COOS CRANBERRIES SHOWN AT THE FAIR

Among the Newer Things Which Are Exhibited at Oregon Building at Exposition

EXPOSITION GROUNDS, Nov. 2.—Cranberries from Coos County have recently arrived at the Oregon building at the exposition, a five box consignment for display purpose. They remind one that Thanksgiving and Christmas are drawing near. The Oregon Building is now at its best. Practically every exhibit has been renewed, many new ones have been added, and the special efforts at brightening up have resulted in improvements that are noticeable.

The Douglas County exhibit from Roseburg has arrived and is now being placed in the Southern Oregon booth. While it is up against some mighty fine products there, the Umpqua river material looks creditable.

The pumpkins and squash from Roseburg constitute the whole of that sort of exhibit in this booth, and among the many fine specimens is probably the largest in the building at this time, one weighing one hundred and ten pounds.

The apples, fifteen boxes, are good, some of them very fine looking, but a quantity failed to measure up in size. Douglas onions, potatoes and corn are excellent, but the grains and grasses are not yet up for inspection.

IS HOMING PIGEON

BILL CALLAHAN COMES AGAIN TO HOTEL DE CARTER

Ole Anderson Also Returns—Knows Way of Jail Chefs and Pays For Meal Ahead of Time

Bill Callahan is a homelike individual. Hence when he first began hanging his hat on a peg in the Hotel de Carter he forthwith termed the place home and then has been coming back regularly. He went away yesterday morning after a five days sojourn and was back again last evening before the curfew rang. "Be it ever so humble" wailed the big logger, and his voice broke with feeling.

Thereupon the refrain was taken up by the Hotel Quartet. Ole Anderson, permanent boarder, knew the chorus and sang it with all the vim of long practice and Joe Kera joined in with his basso profundo. It was excellent only before long big Bill wearied of the entertainment.

And so he went ruminating about in his mind until he bethought him self that it was the first of November. "Aha," quoth he, "this is the month of high tides," and imbued with his new idea set to work.

Down from the top and out from the lower bunks he hauled mattresses and bedding, placed them well in the middle of the floor. Then he managed to turn the water on and flooded his cell, while Bill fairly yelped for joy.

Five days ago he burned up his bedding; this time he flooded it. Judge Butler looked him over for the seventh time this morning. He was too overcome to give Bill another sentence. He told him, "You get out of town; you get out by 2 o'clock or I'll—I'll" but the judge remembered the jail had no terrors and he was stumped. Bill saved the day by declaring his willingness to go. And he went.

Another Old Timer
Then up came Ole Anderson. Now he too is an old time boarder. Ole knew yesterday when he came in town just where he was going to end up. He knew too the chefs in the Hotel de Carter are overworked and its a hard job to get ones order through at meal time. Therefore Ole, before becoming tanked, traaped across the street and paid for a meal. "I want codfish," he cautioned the waiter. His wish was granted and this morning Ole dined on cod fish in lieu of the usual bread and water.

EXHIBITS ARE FINE AT PORTLAND SHOW

Products of the Land and Factory Are Shown to Great Advantage This Year

PORTLAND, Nov. 2.—The first week of the Manufacturers' and Land Products Show has demonstrated that the annual assembling of the products of the factories and fields, forests and streams serves the purpose of establishing a closer relationship between consumer and producer and gives the people of the cities a better understanding of the land, and what it produces and the necessity for the upbuilding of the country districts.

Oregon has made an excellent showing of its agricultural resources. The development of the land and the increase in the output of manufactured articles go hand in hand.

Crowds are increasing daily and the amusement features both afternoon and evening are such as to attract strangers in the city. Some of the best musical organizations in Portland, and the best of high class vaudeville is taking part afternoon and evening.

Low fares over all steam and electric lines is an extra inducement to residents of the state in general to visit the exposition before it closes, November 13.

REPRESENT CAPITAL

RECENT VISITORS HERE ARE PROMINENT COAST MEN

Coos Bay Country Has Been Investigated Lately by a Number of Big Men

Philip Brehner and his son, Henry Brehner, of Portland, who have been visiting on the bay, have returned home. With them here was Mr. Saylor. The three owned a lumber mill at Carlton, Oregon, which was burned down and are prominent in the lumber business. Philip Brehner is one of the head men in the Eastern and Western Lumber Company, one of the big concerns on the coast.

Mr. Brehner and his son own some timber holdings in this part of the state and while on Coos Bay they had occasion to look into the resources of the locality. They were guests of L. J. Simpson at Shoreacres.

This fall a number of prominent men who represent big capital have visited Coos Bay, which may be taken to indicate that big financiers of the coast are interested in this part of the state and are expecting development here. During the past few months outside visitors to this locality have represented bigger capital and larger interests than most people supposed.

TREZ MAY COME

FIELD SECRETARY U. S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WIRES

Visit Depends on Route Mapped Out for Him—Has Promised to Come to Marshfield

"I will visit Marshfield providing my schedule will allow me," is the gist of a telegram received this morning from Edward F. Trefz, field secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who is now in Portland. The bringing of this officer here is viewed as most important to the local members.

Mr. Trefz states further that he is going to San Francisco directly and will confer there with Secretary Manly, who is mapping out his route and it may be on his return to Portland that the field secretary will be able to come to Marshfield for at least a day.

