Mallory Hats

EVERYBODY has a "dress up" time—a time when one lays off the every day "duds" and "togs up" a little. That time calls for a derby hat.

You'll feel dressed up and you'll look it if you wear a Mallory derby. We've an unusually choice assortment of the new Fall styles and there's one here that will properly become you.

Not to Convention.—The Rev. H. B. Foskett, of the local Baptist Church, was unable to attend the state convention of the Baptist Church being held this week in Eugene. Representatives from all over the state are in convention there for a session of several days.

Has Another Visitor.—There was another visitor at the Hotel Carter last evening. His name, as entered on the book, was William Callahan, and he was picked up on Front street in a pretty bad way, but after being given a berth, managed to spend the night very peacefully.

Makes Quarterly Visit.—Dr. J. T. Abbott, of Eugene, superintendent of this district of the Methodist Conference, is expected in here within a few days on the first quarterly visit of the conference year. He will be in Marshfield October 26 and at the Bay Park Chapel October 27. Dr. Abbott comes in here four times a year.

Called By Telegram.—Al Jensen received a telegram last night from his wife in River Falls, Wisconsin, telling him to come East at once, saying "mother is very low." Mr. Jensen does not know if this is his mother, who visited here for several weeks this summer, or the mother of Mrs. Jensen. He left on the stage this morning for the East.

the second Tuesday in December. There are to be selected at the primaries two Councilmen, a City Recorder and a Mayor.

Will Speak Here.—Rev. J. Edlund of Astoria, will hold services at 7:30 o'clock in the Swedish Lutheran Church. The subject will be "Luther and the Reformation."

Concert Tonight.—The concert under the auspices of the North Bend Library Association, by Jeno Sevely, Gerald Hunt and Henrik Glerdrum, will be given tonight in Eckhoff Hall.

Go After Quail.—Beyond a doubt quail will quail before the onslaughts of Judge Coke and A. B. Loud, who left this afternoon for a days' sport near Fairview. They took a couple of dogs with them and expect to get enough birds for a pie or two, returning home tomorrow.

Loses Part of Roll.—Otto Peterson complained to the police today that somewhere last night he lost some $20 off his roll. He still had $100 with him. It is said that the fellow was in several saloons last night flashing his money around promiscuously. Peterson was advised to put the rest of his money in the bank.

Injured in Explosion.—In an explosion at the Cordova, Alaska, naval wireless station George K. O'Hara, who is known here, was slightly hurt and David Barry seriously injured. Mr. O'Hara was in this part of the state when the Cape Blanco wireless station was being rebuilt and made a good many friends in Coos county.

Twice in Same Place.—Yesterday J. S. Hyland made a trip to the Hotel Carter and explained to the Judge yesterday afternoon about his shortcomings. He was released later and went free, but again this morning was picked up with a "jag on" and once more returned to his private berth. He told the police he would have to hurry back to Coquille or lose his job.

Programs are Out.—Programs for the eighth annual ball of the Pacific Commandery No. 10 of the Knights Templar for next Friday evening were out today. The evening will be opened with a piano solo by Mrs. Peri Riley Ballinger, a vocal solo by Mrs. Stanley Henderson and then the grand march of the Sir Knights in uniform. Practically all of the dances are waltzes and two-steps.

Enlarge School.—At a meeting of the directors of the Millington school district last night, it was decided to lease another building there for school purposes and hire a second teacher. Miss Eva Dresser is in charge of the school, but as a result of a number of families moving into the district the attendance is now 39, too many for one instructor. The opening of the old Courtney mill caused the influx of families in the district.

Newlyweds Returning.—On the stage arriving between 4:30 and 5 p. m., from Florence this evening are expected Mr. and Mrs. Arthur K. Peck, returning from their honeymoon of several weeks through the East and in Seattle. A telephone message yesterday stated that they were then in Florence and would come on today. They expect to spend the winter in the C. R. Peck home while Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Peck expect to take an apartment at the Myrtle Arms.

Long Time to Get Home.—It will take Joel Ostlund a month to go from Marshfield to his home in Stockholm, Sweden. He expects to leave for there early next week and will go first to San Francisco. Because of slides in the Panama Canal it will be impossible for him to go that way, but he will take one of the transcontinental lines to New York and thence across via steamer to Bergen, Norway. Having arrived there it is a three-days' journey by train to Stockholm. Mr. Ostlund is expecting to remain there.

