MRS. ERICKSON QUARTER CENTURY IN CITY LIMITS

Back from Visit to Prosper—Surprised at Changes Made in 25 Years on Coquille

Mrs. Wilhelmina Erickson lived a quarter of a century in Marshfield without once leaving the city until last week she consented to a week's visit at Prosper with her friends. She returned from there last evening with her daughter, Miss Emma Erickson, and declared that she had thoroughly enjoyed the visit.

Changes that have taken place since she was outside last were remarkable, she said, and the places could hardly be recognized. However, Mrs. Erickson points out that she has not yet left the county but hopes one of these days to take a journey at least over the county boundary lines.

Similar Cases
The Redondo last winter carried south a family that had spent its entire life here. The mother, more than 50 years of age, had never before been outside of Coos and her three daughters were in the same predicament. They went to San Francisco to see what the world looked like. Also there was a man lived in Myrtle Point 46 years and had never been to Marshfield. He said he had heard of the place and hopes to come here sometime.

COOS COUNTY YOUNG WOMEN JOIN U. of O. SORORITIES

Four Are Representatives of Greek Letter Organizations—Saturday was "Pledge Day."

Coos county's representation at the University of Oregon is steadily growing and this year is larger than ever before. There have been many entries there from southwestern Oregon, according to word received from Registrar Tiffany in Eugene.

Bids to the various sororities were issued last Saturday. Entered on the lists are four young women from Coos. According to the rules of the Greek letter societies a certain day, soon after the opening of the school year, is set aside for bidding, or inviting young women to join the sororities where they have been chosen.

Sometimes there have been received several invitations, all written, and the candidate must choose one of the number, if she cares to join at all, and immediately notify the body.

Miss Frances Golden, daughter of County School Supervisor and Mrs. P. A. Golden, is pledged to the Delta Delta Delta sorority. Miss Myrtle Cowan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cowan, will join the Delta Gamma sorority. Miss Pearl Crain, of Bandon, is with the Pi Beta Phi sorority and Miss Louise Clausen, of Coquille, is in the same organization. Miss Ethel Walte, daughter of Frank Walte so well known here, is from Sutherlin and has joined the Kappa Theta sorority.

WOULD HAVE SCHOOL DISTRICT HANDLE SCHOOL BOOKS HERE

PROPOSE TO HAVE SCHOOL BOARD AND SUPERINTENDENT LOOK AFTER IT AND ELIMINATE HIGH CHARGES AND INADEQUATE SERVICE—PRACTICAL FEATURE FOR COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

As a result of the reported high charges on school books and supplies and inadequate service of Norton & Hansen, the Marshfield School Board will probably consider the advisability of having the board and superintendent's office handling the text books. This was broached a couple of years ago when a shortage of text books for the high school pupils handicapped the work for a time and caused Principal Barker to advocate it.

There are only a couple of times each year that there is much work attached to the handling of the school books. One is at the opening of the school year in the fall and the other is at the time of the mid-year promotions. A day or two is sufficient to handle them and the percentage allowed by the Oregon School Book Commission on the new texts would more than be ample to take care of the little extra expense entailed.

Would Insure Square Deal

The handling of school books by the school board and superintendent would insure a square deal to all of the patrons of the public schools. In addition to this, a big saving could be effected by utilizing the second hand text books, on which dealers are now reported to be making a big profit. These could be taken in at a fixed allowance on new texts and then sold back to the classes needing them at cost as the cost of handling them would be practically nothing. At the same time, students or parents desiring new books for the children could obtain them.

By the school board handling them there would always be sufficient text books on hand and the work in the schools would not be interrupted.

Supt. Tiedgen Favors Plan

Supt. Tiedgen in discussing the matter said that he favored the plan. He has given considerable thought to the matter. At first, he considered a cooperative store among the pupils to do it.

Practical Commercial Work

It has been suggested that the handling of the school books be turned over to the commercial department in the high school. It would furnish a practical feature in the commercial course and would eliminate any extra expense that might be encountered in handling the books.

NEED EVIDENCE MAY TAKE STEPS

BEN FISHER, WHITE SLAVE OFFICER, OFF TO EUREKA

Seeks Affidavits in William Shook Case—Hearing Before Federal Court in October

Seeking testimony in the William Shook white slave case Ben Fisher special white slave officer, left this afternoon for Eureka. He expects to secure several affidavits and get testimony in the case that comes up for hearing in the federal court in Portland early in October.

