NEWS OF OREGON

EUGENE—The case against Frank Henderson charged with bootlegging will probably be dropped after two juries in Lane county failed to reach a verdict. SALEM—William Tripp, an aged man who has been at the hospital for the insane since 1888, died as the result of injuries received when he was struck by a dump car. MEDFORD—Dr. J. M. Keene has been appointed by Mayor Emerick as councilman to succeed Col. H. H. Sargent who resigned because of removal from the city. FOREST GROVE—The young men of the city have taken steps to organize a band and will give concerts and other social affairs during the winter. EUGENE—Wm. H. Abrams, who died at his home in Eugene was formerly mayor of Cottage Grove and a pioneer of 1867. WENDLING—The Southern Pacific will build a logging spur about a mile west of the city which will be used by Montgomery Brothers who will cut logs for the Booth-Kelly company. HOOD RIVER—The body of Lyman Smith, a pioneer of Hood River, who died at Portland was brought home for burial. DALLAS—The Oregon Power Company is preparing to extend its service from Independence to Buena Vista and will furnish power to the farmers along the route. M'MINNVILLE—A prohibition club has been formed at the McMinnville college and the students will study the liquor problem and social welfare. BAKER—The people voted in favor of a $125,000 bond issue for a new high school. PORTLAND—The Columbia moving picture theater in Portland has eight red haired girls for ushers, having been picked from one hundred applicants for the place. DALLAS—An apple tree in the orchard of M. Digby which did not bloom in the spring is now in full bloom. PORTLAND—The Y. M. C. A. of Portland now ranks seventh in point of membership among those of the United States. SALEM—The state board of control has elected Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner as superintendent of the state hospital for the insane for another four years. PENDLETON—The assessor reports that the total valuation of property in Umatilla county exclusive of public service corporations is $37,873,706. DEATH A MYSTERY Body Found at Portland Under Peculiar Circumstances PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 17.—Standing upright in three and a half feet of water, the body of a man identified as that of Edward Swanson, of New Castle, Washington, by lodge receipts in the pocket, was found under the docks near the Broadway bridge a few days ago. The manner of Swanson's death is a mystery as there was no water on the lungs. If murdered robbery was not the motive as $30.10 was found on the body. Swanson had evidently been dead six or eight days. Municipal Grappler Brady declared it would have been impossible for the body to float to the place where it was found. FARMER IS KILLED CONDON, Ore., Nov. 17.—Thomas H. Leach, aged 53, a well-known farmer residing four miles west of Condon, was killed when he fell into a well. His neck was broken. Times want ads bring results.

