PUBLIC CAMPING GROUND

THE tourist traffic to Coos Bay is constantly increasing with better roads and with the coming of the railway the present spasmodic trickle will become a deluge. The need of public camping grounds has not yet been felt but with the increase in the number seeking such accommodations, the need of such a public place will become imperative.

SHOULD TEACH SWIMMING

EVERY great disaster has some resultant good effect. The Eastland horror is having life protecting influence in several directions. It has led to a definite movement to introduce into the Chicago schools the teaching of swimming.

NO FORDS FOR WAR

JUST a little while ago a story went around that the Ford automobile factory had filled an order for 50,000 cars to be used for military purposes by one of the governments now at war.

"I would never let a single automobile get out of the Ford plant if I thought it was going to be used in warfare."

"I consider the man who aids the war, whose goods will tend to prolong the war, even though they may be sold under the guise of aiding the injured of that warfare, is an accessory to the murders of war."

"I can think of nothing lower in the moral scale than a man who will grow rich on the blood of soldiers driven to battle, one against another."

KLAMATH FALLS—Gilbert H. Grosvenor, editor of the National Geographic Magazine declares that Crater Lake is one of the most scenic bodies of water in the world.

WITH THE TOAST AND THE TEA

GOOD EVENING

Go to the woods and hills! No tears Dim the sweet look that nature wears.

THE STRAIGHT AND NARROW ROAD

The narrow road so straight and long. From beginning to the end; Has some perilous by pathways, And many a would be friend, Keep straight ahead, don't lose your nerve;

A handsome youth, quite brave and strong. Ventures forth without much fear, And strolls along life's great highway.

A young girl, a beautiful creature, Walks along quite near the edge; Meets the smiling friend pretentious; Waiting there just o'er the ledge.

Parents, teachers and all preachers; 'Tis your duty, do not fail To guard children, youths and maidens;

We do not manage things right in this world. We always applaud those who try to sing in public when we should save our applause for those who do not try to sing.

Some Coos Bay men never get ahead because they regard one half their jobs as too big for them to handle and the other half as too insignificant for them to handle.

A Coos Bay man will spend five hours convincing his wife white is white, and five seconds later she will forget that she has been convinced.

Leave it to the husbands and wives and you will learn that the ideal husband and the ideal wife live farther up the street.

Too many Coos Bay men imagine that just because they have succeeded in keeping out of jail they have a cinch on a seat in heaven.

Some Coos Bay men possess a remarkable ability to say what they mean without letting anyone else know.

A reader wants to know who is the prettiest girl on Coos Bay in the opinion of the Editor of The Times. That's easy. She is reading this paragraph right now. Watch her blush.

The tango has grabbed such a hold on the girls that a man who has one leg shorter than the other hates to walk down the street. Every time he dips the girls want to dip, too.

In this world of woe and trouble it always seems that the best fishing hole is on the other side of the creek.

A bride doesn't know it, but her sweeping has just begun when she sweeps up the church aisle.

When a Coos Bay woman gets a hat with a bird on it all she sees is the plumage and all her husband sees is the bill.

When a Coos Bay man and woman agree to marry it is often the last thing they agree on.

Cheer up— If you are broke on Sunday and your pants are so shiny on the seat that you have to stay home all day you know that your name is not going to appear in an auto accident as a joy ride victim in The Times on Monday evening.

A real good hearted man is he, He is a whole souled neek; Yet though he's whole soled I can see He's wearing shoes that leak.

After a Coos Bay woman has raised a few children it makes her

LOCAL OVERFLOW

Caught in the Storm.—Though the weather man swears there was no rain last night and says the dampness of the grass and the sidewalks was but the fog and the dew, yet Richard Hawley appeared at police headquarters properly soaked late last night. He could hardly gurgle his name and so was tagged for the night in one of the guest rooms. The $1.20 that he had far down in his jeans could not be made into a fiver for the general fund, unfortunately.

Prominent Athlete Weds.—Homer B. Jameson, well known to all the alumni of the University of Oregon, and for several years one of the most prominent football and baseball athletes of the institution, was married in Portland on Tuesday evening to Miss Jean Katherine Allison, also of the University. The groom is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity and the bride of the Delta Delta Delta sorority. Mr. Jameson is now athletic coach in the Jefferson high school of Portland.

Goes to Jail.—A man named Ferguson was taken to the county jail yesterday from North Bend, sent there by Justice Shuster, after the man had been arrested for stealing a pair of shoes from a lodger named Christenson, in the Matson Rooming house. It was claimed in court that Ferguson had sold the shoes to a local dealer for $1.50. The shoes were returned to their original owner. Ferguson was bound over to the grand jury on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Buys Homesite.—W. J. Conrad yesterday closed a deal with W. A. Reid for two lots in Perham Park. Mr. Conrad has selected this double corner for a home site and contemplated building in the near future. The location is ideal, a sheltered nook, just north of the Perry home now in course of construction on Eighth Street. Now that the building movement is started in that neighborhood, others are becoming enthused and before winter sets in there will be a number of attractive homes in this district.