Shook was arrested here several weeks ago and after a preliminary hearing before Judge Penneck, was bound over to the higher court. He was charged with taking two women on an auto trip through Gold Beach and down to Eureka for immoral purposes.

As soon as he arrived in Portland Shook was put under $2,000 bonds and, failing to secure this amount, is being held there in jail.

FRED HOLLISTER INVESTIGATES POLICE CASE

Says Wants Justice For Walter Tulquin Who Was Beaten While Being Arrested Monday

Investigation of the case in which Marshal Jack Carter used a night stick on Walter Tulquin, a negro found drunk on north Front street Monday night, and caused a severe wound was being investigated today by Fred Hollister, of North Bend. He said that he is yet undetermined if any action will be taken in the matter.

Tulquin, said Mr. Hollister, has worked for the family during the past 20 years. He says that he will run the matter down and get as much evidence as possible before taking legal action, should he decide to do so. Hollister said that he wanted nothing more than justice for the man. He was over talking with the police this morning.

NEED NO COURT

CASES OF LYNN LAMBETH VS. DR. MORROW SETTLED

Former Is Given $170 Owed Him and $150 Additional and Cases Do Not Come to Trial

(Special to The Times)
COQUILLE, Ore., Sept. 22.—Settlement of the two cases of Lynn Lambeth versus Dr. E. V. Morrow, one for malpractice and another an appeal from a judgement of the justice court, were settled yesterday immediately before they were to come to trial. Dr. J. W. Morrow, father of Dr. E. V. Morrow, and Dr. G. W. Cole, of Portland, appeared in behalf of the absent defendant.

The settlement made amounted to practically $350 to Lynn Lambeth but in this manner. He closed the appeal case involving $170 which he was fined in the Marshfield justice court and let this go on the amount received. Dr. E. V. Morrow paid $20 owing Lambeth for auto hire and about $130 in addition and the matter was closed.

It is said that these amounts will just about pay the costs in the case for Lambeth. Dr. E. V. Morrow was unable to appear and defend himself because he is a Red Cross doctor with the Allies in Belgium. Both sides brought a large array of witnesses, a fact that ran the costs up considerably.

NOTICE TO ELKS

Bill, be sure and be out for the big meeting tomorrow night, Wednesday, September 22. It promises to be a red letter event in the history of Marshfield Lodge and you will regret it if you are not in on the big doings. In addition to the important business, there will be a program and refreshments.

VERDICT SAYS VICTORY BUT PLAINTIFF PAYS COSTS

Andreas Anderson Secures $81.50 Damages from Smith Powers Company—Jury Dismissed

(Special to The Times)

COQUILLE, Ore., Sept. 22.—Judgment for $81.50 was awarded by the jury at 5 o'clock last evening to Andreas Anderson in his suit against the Smith-Powers Logging company. He sued for $2,700. The fact that John D. Goss, attorney for the logging company, offered Anderson $250, or more than the final judgment, to settle the case, relieves the defendants of all costs in the case and leaves them to be paid by Anderson. These will be considerable, it is said.

Was Through Courts

The case was before the court two days. Already it had been through the circuit court and the supreme court and then sent back again for trial in the circuit court again. It was started about 8 years ago when the Smith-Powers company logged on South Inlet. Anderson contended that the logging road trespassed on his land and asked damages accordingly.

Jury Dismissed

After the hearing of this case Judge Skipworth adjourned the court and the jury was dismissed. The grand jury will not meet again until December. Judge Skipworth will now hear a few equity cases in which Judge Coke is disqualified. On Friday Judge Coke will hold an equity session in Coquille.

ARRANGE WRESTLING MATCH

Smiling Dutch, the wrestler, is in the city to arrange an exhibition for Jim Wilson, the Syrian wrestler who attracted much attention in Curry county. Lutsey and Lambert are to have a match during the bridge carnival at North Bend and it is planned to have Wilson also for a card. Wilson will agree to put on the mat any two men twice during an hour and will put a forfeit of $100 for any man who will stay with him for twenty minutes. It is likely that he will give some exhibitions on the bay during the carnival.
