WEATHER FORECAST

OREGON — Unsettled, probably rain west; fair in East; southerly winds. LOCAL TEMPERATURE RECORD For the 24 hours ending at 4:43 a. m., October 21, by Benj. Ostlund, special government meteorologist:

Maximum 64 Minimum 41 At 4:43 a. m. 45 Precipitation .00 Precipitation since Sept. 1, 1915 1.73 Precipitation same period last year 12.16 Wind — South-east, partly cloudy.

Plan Reception.—It was announced today that the teachers at the Bungalow on South Tenth street were planning to give a reception there Saturday evening for Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Peck, who arrived home yesterday from their honeymoon trip.

Want Ad Brings Ring.—When Mrs. R. N. Fenton lost a very pretty agate ring she came at once and put a want ad in The Times for one issue. That was enough. R. C. Cordes found it on Broadway and brought it into the office this morning.

Buyers Lots.—Jay Doyle has purchased two lots in Bay Park from I. S. Kaufman & Co. It is a fine site for a home.

SUNRISE AND SUNSET

Thursday October 21—Sun rises at 6:36 and sets at 5:15

The rain falls alike on the just and the just shiftless.

Books are Presented.—John Blatt has presented the Carnegie Public Library with 39 volumes of books including fiction and non-fiction. The gift is a welcome one, gladly received by the librarian and the reading public.

Get Few Ducks — Lloyd Rose and Gordon Smith went across the bay in a duck scow this morning and managed to bring down four birds. They said the tide was too low to sneak in on the birds feeding on the flats.

Greek is Sued.—A Greek named Dres was sued in the Justice Court under two names, that of George Dres and Chris Dres, by J. L. Bowman, of the Woolen Mills Store in North Bend, for goods amounting to $23.79 which it is claimed were bought there.

Milk Bulletin Coming.—A bulletin that will show the economic features of milk and milk by-products throughout the world will be issued in a few days by the State University at Eugene. Copies will at once be distributed in Marshfield where they will undoubtedly prove intensely interesting to dairymen and creamerymen.

Two More Are Elks.—It was the open season for the antlered here last evening and two new ones were taken into the fold of the Elks lodge. They were O. E. Hill, prominent merchant of Bridge, and Dan J. McKinnon, of Marshfield.

Continues to FINE.—A few days ago there came to J. W. Motley, of the Chamber of Commerce, a letter from John T. Dougall, a director in the Portland Chamber, in which he quoted figures regarding the low cost of upkeep for wood block paving.

What's to be Next.—When City Recorder J. W. Butler came back from the Fair he brought with him a sample of Chinese adding on an adding machine. He says the company there now puts out a regular apparatus that counts up in the language of the Celestial and another one that does ditto in Arabic and he said that probably in another year there would be one in Esquimaux or "Jiu Jitsu."

More Corn Comes Down.—James Landrith brought a large sack of excellent corn down to the Chamber of Commerce yesterday from his farm on the river and Norris Morgan came in today with another. In the past week there have come to the Chamber several sacks of corn from farmers on Coos river who are interested in making corn grow in this section.
