EUROPEAN WAR ONE YEAR AGO TODAY NOV. 7, 1914

The forts at the entrance of the Dardanelles are reported to have been completely demolished. The Russian fleet bombards the Turkish ports Zunguldiak and Kuzul and sink four Turkish transports.

NOV. 8, 1914

The Allies after having for two weeks hurled back attacks of the Germans take the offensive and make advances. The Russians succeed in separating the German-Austrian armies and cut off the latter from Cracow.

TIME TO STRIKE

IT is positively stated by Capt. Lofstedt and by others who know that the Santa Clara wreck would not have occurred with the attending loss of twelve lives, had there been a jetty at the entrance of Coos Bay. The accident was due to the rudder of the vessel not working but it would not have gone on the south spit had there been the jetty protection which has so long been asked for.

OUTSIDE COMMENT

THE Coquille Valley Sentinel makes the following comment regarding the Santa Clara disaster: "If the disaster to the Santa Clara was caused, as seems most probable, by the shoaling of the channel at the entrance to Coos Bay, the million yards of sand removed by the dredge Michie have been of little avail, and ships will soon have to begin to enter and leave that port at the service of the tide as they do

Grateful Mothers Tell Experiences

Mrs. T. Neureuer, Eau Claire, Wis., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar Compound cured my boy of a very severe attack of croup after other remedies had failed. Our milkman cured his children of whooping cough. I recommend it to every one, as we know from our own experience that it is a wonderful remedy for coughs, colds, croup, and whooping cough."

at Bandon. At both places jetties appear to be the only means to secure a permanent channel, only that at Bandon the north jetty is all that remains to be built, while at the Bay jetties will be needed on both sides of the channel.

It is scarcely fair to say that the wreck was caused by the shoaling of the channel nor to a failure of the dredge to have benefitted the bar. The removal of the sand from the bar has been of great benefit it deepening the water. Capt. Lofstedt has said that the vessel was wrecked because the rudder would not answer but he has also said that the Santa Clara would not have gone on the south spit if there had been a jetty there. The Coquille paper is right in one feature and that is that the jetty improvement is needed and should be given Coos Bay.

STORY FOR THE DAY

Eddie Foy, the famous comedian, once decided to himself to varnish a door on his country house. When he came home he placed the can in the pantry while changing to his knockabout clothes. He Foy had proceeded with the job beyond the first coat he said to himself: "This certainly is fearful varnish. When Foy went to the village he visited the storekeeper. "That certainly was awful varnish you sold me yesterday," he said. "Varnish?" replied the storekeeper, "that wasn't varnish—it was molasses."

THE BACHELOR GIRL SAYS

There are only two kinds of perfectly faultless men—the dead and the dead. The most successful men are not those who have been inspired with the desire to live up to a woman's ideals, but those who have perspired in the effort to satisfy her whims. In order to see a man in his most interesting colors, a woman always has to scrape off a lot of unnecessary white washing. Even the most "unreasonable" woman can be made to believe that two and two make five, if only her husband will offer her a certified check in proof of his argument. You can flatter a man in general terms, but a woman demands details. She would rather be told that her nose was cute or that her elbow was fascinating than to be called a "paragon."

THE FRIENDS OF FANCY

"Old wood to burn, old wine to drink, old friends to trust, old books to read."—Alonso of Aragon. Lay the book down—you have come to the end; 'twas pleasant to wander awhile with the phrase. The folks of its fancy have walked with you, friend, through sunshine that dappled the glorious days. Grieve not that you come to the parting of the ways. Sometime, when the morn is met up with the May, when birds are so happy that heaven leans down and listens and laughs to the madrigal lay, when the magic of roses enamors the town—you will know they never quite wandered away. Lay the book down, with a smile or a frown; they will remember—so lay the book down.

NEWS OF NEARBY TOWNS

NEWS OF BANDON

Happenings at City by the Sea, as Told in the Western World

Mrs. R. Rinde, of Bridge, was in Bandon the latter part of the week on a short visit with her family.

Mrs. C. I. Starr returned via Roseburg Friday from a visit to the Exposition at San Francisco. On her way back she visited Shasta Springs and Ashland, the two great watering places of the Western part of the United States.

Capt. O. Wren, co-operative observer at the Coquille River light station, reports that the rainfall for the month of October was 1.81; days rainy and cloudy and partly cloudy, 24; days clear, 7. The rainfall for the corresponding month of 1914 was 6.55, a difference of 4.74 less this year.

Engineer C. R. Wright, of the Government service, returned to Bandon the first of the week from Siuslaw, where he has been in charge of a harbor and bar survey for several weeks. He states they are not making as good headway as they would under better weather conditions.

Junior Engineer James Polhemus, in the absence of Engineer C. R. Wright, came over from Marshfield Saturday to look after the closing business of the month on the Government work. Dan Miller, who has been doing all the "figgerin'", during Chief Wright's absence, has been burning the midnight oil getting things ready for the payroll.

THE BUSINESS UNCERTAIN

George M. Laffaw, who has returned from San Francisco to his home in Bandon, states that the business is quite uncertain at this time and that it will probably be the first of December before orders are placed by the railroads. He hopes to receive enough orders to keep a large force of makers busy during the coming winter, but as yet there is no assurance of any great activity in that line.

Be Ready for Opportunities The small savings of a wage-earner sometimes mean hard work and self denial, and should never be endangered by taking speculative chances. Save, until an opportunity for safe investments presents itself, as, in time, it surely will. It's easy to distinguish between investment and speculation. With a little sum saved, opportunities will not be wanting.

"The Shoe Tax" Father's income knows what it is and to mother it is also a very real thing. It means the high cost of keeping a growing boy or girl properly shod. When father and mother figure out all the new shoes they have to buy they are apt to conclude shoes are made out of paper rather than leather. Care in purchasing will cut down this tax—care in choosing the right shoes and care in buying at the most favorable time. And the first step in the right direction is a study of the advertising in THE TIMES that gives the helpful information.
