

Duke Gets the Wood All O. K.

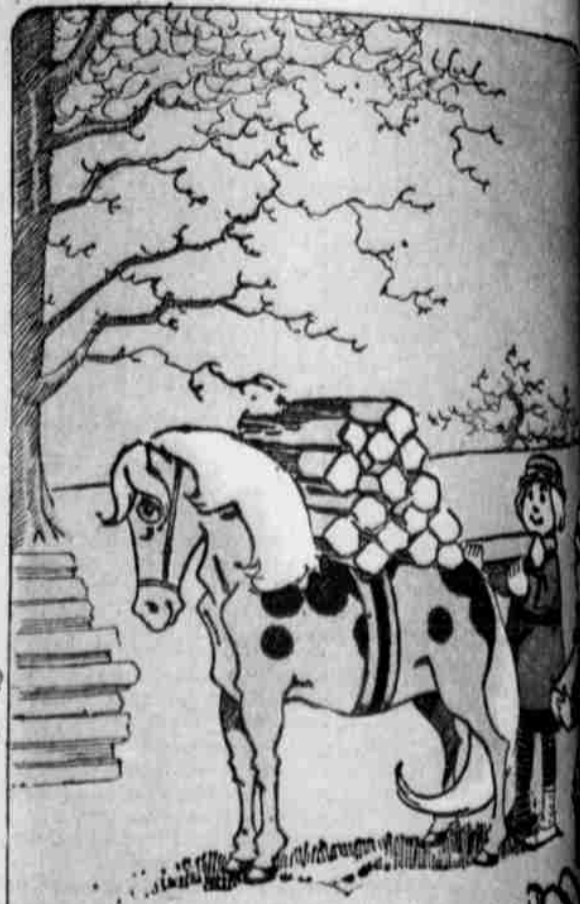

Father told Andy and Wendy to hitch up and go out to the woods and get some wood that he'd bought-

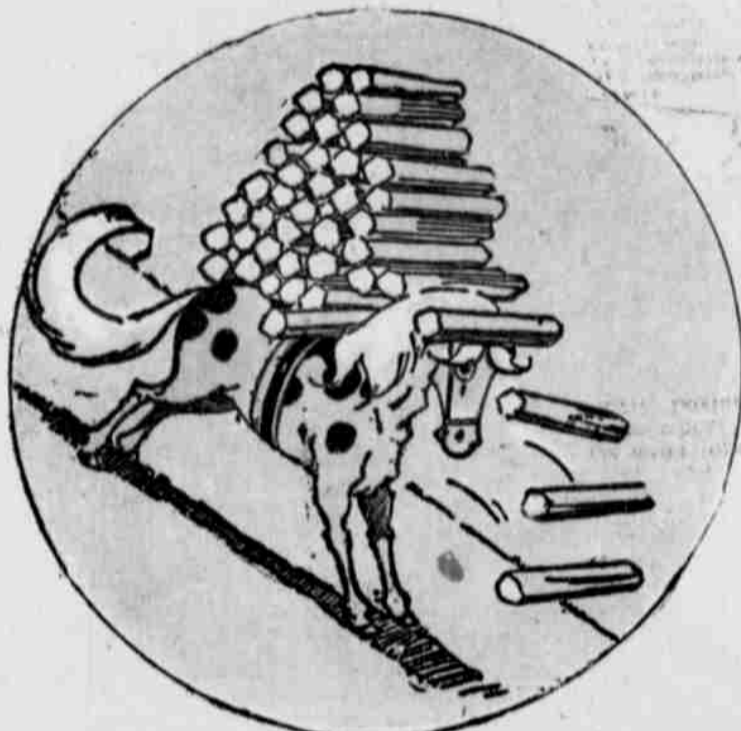

When we got to the spot, the hill was so high that we had to leave the wagon-

-The twins piled the wood on my back-

It was a pretty heavy load to carry down a hill, so I let them roll down-

-and my aim was so fine that we didn't have to pick up one. (Honest Injun)

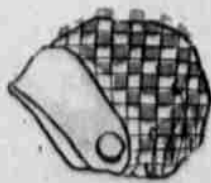

ANNA BELLE Helps With Housecleaning

Dear Friends:-I like to help my mother all I can, so when she began the fall housecleaning I asked her to let me help her. Of course I couldn't expect to do very much in the way of real help, but mother kissed me and said it was not altogether how good we could do things, but how willingly and thoughtfully we did them. This made me very happy, indeed, and I'm sure your dear mother will appreciate your thoughtfulness in the same way. Ask her and see. We have done lots of work so far and I've only been helping after school. How are you doing in your school work?

Lots of good letters continue to come in telling of our wonderful success in SEWING SOCIETY work, and I would be very glad to hear from you if you haven't written lately. One of my friends not long ago complained that she hadn't received her Certificate of Membership. If you should write and not get one, please don't forget to tell me right away, as I want to know when they don't reach you, so I can send another. Lovingly,

Anna Belle
