There are other good cigarettes. In fact, some other cigarettes may just happen to hit YOUR particular taste better than Fatimas. That isn't strange, in spite of Fatima's enormous popularity. A few men like a far stronger and heavier cigarette than Fatimas. But if you would like a SENSIBLE cigarette—cool and friendly to your throat and tongue and without any "mean feeling" after a long day's smoking—you should try Fatimas. CATCH IS NOT HEAVY

SALMON RUN ON COQUILLE BAYS RATHER LIGHT

Co-operative Plant Has Operated for Weeks, but Not Yet on Full Time

BANDON, Ore., Sept. 17.—The catch of silversides and chinooks in the Coquille river has not been sufficiently large so far to keep the co-operative cannery running full force, but the plant has been in operation for about a week. Sixteen Chinamen and four white men are employed at the cannery. Telling of the fishing season the Bandon Recorder says:

"The run of fish is problematical. Some years it occurs as early as this part of September and sometimes not for two or three weeks. The fish thus far have been caught with gill nets and silversides bring 15 cents each at the cannery and chinooks 25 cents. The cannery is conducted on a co-operative basis and whatever extra price is received from the sale of fish is returned to the fishermen when the pack is disposed of. During the past two years the market has been bad and no profits returned to the fishermen.

But this year the prospects are better. The pack in Alaska is 49 per cent less than usual and in Puget Sound, where two million fish are annually put up, only one hundred thirty-five thousand were put up this year. The greatest call this year from European customers has been for the cheaper grades and the demand for these is good, but when this stock is disposed of the better grades must be called on.

The ocean fishing boat has also been given a trial during the past week, but will get more regular work from now on. This boat, which is owned by a company in which John Nielson is interested represents a venture which has not been made to pay as yet, but which has possibilities along with the ups and downs of the fishing business.

The boat is of a type that has been used successfully on the Sound in days past and uses a purse seine in the attempt to catch salmon in the open ocean.

SUNDAY CLOSING LAW WOULD CLOSE MANY BUSINESSES

Allows Theaters to Stay Open But Would Close Cigar Stores—May Not Enforce It Here

NO ACTION TAKEN As the law is an old one which has never been observed there will be no enforcement here unless complaint is made, which is not likely.

Even as the tippler is advised to purchase his "tipple" on Saturday night, even so must he who enjoys a Plattsburg stogie or a Bull Durham "hand rolled" purchase his supply the night before Sunday, according to the decision handed down by the Supreme Court as told in The Times. According to further details the law would close every cigar store, grocery, bowling alley, billiard room and cigar store in the state. Now the local dealers fear that they are liable to be dragged within the pale of the law because they kept open on Sunday.

The decision came in the well known test case of the state versus Leigh Nicholl, proprietor of the Club Cigar store in Eugene and the action was brought by District Attorney Devers, of Lane county. The law is an old one and was enacted in 1864, amended in 1865 and in 1903 and has of late years been on the books without enforcement. About nine years ago Portland attempted to make an enforcement but after closing the pool rooms for a couple of Sundays let it go. Eugene then made the next move of a few months ago. The case was won by the state in the justice and the circuit courts and then taken into the Supreme Court where it won again.

In the law the provision is made that it will not apply to theatres, drug stores, doctor's shops, undertaking establishments, livery stables, butcher and baker shops. In the decision an excuse is made allowing the theatres to keep open on the grounds that they "afford mental diversion conducive to relaxation and rest." However it is believed that no attempt will be made in Marshfield to enforce the law made at a time Oregon first became a state and plaitly out of keeping with present day sentiment. North Bend cigar store men say they will pay no attention to it.

Interesting Stories of South-western Oregon

CURRY COUNTY'S WAY

(Special to The Times.) GOLD BEACH, Ore., Sept. 17.—They do things differently in Curry County than they do in most other places, and that is because Curry County is a different sort of a place.

For example, calling witnesses for the grand jury, and for cases on trial in the Curry County Circuit Court by Bailiff Moss Averill was one of the most interesting features of the recent session this term. Mr. Averill, who acted as bailiff for the grand jury, is a popular young man in Gold Beach and is a highly efficient court official and is blessed with one particular qualification which it appears is quite necessary.

Actually Called, The calling of a witness who has been summoned is not carried out in the usual way. There is no gum shoe search by a plain clothes officer to find the witness. He is really "called."

Mr. Averill has the ability of making himself heard. He has a voice which carries with the clearness of a silver bell and when he is in a hurry his voice has a sound which defied the penetrating power of the Cape Arago fog signal.

The witnesses who have been summoned may find it necessary to wait several days before they are needed. It is impossible to stay in the court house halls all that time and they naturally wander about the city or perhaps down to the beach.

Window Useful The grand jury room is in the second story of the court house and in the front hall is a window which commands a view of much of the main district. Bailiff Averill uses this window to good advantage.

When a witness is wanted the bailiff goes to the window and makes it known.

"John Smith" will be heard in clear, distinct tones which carry down to the surf and back to the foothills. If the wanted witness is within hearing distance he answers at once the summons.

If no one appears the word is passed on down the public street to the limits of the city. If some friend knows that John at that particular moment is playing pitch in the cigar store he informs John and the game breaks up.

Waited on Barber Sometimes the word must be carried to remote corners. Col. B. K. Lawson, former warden of the state penitentiary, was soon to be needed as a witness and someone was sent by a lawyer to find him. The Colonel was discovered in the barber shop located on the flats below the city.

When the lawyer called for the Colonel the bailiff followed the usual custom. "Colonel Lawson" he sang out in a voice which could quite reach the barber shop. But the witness did not appear. It was then shouted from one corner to a man in front of the court house that the Colonel was in the barber shop and had only one side of his face shaved and could not come until the other side was shaved. This was repeated to the bailiff at the window and under the unusual circumstances the lawyer could only await the barber's pleasure.

Much Business Up Curry County covering a large territory it is difficult to reach all the witnesses. When the court called for cases to be tried by jury the attorney in one said one of the parties had gone up the river and the case must go over. In another the chief witness had gone to the mountains to hunt deer, and for various reasons a number of cases went over until the next term. But at that there was a large amount of business transacted at this term of court and the officials disposed of matters in hand with dispatch and efficiency.

News of North Bend

Dr. and Mrs. I. B. Bartle leave today for Los Angeles, where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Coke and other relatives and will also see the San Francisco and the San Diego expositions. They will travel in their car and will likely camp out part of the time.

C. F. Greve, who has been in Portland receiving medical treatment, has returned home. He is feeling quite well now.

Mrs. Anthony has taken the J. G. Horn rooming house on Sherman avenue recently vacated by Mrs. Curran and will have the place open for guests in a few days.

S. W. Noah has filed an offer of $7500 for the William Gamble homestead on Kentuck Inlet. The offer was filed with the administrator, but it is understood there will be objections and that the property will probably not go for that price.

H. C. Wray has decided to open a ground-floor office at the Palace Hotel. A store room on the first floor will be used for that purpose and will be fitted as a regular hotel office and nicely furnished.

The suit of L. C. Weygard against Dr. Ira B. Bartle for a personal injury will not be tried at this term of court on account of the illness of one of the lawyers. The plaintiff claimed damages for being injured when the doctor was making a hurry call to attend a drowning man.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Mandigo have returned from a month's auto trip, having visited the exposition at San Francisco and also Portland.