Take Body to Gold Beach.—The body of Mrs. J. Huntley who died Wednesday in Portland following an operation arrived here on the Breakwater today. It was accompanied by a daughter, Mrs. S. D. Pierce and a son, Floyd Huntley and met here by another son, Harry Huntley. The body was taken this afternoon in the auto truck of Louis Loomis, of North Bend, to Gold Beach, where Mrs. Huntley lived for 43 years and where the funeral will take place. She was 64 years of age and had been suffering from a cancer.

Car Has New Coat.—One of three passenger coaches, possession of the Coos Bay, Roseburg & Eastern Railroad, has undergone such a change that it looks like a new car. Out of the shops it rolled this morning, speck and span in shining new paint, contrasting decidedly with its weather-beaten mate. The third coach of the line has gone into the shops and it too is now receiving an annual clean-up and painting. The fact that the coach put on this morning had no number led the railroad men to assert that they ran out of numbers when they got to it.

Novel Advertising.—At the Chamber of Commerce has been received a letter from San Francisco explaining a novel advertising scheme launched in that state in 1913 and which bids fair to bring the best results of any campaign ever started there. October 1 is called California Newspaper Day and on that date every paper in California is supposed to publish an issue, well illustrated, telling of the local industries and conditions, these to be bought up by the townspeople and sent to their friends in the East. It is said San Diego started the movement three years ago and that 50,000 copies were sent from that city to various parts of the world.

If we ever get around to telling the truth about everything, some Coos Bay girls will have to carry signs bearing the inscriptions "Fresh Paint."

Us men like to knock the women because they gossip so much. But if you want to hear some real gossip just hang around some Coos Bay bar where a bunch of men are gabbing.

Always remember that if all your prayers were answered you wouldn't want to go to heaven.

Somehow or other, when a man is talking over the telephone you can always tell when there is a woman at the other end of the wire.

A Coos Bay woman always knows what she wants until she gets it.

GOES FOR BRIDE

ARTHUR PECK FOLLOWS LITTLE WINGED CUPID TODAY

To Wed Miss Frances Harkness in Michigan in September—to Take Long Honeymoon

A romance of more than usual interest will be culminated in St. Claire, Michigan, early in September when Miss Frances Harkness, for two years instructor in the Marshfield high school, will become the bride of Arthur Peck, a prominent Marshfield attorney. Mr. Peck left on the Kilburn for the East Friday going there by way of San Francisco.

Announcement of the young people's engagement was made last spring. Miss Harkness has been here two years and in this time made a host of friends who will welcome her back again. She was an instructor in the commercial department. At the close of the school year she returned to her home in the east where she has spent the summer with her parents. Mr. Harkness has been interested in the iron foundry business but is now retired.

The ceremony will probably take place September 6 or 8 said Mr. Peck yesterday. He has never visited in St. Claire. On their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Peck will travel through the Great Lakes and down to Burlington, Vermont, the old home of Mr. Peck. Later an aunt will be visited in her cottage at Banam Lake, Connecticut, and then they will go to New York to visit a sister of Mr. Peck.

The return to Marshfield will be made over a northern route, and a stop for a few days made in Seattle where Mr. Peck has a brother.

Mr. Peck is a member of the law firm of Peck and Peck, a graduate of the University of Vermont and a member there of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He has been in Marshfield for about three years, and it was here that he met his prospective bride. They do not expect to return to Coos Bay much before October 15.

GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATION BLAMES ROCKEFELLERS

Says That Colorado Mine Owners Were at Fault in Strikes and Rioting There

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 26.—The responsibility for the strike of coal miners in Colorado in 1913-14 for the disorder and rioting that followed is placed squarely on the shoulders of operators in a report by George P. West, made public today by the Commission on Industrial Relations.

The Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. controlled by John D. Rockefeller is declared to have been the main force in formulating and carrying out strike policies. Mr. Rockefeller, his son, John D. Rockefeller, are charged, first, with the selection of incompetent and reactionary agents to serve as executive officers in this company, and, second, with giving their heartiest endorsement and support to those officials who they had taken action that precipitated the worst of the trouble.

Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., charged with having applied measures to coerce the state government of Colorado and with having filed the will of the President of the United States.

The report says: "During all the seven trade-bitter months that preceded the strike Mr. Rockefeller wrote letters and letters in enthusiastic praise of the whole acts during this period precipitated a reign of terror which culminated in the Ludlow massacre filled the pages of the nation with editorial condemnation, when mourners in New York paraded in front of his New York office, when cartoons in conservative press pilloried him as his father before an angry mob that at last compulsion drove to concern in his letters and programs to Denver."

Of Mr. Rockefeller's responsibility the report says: "Mr. Rockefeller's responsibility has a significance beyond the sinister results of his policy in Colorado. The perversion of and contempt for government, the denial of public welfare, and the destruction of public opinion during the Colorado strike must be considered as one manifestation of the material and anti-social spirit of a man whose enormous wealth gives him the opportunity to act in similar ways."

The report also censures Gustav Ammons and prominent Colorado men for co-operating with the operators in the fight against miners.