Device Disperses Fog.—E. B. Fryer, of the North Pacific Steamship Company, yesterday was telling of a device being exhibited at the San Francisco fair that will dispel fog for a distance of a mile in any direction. It is an electrical apparatus and is being shown there by the inventor. He says that the instrument has been used on San Francisco fogs very successfully and that it may be yet made into a practical fog dispeller for ships. Often ships are delayed at the bars or forced to reduce their speed because of the presence of heavy fogs and the Alliance No. 2 went ashore because of the fog.

Hold Christening.—Rabbi Robert H. Abrahamson, of Portland, left for his home today after conducting the christening of the infant son of Mr.

Maximum	62
Minimum	39
At 4:43 a. m.	48
Precipitation since Sept. 1, 1915	1.73
Precipitation same period last year	12.16

Wind: Northwest, partly cloudy.

Light 36 Years.—It was just 36 years ago tomorrow that Thomas Edison, wizard of electricity, turned on the first successful electric light. The invention was the work of many years of study and came through many other inventions that finally led up to the electric light.

Did Not See Alliance No. 2.—Officers of the Santa Clara in last night from San Francisco and Eureka, said that they did not sight the gasoline schooner Alliance No. 2 on their way up the coast. It is possible that when the little ill-fated boat went down the coast the Santa Clara was inside Humboldt Bay.

Attend Social.—D. A. Jones, H. H. Wilson, Festus Walter and Mr. and Mrs. Omer, of Marshfield, were among those attending the social given by the Modern Woodmen of America at North Bend last evening. There was a large attendance and a fine time enjoyed. Cards, dancing, music and fine eats were enjoyed.

Mill is Closed.—The Coos Bay Milling Company on Isthmus Inlet, is closed down for a few days until more logs can be brought in from the Hoek camp on South Coos, according to E. O. Samuels. He says the steam schooner Acme is not here for the purpose of loading lumber from the mill on Isthmus Inlet.

Visiting Coos Bay.—Andrew Allen, of Portland, is in the city for a visit with his cousin, John Allen, and will be here for the next week. Mr. Allen is one of the prominent Greek residents of Portland. He works for one of the lumber companies there and is the owner of a restaurant and a cigar store and has other business interests in Portland.

Primaries November 8.—There was a stream of voters pouring in and out of City Recorder Butler's office all day today, registering for the elections. The number so far, however, is nowhere near an average of other falls. The primaries for the city officers will be held on October 8 and the city election and Mrs. A. E. Labowitch. David Morton Labowitch was the name conferred, being the name of the grandfather of Mrs. Lavowitch. This was the first Jewish christening ceremony held on Coos Bay in years and Rabbi Abrahamson was the first Rabbi to visit here in years. He came in via Eugene and Florence and returned the same way. He had a strenuous trip, but enjoyed it.

WIRELESS MAN HERE

Wilbur W. Dube, from Cape Blanco, is Visiting Here

Wilbur W. Dube, one of the boys from the Cape Blanco naval wireless station has been visiting in the city for a short time. He says that the boys at the station will be glad when they are moved to Coos Bay. At Cape Blanco they are rather isolated, particularly in the winter time, while at the new station at Marshfield they will have much more opportunity to make friends and have some associations outside of their own immediate circle.

The boys at the Blanco station are a good crowd of fellows but they are holding down probably one of the most lonesome naval appointments in the country. The station is about five miles off the main county road and excepting when they have a leave of absence, or when some stray visitor happens to arrive, they do not see many people aside from those at the wireless station or the light house.

Mr. Dube made the trip here from Cape Blanco on his motorcycle.

MUSICIANS' UNION TROUBLE

The following from the proceedings of the Portland Musicians' Union's proceedings in the Portland Labor Press will be of interest in Marshfield as Mrs. Ingalls played at the Orpheum just before it closed, her husband, who was quite deaf, being also employed there:

"Communication from Mrs. Clara Ingalls states that she has been discharged from Condon, Oregon, theater without any notice, and asks redress. Mrs. Ingalls is a member of the Marshfield local and matter is referred to that local."
