PROTECT TURK BRIDGE

Historic Structure in Constantinople Object of the Allies Attacks

ATHENS, Aug. 27.—The Galata bridge at Constantinople which has been an object of British submarine and aeroplane attacks, is the chief of two bridges which cross the Golden Horn and connect Galata with Stamboul. The bridge was completed by a German company in 1912, and replaced by iron an old wooden structure by which connection was maintained between these two important quarters of the capital. The bridge was constructed in such a way that certain sections can be opened in order to allow vessels to pass into the inner and naval parts of the city.

The bridge is one of the most frequented places in all Constantinople. Along its sides run a series of landing stages from which sail local steamers for Scutari, for the islands in the Sea of Marmora, and for the Bosphorus. A toll is levied on all persons crossing the bridge. Its sides are lined with a picturesque assemblage of beggars afflicted with all manner of diseases, which in eastern fashion are advertised to the passerby in hopes of securing monetary assistance. In the crowd which daily crosses the bridge are representatives of every nationality in every variety of apparel.

FRENCH WAR WIDOWS RELIEF WORK GREAT

Mutual Benefit Association to Find Work for Women and Also To Assist Needy

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Five thousand widows of the war have now benefited in one way or another through the "Society of Mutual Assistance." This was one of the earliest movements started for the relief of the war victims. It was organized August 19, 1914, and a week later began effective work under the name of the "Woman's Office" at 15 rue de la Ville l'Evêque.

The "Woman's Office" sought employment, not only for widows, but also for women whose husbands were mobilized, and endeavored by various means to assist women, whose income was cut off by the war, in earning their living. It gave no charity, but made loans to those in immediate want.

For a simple "Woman's Office", the movement soon became a Widow's Office, and was finally reorganized into a mutual association. Its object is still, not charity, but mutual aid in finding ways of gaining a livelihood for its members. It is patronized by generous citizens of all religions and all political parties. Frederic Masson, the venerable Academician and historian of the Napoleonic era, is directing the organization, while the Countess of Ribes, who for years has assisted the orphans of La Villette by annual sales of knickknacks, made in antique style, organized the workrooms of the society. Nearly everything is made in the antique style, and so boxes with miniatures or ornamented paper are masterpieces of French art. The widows are making all kinds of ornamental receptacles, in all forms, the hand bags in black moire with carved clasps, pearl bags with antique clasps, screens, lacquered Japan chests, fans, hand painted Christmas cards, etc.

As fast as the sales grow the membership will be increased, and by organizing annual sales in the principalities of the United States, Canada and South America it is hoped to create a permanent outlet for these articles that will support a considerable number of afflicted women. The benefits of this association are rigorously restricted to widows; remarriage cancels membership.

COLD MAIMS SOLDIERS

Many Italians Suffer From Frost Bites During Service in the Mountains

ROME, Aug. 27.—Even at this season of the year there are many of the Italian soldiers suffering from frost bites, and the gangrene which follows. These cases are among the men serving as outposts on mountain summits, some of them 12,000 feet above sea level, where they stand practically motionless for hours at a time. The danger of freezing will increase with the approaching winter, and appeals have been made to all classes, besides factories, to hasten the preparation of warmer garments of every description for these exposed sentries. By private initiative, 5,000 warm garments are being made daily.

PENSION FOR WOUNDED

BUDAPEST, Aug. 27.—The Hungarian government has just announced a scheme of limited pensions for veterans of the war. A cripple totally incapable of work will get $27.50 a year; if only disabled to a small extent, $25. A widow is to have $11.25 a year. It is hoped that it may be possible to increase these rates after peace is declared.

SERBIA WAR AGAIN

RESUMPTION OF HOSTILITIES ALONG AUSTRIAN BORDER

Serbian Claim to Have Prevented Austrians Fortifying Left Bank of Save River

NISSA, Aug. 27.—Further skirmishes between the Austrians and Serbians marked the resumption of hostilities on this front. The official statement says, the Serbians by infantry fire, prevented the Austrians from fortifying themselves on the left bank of the Save near Oracizatz and Drenutz.

SWISS SUPPLY GERMANS

Textile Factories Busy on War Orders—Germany Conserves Supplies

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 27.—All the textile factories along the Rhine, and also those around Prague, Budapest and Vienna, are said to be working day and night, turning out winter garments for the armies. Large orders have been placed with Swiss manufacturers of heating appliances for the German army. A Berlin automobile manufacturer is said to have discovered a system of curtain for motor cars, which not only protects from the rain but also from the cold and permit a ready change of the color to accord with the foliage of the country.

The winter campaign seems to be looked forward to without much apprehension in Germany as the measures taken to economize food supplies have been so effective that no lack of provision is feared. In Austria, however, according to reliable reports, the situation will be more serious as the some precautions were not taken and their application is not so easy as in Germany.

FALSE-LIMB TEACHER

Austrian, Injured at Spokane Instructs Maimed Soldiers in use of False Limbs

VIENNA, Aug. 27.—Rudolph Gurtelschmid, an Austrian who in 1907 lost both arms and both legs in Spokane, Washington, through contact with a high current electric wire, is now in Vienna, and is being taken through the various hospitals where war cripples are in order to demonstrate to them the use of artificial limbs and to cheer them up in general.

Gurtelschmid was able to walk five days after his artificial legs had been supplied him, and today is able to walk between 10 and 12 miles a day, without relying upon a cane. He runs without difficulty, jumps and goes up and down stairs readily. He can even climb a ladder and ride a tricycle, and does almost everything that a person with legs can do.