Much Entertainment

In the way of entertainment there will be slow auto races, tug of war, greased pig, basket ball, foot races and many other sport contests with prizes offered for the winners. There will also be an old fashioned husking bee and a corn husking contest and a barn dance. There will be a big basket dinner at noon Saturday at the W. O. W. hall. All are invited to attend and bring their dinner baskets. Sugar, cream and coffee will be furnished free. All of the stores of Coquille will be closed from 1 until 5 p. m. Some of the Stunts The following are some of the stunts which are on the program to take place: "Wrecks-All" Fuhrman—"I Stepped on a Tack While Marching the Baby to Sleep." Jack Anderson "Ram" exhibiting a Ford sired by Dr. Cult's model of 1915. "Plenty Eat" Drain will show in the Pure Food Products section. Owen Knowlton in his death-defying stunt, "Two Can Live As Cheap As One." (From actual experience.) Frank Leslie will make his first appearance in tights. You will miss something big if you fail to see this. "Bill" Rose will perform his usual stunt—the less said the better. The Original "Charlie" Gardiner will sing that bad-smelling ballad entitled, "Oh! Who Put Water in My Gasoline." "Gunman Mike" Hartson firing a pistol from a moving automobile. (Note—Visitors all requested to leave their cars at home if they value their windshields.) "Romeo" Gene Norton "Waiting at the Bar for 'Lizale,'" ably assisted by "Eckzactly Johnson of the Port Commission. "First National" Hazard in "How to Return from a Fishing Trip, Clothed Only in a Mackinaw." "Fay-Ette Washington" Jones, father of the Bachelors and renowned author of the latest fiction entitled, "How to Run a Ford With One Hand." William "Hambletonian" (Brewster Bill) Lyons, the Cow Puncher, will give a demonstration of bulldogging a steer, ably assisted by "Carving" Leo Cary, the Cattle King. "Frederic Cantlever" True will raise a "Rocket" for the small price of five cents. For further enlightenment on the subject, "Two Can Live As Cheap As One (But only two)" apply to "Model" Sam Nosler. Jones, Moss, Miller and Elwood—the Sausage Quartette. "Eye-Opener" Wilson in a "Jail Delivery" or "The Escapement of a Hamilton Watch." "Hold-Over" Anderson will sing that charming melody, "They Still Raise Babies in the Same Old Way." Frank "Electrical" McKenna will sobbingly sing, "Where is My Wonderful Kilowatt, Tonight," accompanied by a flock of sheep bells. Charles "Tester" Skeels in his own production, "If the Moon is Made of Green Cheese" or "Who Put that Hair in the Butter." Oliver "Cromwell" Sanford, the master architect of the Ko-Keel Kanu Klub, will floor a tent for all comers. "Ebenezer Ezekial" Fraederich's medley, "Der Waecht Am Rhine," "Maselilles," and "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary," moves strong men to tears. ONLY FOUR GLASSES PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 17.—"Four glasses of champagne are enough to make any man drunk," Municipal Judge Stevenson said in sentencing a man giving the name of Dan McKinnon to five days in jail for driving an automobile while intoxicated. McKinnon had said he only had this quantity of "bubble water." Times want ads bring results.

"Do Your Christmas Shopping Early" By J. A. Coleman The above slogan in the hands of an astute business man, changed the whole practice of Christmas shopping and stimulated holiday business as nothing else could have done. This man, with the nerve of a Barnum and the judgment of a Wanamaker, grabbed the thought from the public mind and put it into big BLACK TYPE where "He who runs may read"—in the newspaper! He backed a popular conviction with his coin and advertised the universal belief that it would be better for everyone concerned if the inevitable Christmas purchases were made at once while stocks were fresh and new and the choice was wide and ample. The result not only paid the advertiser as it always does—but the whole country profited beside. This slogan has since slipped into practical use in every corner of commercial America. Excepting perhaps its fellow slogan "Safety First," which reduced the accident death rate enormously, it has done more good in the world than any business phrase ever coined. It has been the means of discontinuing the time honored practice among large metropolitan department and specialty stores of keeping open in the evenings a week or two preceding Christmas Eve. It has enabled manufacturers to prepare their goods and fill orders far enough in advance to insure clear store rooms long before the Yuletide candles were lighted. It prevented the disappointment of millions of Christmas shoppers who were wont in times past to wait for the more attractive novelties which turned up at the last moment. And not the least important, it saved the heartaches of neglected ones who leant upon the broken reed of mere man's thoughtlessness. That phrase, "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early," was instantly taken up and flashed before the eyes of the world through the medium of its newspaper. Just as every other worth while thing is told this nation of readers by the ever present, constant, reliable, all-knowing morning, evening, weekly, or Sunday newspaper. Nothing the world does is done without ITS knowledge, nothing you want the world to know can be made known without its aid. Almost any national manufacturer will tell you that most of his fame and profit were the product of newspaper advertising. No newspaper advertiser who kept it up wisely ever lost money. The newspaper pays the advertiser. The latter merely invests in business publicity. The cost of advertising is like a phantom Zeppelin—it never lights anywhere. It is a bugaboo made of thin air and a yellow streak. The common supposition that advertising expense is levied upon the consumer is likewise a fallacy. The fact of the matter is that the non-advertiser pays for it out of the business he loses to competitors who do advertise. Advertising doubles output, halves overhead, divides selling cost and, by making two customers buy where ONLY ONE BOUGHT BEFORE, it creates a hundred per cent increase in profit—out of which any business man can well afford to pay for his own advertising. MORAL FOR MERCHANTS—Advertise in the Coos Bay Times and do your Christmas BUSINESS early
