

Protecting You

Every step in the manufacture of the strength-bestowing beverage-food, Ghirardelli's Ground Chocolate, is done for your protection; for by protecting you we protect ourselves.

All the skill, all the care involved in the making of Ghirardelli's Ground Chocolate would be largely wasted if it were not packed in hermetically sealed cans.

When the Ghirardelli can is sealed, the good qualities within are kept in and the evils without are kept out. Let the Ghirardelli label be your guide to absolute protection.

fore, to this moment he knows not what an Italian dinner is.

Like him a woman I know resisted adjustment to her married life for nearly a year, a man I know for half that time; not that they found married life unattractive, but that they could not detach themselves from the old life they had stepped out of, and they could not attach themselves to the new life they had stepped into.

Until they yielded themselves to the process of adjustment there were two marriages that teetered on the edge of disaster.

Yet adjustment is only the patient, tolerant acceptance of new conditions—until you can control or endure them.

A SUCCESSFUL CONCERT

The Concert last evening at the High School auditorium by Messrs Gjerdrum, Hunt and Sevely of the Gjerdrum Conservatory faculty was greeted by an enthusiastic and appreciative audience which taxed the seating capacity of the hall. In response to repeated applause the performers generously gave encores to their program numbers. Music lovers and music students in Marshfield realize their good fortune in being able to hear such gifted artists and the audience was sympathetic, attentive and appreciative.

Mr. Hunt opened the program with a group of Old English songs giving for an encore, "I'll Sing Thee Songs of Araby." Later he gave Wagner's "To An Evening Star" and a group of Cadman songs, a personal friendship with the composer makes him peculiarly fitted for their interpretation. As an encore he gave a plantation melody which added a touch of humor to the well balanced program.

The Greig Sonata by Mr. Sevely and Mr. Gjerdrum and The Temple Dance (Grieg) by Mr. Gjerdrum were very beautiful numbers, giving the audience the only appearances of Mr. Gjerdrum other than in the capacity of accompanist.

Mr. Sevely's few brief appearances before local audiences have been sufficient to win a place in the hearts of Marshfield music lovers. The subtle, entrancing beauty of Sevely's playing and his wonderful power of emotional expression mark him as a violinist of unusual gifts natural and acquired. He responded to an earnest encore with Beethoven's Minuet that proved one of the most popular pieces of the evening.

MRS. GETTINS' BRIDGE PARTIES