He is quite as clever with the use of his "hands," and eats with knife and fork, writes and carries packages and parcels with seeming ease. He is engaged as a tobacco worker. The war has lessened his earning capacity, and so he has become, so to speak, an instructor in the use of artificial limbs to keep his income up to par.

BOOK MAKERS WEALTH

English Manufacturer Who Recently Died Got His Start on the Race Track.

SHEFFIELD, England, Aug. 27.—Henry Steel, head of the great English steel firm of Steel, Peech and Tozer, who has just died at his home here, was perhaps best known outside trade circles as the man who laid King Edward, then Prince of Wales, $5000 to a carrot against a horse at the Epsom races. The Prince lost and paid with a carrot formed of coral mounted in gold. Mr. Steel and his partner, Mr. Peech, formed the greatest firm of bookmakers on the English turf fifty years ago. The fortune which they made on the racetrack enabled them to enter the iron and steel industry as pioneers in 1875. Mr. Steel died at the age of 83.

BANDON HOME BURNED BY FALLING LAMP

J. E. Fox Suffers Loss of House and Most of His Effects—Son Visiting Him at Time

BANDON, Ore., Aug. 27.—The residence of J. E. Fox, just off the south end of Jackson avenue was burned early Sunday morning. At the time of the accident the only occupants of the house were Miss Elizabeth Fox and Mrs. Robert Fox and baby. Miss Elizabeth arose at about three o'clock in the morning and lighting a lamp started for the kitchen of the house. On her way she tripped over a small chair and the lamp fell and broke. Flames communicated themselves to the lace curtains in the windows and to clothes in a nearby closet.

The nearest city hydrant was two blocks away. Nothing could stay the flames and only a little was saved from the building. By the application of water from pails the woodshed and chicken house were saved.

At the time of the fire J. E. Fox owner of the building was at Port Orford with Robert Fox, taking some pictures and did not return until the next day. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fox are from California.

A number of valuable articles owner of the building, was at Port was a collection of ivory from Alaska, gathered by J. E. Fox when in that country. This consisted of numerous articles, animals, men by the hundred carved from walrus tusks. The collection was valued at $1000. A huge painting of Mrs. Fox's mother, valued at $200 was also lost. Mr. Fox had a fine collection of agates lost in the ruins. The agate, though hard will not stand fire and the blackest of them turns to a white chalky substance.

BRIEFS OF BANDON

News of City-by-the-Sea as Told by The Recorder

A. G. Thrift and family started overland on a trip into California with the expectation of being gone all winter. Besides himself and family Mr. Thrift was accompanied by Mrs. H. Lee and Lloyd Rosa. They will go to San Jose and other points in California, of course not neglecting San Francisco. Mrs. Thrift plans to visit some of the springs that are so recommended for rheumatic ailments and hopes to benefit thereby.

Engineers Webber of the Phoenix, King of the Elizabeth borrowed Geo. Lafaw's car and started out to see the country. All went well until in the vicinity of Lampa in meeting another car they ran the machine off the grade and had to make their way home as best they could. Saturday morning Mr. Lafaw took Sellmer's car and some ropes and went out and got the car back on the highway with little damage because of the incident.

Something like twenty tents are pitched on the hill alongside Ocean drive with the big tent as the center of attraction. These are people with Seventh Day Adventists from all sections of Coos County come to attend the annual camp meeting.

Sam Schumate got his marksman's eye on a bear on his claim north of this city and pulling the trigger brought brain to the dust. The bear a 100-lb black one, was prepared for exhibition purposes and brought down to town and placed in the City Market where Monday it was carved up into steak and roast joints.

Captain Wren of the Bandon light house was the purchaser this week of the house owned by Peter Anderson on Elmira street. The same consists of a house and two lots and the consideration is not made known. It is reported that Mr. Anderson will go to prospect conditions on the Sluslaw.

KEEP DOWN WEEDS

DANDELIONS AND WIND JOIN TO SEED CLEAN LAWNS

Lack of Weed Ordinance and Its Enforcement, Protest Many Owners, Allows Spread of Pests

First Dandelion—"This is the life for me. (Lifts its head, and peeks about.) High ho—there is the first clean lawn I have seen for a long while, and so near to me. Gee, it looks green and nice; I'm goin' over and try it."

North Wind—"Well, little playmate—come in, the water's fine. Go on over. I'll carry you on my back." All the other million and one dandelions of Mr. Slovenly Neighbor's front yard chip in and want to go along. North Wind huffs and puffs and away they all go, over to the green lawn, where they romp and scatter about in delightful abandon.

First Dandelion—"(Nestling down on the clean lawn.) 'I never had such a bed in my life. I've been looking for a home and here it is at last.'"

And so the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Clean Yard became sown with their neighbor's dandelions, and next spring all the lawns on the street will have plenty of pretty yellow dandelions that by no means "waste their fragrance on the desert air." Perhaps in another season the descendants of the first dandelion and said tribe can blow around the corner into the next street, and so on, ad infinitum.

Property owners all over the city who try to keep the weeds out of their lawns are vigorously protesting against neighbors who make no attempts to keep down the weeds and then let the seeds blow where they will.

In the ordinances of the city there is no statute covering such rightly called misdemeanors. Ordinance No. 625 comes the nearest to it, though its main aim is that of fire prevention, and says there shall be no accumulation of shavings, weeds etc.

Months ago the council authorized the city attorney to draw up a weed ordinance, but as yet none such has been reported back to the city fathers, and in the meantime, say the property owners, the clean lawns are being well seeded down with weeds for next year.
