FAIR GATES OPEN

MYRTLE POINT IS HOST OF COUNTY SEPT. 8, 9, 10 AND 11

All in Readiness for Opening Tomorrow of Fourth Annual County Fair—Bigger than Ever

Tomorrow morning there will be considerable excitement in the neighborhood of Myrtle Point where opens there at 9 a. m. the fourth annual Coos County Fair to which the entire county has been invited. At 6 o'clock tomorrow evening all entries for exhibit must have been received; none will be admitted after that hour, according to the officers of the Fair Association.

Word from Myrtle Point is to the effect that already the exhibits eclipse by far those of previous years. Racing men for several days have had their horses on the track, putting them in shape for the three days racing program. There have been brought in this year several new horses from the outside which are expected to give the local talent a fair run for the money.

The officers of the Fair Association this year are R. C. Dement, president; J. L. Masson, vice president; L. A. Roberts, secretary; H. A. Schroeder, treasurer; C. A. Gage, director; A. E. Adelsperger, director; E. S. Dement, director.

For practically the first time it is believed that stock, dairy and beef, will be exhibited from Coos Bay, several farmers having consented to show against the animals of producers in the Coquille Valley. These animals must be tuberculin tested before being put on exhibition. J. L. Smith, county agriculturist, said last week that he would try to have Dr. Gardiner, assistant state veterinarian there and the testing would be done free of charge.

In view of the fact that on Thursday the regular racing program opens it is expected that most of the visitors from Coos Bay will attend the Fair during the latter part of the week. There will be train and auto services at their disposal, going and coming.

CONCERT A SUCCESS

FINE PROGRAM BRILLIANTLY RENDERED LAST NIGHT

Faculty of the Henrik Gjerdum Conservatory of Music Please a Critical Audience

The concert given at Finn's hall last evening by the faculty of the Henrik Gjerdum Conservatory of Music was a brilliant success. The attendance was large and seldom is a more generous and unrestrained welcome given new artists than greeted the performers at last evening's event. The appreciation and applause were gratifying.

Mr. Gjerdum and the members of his faculty are alike to be complimented and congratulated on the splendid success of last night's concert. A critical review of the affair will appear in the Times musical department on Saturday.

Reception Tonight
There will be a reception at the Conservatory this evening at 8 o'clock to which the public in general, and music lovers in particular, are invited. The members of the faculty will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. G. W. Kaufman and Mrs. M. C. Maloney.

NO NEW ROUTING NOW TO ARBITRATE

MAIL THIS WINTER TO COME AS USUAL VIA ROSEBURG

Postmaster Hugh McLain Declines Move to Bring it in From Eugene and Acme

No attempt will be made to route the Coos Bay mail over the railroad through Acme and thence here by beach stage, is the statement of Postmaster Hugh McLain. The airport, frequent of late, was that after October 1 the mail would be brought in this way.

Under the winter schedule, explained the postmaster, mail will leave Roseburg in the morning and arrive here the following noon. Providing the S. P. is allowed to put on the motor car to the Coquille Valley, he says, the mail would reach here early the following morning. At present, while the roads are in good shape, the mail arrives here the same day it leaves Roseburg.

Mr. McLain explained that the beach route would be no quicker by reason of the fact that, in coming this way, there is always a layover in Florence or Gardiner and this would mean the mail could come just as quickly from Roseburg.

ARE NOT AGREEING

Contractors at North Bend Not on Best of Terms

It is reported that there exists some difficulties between the contractors who are working on Virginia avenue in North Bend. The Warren Construction Company has the contract for laying the pavement and Ira Patrick has the contract for the grading. It seems that the Warren Company claims the other contractor is not doing his part of the work sufficiently fast to allow the pavement to go ahead and both contractors, it is said, are blaming each other for slowness of the work.

ALVA DOLL and his nephew, Cecil Doll, have arrived home from the exposition, the remainder of the family remaining in the south for another week.