All over the United States Mr. Trefz is now traveling in the interests of large delegations at the National Convention that will be held in Washington, D. C., early in February. He has made three trips to the Pacific Coast.

Only five cities in Oregon are members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. They are Marshfield, Portland, Bend, Astoria and Dallas, though many private companies belong to the organization, 49 in Portland alone being members.

VESEL MOVEMENTS

Arrived
Yellowstone, San Francisco, 5 a. m. today.

Sailed
Adeline Smith, San Francisco, 3 p. m. today.

At 3 p. m. the steamship Adeline sailed for Oakland with a full cargo of lumber and five passengers.

It is reported that the Santa Clara from Portland will be at the bar about 5:30 this evening and will sail in the morning for Eureka and San Francisco.

SALVAGE IS CLAIMED

FOUR PASSENGERS ATTEMPT TO PUT "ONE OVER"

After Pulling Auto From Surf, Serve Notice on Captain Cornwall Who Later Discovers Joke

Inasmuch as the law of salvage pertains to the high seas and further, inasmuch as high seas pertained to the coast last Saturday when the beach stage came through from the Umpqua and one of the big breakers tipped a machine over and over and was washing it out to sea when four of the passengers rescued it, the four immediately claimed 60 per cent of the value of the stage as salvage.

"Why you can't do that. It isn't lawful," declared Captain Cornwall, who is one of the owners of the line.

Gave Legal Opinion
J. C. Kendall, legal light and one of the importuning passengers, administered a serious expression and quoted lengthy legal phrases to back up the contention of himself and three companions.

In fact the "case" was submitted to the Captain in writing. He was told to "produce" or his machine would be held up. There was more sputtering and it was a long time before he was finally persuaded that some one was putting one over on him.

Life Savers Come
But the sad sea waves truly boomed and roared 57 kinds of defiance says Kendall and Roy Abbott, who were of the original four. He says that the life savers came scurrying over the sands, seven of them, with all sorts of tackle and ropes, to find that the passengers had rescued the car ahead of them. It had buried itself in the sand to the engine bed and was rapidly going out of sight when they set to work. They brought it back intact to the seawall.

Another machine was caught down in the breakers and, before being rescued, had gone so far in the sand that a "deadman" was set up on the shore to mark the spot where the car should go completely under. This too was saved, though not until the fenders and most of the top had been torn off.

ASKS $3,000 PAY FORM PARTNERSHIP

PORT OF PORTLAND ASKS THIS FOR PULLING SHIP TO SAFETY

Captain J. C. Reed, Formerly of Michie, Probably will Get No Large Sum—Commanded Tug Boat

Claim of $3,000 for towing the Peruvian barkentine Judith out of the breakers when she was almost on the beach and close to total destruction, has been submitted to the owners of the vessel by the Port of Portland, owners of the tug boat Wallula. The tug was commanded by Captain John C. Reed, until a few weeks ago, skipper of the Michie. It was believed here that the case was one of salvage and that, in all probability, the captain and members of the tug crew would receive goodly sums of money.

Further particulars of the incident show that Captain Bardi, an Italian, had a loaded revolver on the cabin table of the Judith and fully intended killing himself and wife had the ship gone ashore.

Also in working the Judith out of her precarious position in the breakers the rudder of the Wallula became disabled for a time by the floating of the sheaves in the after compartment. The trouble was temporarily repaired and two sailors took positions in the after hatch and steered the boat by hand through the breakers and out to a point of safety.

ADLINE SMITH LEAVES

The steamer Adeline Smith with lumber for California left the mill at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

YELLOWSTONE HERE

The steamer Yellowstone arrived at daylight this morning from San Francisco. She brought 200 tons of general merchandise for Marshfield and will load lumber at the plant of the North Bend Lumber Company.

NO RECENT WORD

No further word has been received from the naval authorities regarding the station here and it is supposed that the plans and specifications are now back in Washington where they must be first approved before the station can be erected. The last letter received by the Chamber of Commerce was to the effect that as soon as satisfactory word has been received from the Naval department headquarters men will come here and immediately call for bids on the buildings and equipment and start the work soon after, the idea being to have the station in working order here as soon as possible.

WATERFRONT NEWS

No word has been received here as to the time a tug boat will arrive to tow the dredge Seattle up the coast to Puget Sound. Inasmuch as there has been a heavy swell from off shore for some time it may be that the officers of the company are chary right now of letting the dredge go to sea.

CARRIES NAME ON HULL

When the American four masted bark Dirigo left Puget Sound a few Sweden she carried in huge letters, her name printed on both sides of the hull. This was in addition to the large American flag also painted on the two sides.

The expedient is not a new one. It has been practiced continually for many months to the craft of neutral countries as means of advertising their nationality to submarine commanders. Some ships even carry big lights that at night reflect so as to show their name and flag at a long distance.

I've Got the Goods---Why Do'nt I Get the Trade?

GET WISE

It's a ten to one shot that you have often heard this from people "who have a store." Note the quotation "have a store"—that's correct—they've got a store and don't know what to do with it. They refer to themselves as merchants, storekeepers, business men, etc., but they have deluded themselves. They've got something, but few besides themselves know what they've got. They seldom, if ever, advertise, but spend their time in bemoaning conditions. You never hear it from the steady, consistent, honest advertiser. The fact that he is a steady advertiser shows he is wide-awake. His ads tell the people of his community what he has and they do the rest.
