arrived here at four o'clock yesterday afternoon from Spokane, having motored the entire way in exactly one week to the hour. The fact that they spent a day in Seattle and Portland, means that they were five days making the trip. Mr. Allen is intending to locate here.

Party Goes to Beach.—The Alice H. is chartered for tomorrow evening and will leave Marshfield about 7:15 o'clock with about 70 young people of the city, going to the lower bay. The evening will be spent at the sand hills. There will be a large bonfire and a supper served and the party will come home late in the evening.

Deaths in Wyoming.—Mrs. R. J. Walrath has received word of the death of Mrs. C. W. Bard at Douglas, Wyoming, of blood poisoning. Mrs. Bard lived here for a couple of years. Mr. Bard being one of the proprietors of the Club cigar store until last spring, when he sold out to return to the old home in Wyoming.

Letters Are Late.—Though the papers came through all right on the train last night there were no letters for the outside mail. They did not arrive until two o'clock this afternoon, the noon train being late. No reason was known at the Postoffice for the delay and the belief was that the machine carrying the first-class mail must have broken down on the way.

Sullivan Falls.—Sullivan—there was no prefix and it might even be the veteran prize fighter Jim, if he had not lately crawled aboard the water wagon—woke up and found himself in the Hotel Carter this morning. Opposite his name was the charge "drunk" and a little farther on was scrawled, "no cash," so it is presumed on good authority that Sullivan was drunk when he met his fate last night. At any rate he was unable to pungle over a fiver for the general fund.

Last Log Raft.—The last of the large cigar shaped log rafts of the Benson Logging Company has been sent out of Portland and south to San Diego. This may be good news to mariners for a short time ago Captain Paulson, coming to Coos Bay on the Westerner, off Point Arenas met one of these rafts in a heavy wind and sea. Some of the logs had come adrift and he had great difficulty in threading his way through safely. The rafts generally carry about 7,000,000 feet of logs.

Interesting Booklet.—There have been received here several copies from the Port of Humboldt of a booklet put out by them recently for the members of the Rivers and Harbors committee when they visited that port. The statement is made that the three miles of wharfage on the Bay, built at a cost of approximately $3,000,000. The two

Funds for Army.—Captain A. M. Elmer, of the Salvation Army, with headquarters in Portland, is here in the city and will be for about ten days yet, securing donations for the work of the army. He then intends to go to North Bend. Three months will be spent in going through Coos and Curry Counties, meeting not only the business men, but the farmers as well. He comes in here twice a year and states that his trip this year has been very successful. Captain Elmer covers all of Western Oregon for the Salvation Army.

PETE SCOTT DEAD

WELL KNOWN COOS BAY PIONEER SUCCEEDS TO ILLNESS

Came to Coos Bay Thirty-four Years Ago and Engaged in Fishing and Gardening

Peter Scott, for thirty-four years a well known resident of Coos Bay, died at a ranch on Catching Inlet this morning after a long illness. He had been ailing for months, first suffering from the grippe, later pneumonia and other complications. He went to the ranch a few weeks ago in hopes of getting relief there but the trip was in vain.

Mr. Scott was born in Scotland sixty-three years ago. He came to Coos Bay thirty-four years ago, first engaging in fishing and later in gardening, living for years in what was known as "Scott's Glen Gardens" on South Seventh street. After the sale of the property a few years ago to E. W. Wright and associates, he resumed fishing. For a time, he conducted a confectionary store in Coquille.

Mr. Scott is survived by his wife and two sons. He and Emma McDaniel were married in Empire thirty years ago. The sons are Peter Scott, of Seattle and James Scott of Portland, both being employed by the Tacoma Dredge Company.

OLD PAPER TELLS OF COOS BAY LINE

First Copy of Eugene Guard Tells Roseburg Bonus to Coos Bay Railroad

The Eugene Guard prints the following from the first issue of that paper which was presented to Editor Hinner the other day by C. H. Hodder, the paper being dated June 8, 1891.

"Roseburg at that time was considering a proposal to raise a subsidy of $75,000 in connection with the construction of a railroad from Coos Bay to that city. Roseburg at present is considering a bond issue in connection with another railroad project.

Florence is advertised as the Pacific coast terminus of the Siuslaw and Western railway.

"This road is destined to become a transcontinental line, and will pour into the new city of Florence the treasures of a continent," the advertisement states.

The Guard at that time was edited by I. L. Campbell.