FIST FIGHT UNSATISFACTORY AND MEN SELECT JUDGES

New Way to Settle Difficulties—H. K. Strickland Pleads Guilty to Assaulting J. M. Culley

In a dispute involving the renting of a farm and the question of damages resulting, H. K. Strickland and J. M. Culley, renter and rentor, engaged in a party of fistfights yesterday afternoon on Catching Inlet. This morning Culley had Strickland arrested on a charge of assault and battery, the latter pleading guilty and was fined $10 and costs in the justice court this morning.

And in spite of the fighting the question was left still undecided and the men have agreed to leave their differences to a board of arbitration and already have selected John Matson and a farmer named Spooner and are in search of a third member. Culley, who about a year ago bought the John Messerle place on Catching Inlet, said that he rented the farm to Strickland and now wants it back, alleging that the latter has let things go to ruin and allowed the cows to eat some of the fruit trees.

He went to Strickland yesterday. Words waxed warm and Strickland is said to have reached for a hammer when Culley beat him to it with a straight arm jab and the battle was on.

This morning Strickland agreed to leave the ranch by a week from tomorrow. The board will settle the amount of damages, should there be any.

MISSIONARY VISITS

MISS LURA HEFTY FROM CHINA FIRST TIME IN FIVE YEARS

Tells of Interesting Work Among Chinese—Is of Women's Board Methodist Missions

Five years a missionary in China, Miss Lura M. Hefty, of the Women's Board of Methodist Missions, has returned and for a few days is visiting with Miss Anna Hunt on South Broadway, a friend of hers for many years. She later will go to her home in Cottage Grove on her first furlough.

Miss Hefty was a teacher in the states before she went out to China. She became interested in the work and after five years is more enthusiastic than ever and will be anxious to get back again after a few months visit here.

She is located in Kutien, 100 miles from Foochow, the largest seaport in southern China and in the province of Fukien, here Miss Hefty is connected with the Methodist Girls' Boarding School with an enrollment of about 100 girls.

Schools Educate Teachers
Most interesting is the work as she has explained it. The purpose of the schools is to educate women who will later go out as teachers among their own people. In the villages through China are day schools, maintained by the Methodist Missions Board, and conducted by a Chinese teacher.

The brightest girls from these schools eventually come to the boarding school where they are given an eight years course of training. Miss Hefty was asked at what age they came to her. "At 12 years," she said, and then she hesitated, "no at 10 years, you see the Chinese count differently than we do. A baby is already a year old when its born and at the new Chinese New Years, another year is added."

Queer Way of Adding
She told of a teacher in the schools whose child was born two hours before the opening of Chinese New Years. The next day the child, according to the Celestial figuring, was two years old.

The coming of the Japanese to China this spring when they took over the German possessions there was and still is viewed with great apprehension by the Chinese, she said. They point to the fact that the Japs now hold Korea, Formosa and the new station gives them three strong footholds on the long Chinese coast.

Asked as to why the Chinese are changing back to the old monarchical form of government Miss Hefty said that she has been a month from China and has not followed the political situation though she believes the resignation of the vice president, General Li, presages a storm.

Wanted Quick Change
When the Manchus were overthrown in 1911 and the republic set up, many of the people believed that immediately they would secure the same benefits that the Americans enjoy, that is, with the representative government and the people having a voice in the making of the laws. All these changes have been slow in coming, the people, as a whole, were not ready for them, and this may in part explain their unrest and the changing back.

But in spite of this the Chinese, as a people, are awakened, says Miss Hefty, and there is nothing can stop their forging ahead. They are interested in new ways of living, new business and probably in the next few years will change completely from the Chinese of old.

AMONG THE SICK

Captain Ernst, well known Coos Bay pioneer and long connected with the smaller craft operating on the Bay, is reported quite ill at the home of Stephen Rogers of Coos River where he has been spending the last few years. He is an old member of the Knights of Pythias and the lodge has sent a member to assist in caring for him.

John Tellefson is much better at his home in Eastside after a very serious illness.
Mrs. F. R. Kirk is much better today after her severe illness at her home.
