Decrease in State

A press telegram from Salem says that a decrease of $10,406,236 in the state's total assessed valuations for 1915, not including public utilities which are assessed by the State Tax Commission, is shown by figures compiled today by the Commission, 1914.

The total valuation of taxable property in the 35 counties of Oregon this year is $812,516,640, exclusive of public service corporations, while in 1914 the total was $822,922,876.

The greatest decrease is shown in Multnomah County, which with a total assessed valuation of $286,888,255, shows a decrease from 1914 amounting to $10,147,309. Jackson County's taxable property shows a decreased valuation for 1915 of $4,054,970. Because this year the Oregon & California railroad grant lands are included on the tax roll, Douglas County's valuation has risen from $20,991,410 in 1914 to $27,622,865.

PARCELS POST FROM SANTA CLARA A JUMBLED MASS

Out of 229 Sacks on Board but 36 Have Been Delivered—Contents Are Ruined

Cast up by the sea, another sack of U. S. parcels post came ashore on Bastendorf Beach yesterday from what remains of the wrecked Santa Clara. The sack was brought to the local post-office this morning, a jumbled mass of sand, string, wet paper and crushed packages.

When the Santa Clara went ashore there was a heavy shipment of 225 sacks aboard from Portland for Coos and Curry Counties. Of this number about 36 have been delivered. Some 26 of these went to North Bend, five to Marshfield, four to Myrtle Point and one to Bandon.

The sack brought in this morning was delivered by the North Pacific Steamship Company.

The contents were dumped onto the floor in the Post-office. It looked a mass of sand and rags. Slowly package after package was picked out. There was a collar bag brought out, containing a pair of military brushes, still in fairly good conditions. Someone had a new pipe and a pair of little boys' gloves were in good condition considering the time they had been in the water.

Some of the contents of these bags still had the original addresses on them and these will be delivered. The rest must be tagged and held until inquiries are received regarding them and then an effort will be made to have them reach either the sender or the consignees.

FORESTRY REPRESENTATIVE HERE COLLECTING DATA

Bureau May in Part Subsidize Coos Highways—Much of Reserve Timber Now Ripe

Making a study of the Coos and Curry county roads D. B. Reynolds, of the United States Forestry Service, has spent several days in Coos. He is from Grants Pass and last evening came here to secure several road maps of southwestern Oregon. That his coming and subsequent report to the Forestry Bureau may result in substantial aids to the local roads, is the belief.

Mr. Reynolds spent yesterday at the county court collecting data. There he saw one of the maps recently prepared by D. L. Buckingham showing every road in Coos and Curry and Judge Watson purchased several of them for the forestry representative.

May Subsidize Roads

There exists a law, pointed out by Mr. Reynolds, by which the government can spend up to 35 percent of the proceeds from the reserves within the county where the land is situated for road purposes.

In Coos there are approximately 1,000,000 acres of reserve. The revenue at present from grazing and timber is slight. Inasmuch as a great deal of the timber is ripe and the lumber market is looking up, Mr. Reynolds intimated there might be a move to sell some of this.

Where the annual income is not large there is also a law allowing the government to bond for a period of years, thus making a good sized sum available for immediate use.

Jackson County Received Aid

Over in Jackson county the forestry bureau contributed $35,000 in cash toward the building of the Pacific Highway. This was after the county had bonded for about $150,000 and the state had further aided with $50,000.

This example was quoted by Mr. Reynolds, though he said he has no idea of what use the department will make of the data he will send them on the roads here.

Another to Study Roads

During the Good Roads Convention in North Bend in October Mr. Burrell, of the Bureau of Public Roads, then said a government man would follow him in here to make a study of road conditions, but he will be in no way connected with the Bureau of Forestry. He has not yet arrived.

BAR DREDGE DOES SOME WORK TO AID CHANNEL

Government Vessel Works in Upper Bay Today and Takes Out Several Cargoes

Into the mud banks that bother, just as the main channel swings off eastward toward the C. A. Smith Mill the government dredge Michie plunged her nose this morning. Back and forth she went, deepening the channel and made several trips to the lower bay to dump her cargoes.

Several times skippers have reported this point opposite the S. P. docks to be filling in. In making the turn, the sediment is allowed to settle. The result has been an inconvenience to traffic.

The heavy loads of the dredge will mean the channel is somewhat widened again and considerable deepened.

Where the Michie will go from here is a matter of supposition. The belief is that she will be sent to Eureka. She worked in Humboldt Bay last winter for many weeks. It is said the craft was allowed $50 a day for the job, all of which was added to the government appropriation for Coos Bay.

COQUILLE ALREADY HAS 75 SIGNED UP FOR BIG GAME

Try to Get Delegations From Myrtle Point and Bandon for Battle Here on Thanksgiving Day

Word from Coach A. O. Walker, of the Coquille High school, this afternoon was to the effect that 75 football fans there have signed up to secure a special train to the Thanksgiving game here.

Immediately a move was made to get a delegation from Bandon and from Myrtle Point to come over next Thursday.

Reuben Mast has written Coach Royal Niles from the University asking whether they are to play the town team or the high school. He says he remembers full well some games of the past.

COME ON SPECIAL IS THERE A JINX?

FOOTBALL FANS SAY ONLY THIS CAN SAVE OREGON

Big Annual Clash With O. A. C. at Eugene—Will be Hardest Battle in Northwest Football

Over the outcome of the game tomorrow when the U. of O. clashes with the Oregon Aggies at Eugene, all tongues are a wagging. Odds today were standing two to one in favor of Coach Stewart's huskies from Corvallis, these based principally on the showing that O. A. C. made three weeks ago when she blanketed the Michigan Aggies following their unanimous defeat of Coach Yost's Michigan U. eleven.

But the reckoning of the annual clash with these two schools is not to be reckoned by comparative scores of the season. This is a rule, time tried and seldom has it failed in many years and it is, "Beware the Oregon Jinx."

Jinx Always Present

Like a dark and gloomy shadow of death this jinx hovers over the big state game. Three times in the last three seasons O. A. C. has been acknowledged even by Oregon as having the best of the two teams, but she has not won. In 1912 the score ended 2 to 0, favor Eugene, despite the fact the Aggies came to Albany armed with crisscrosses and forward passes that were startling.

In 1913 the score ended again 10 to 10, the university eleven making up a heavy deficit in the last few minutes of play and last year it was a 3 to 3 score again.

What will it be in 1915? It depends on the Jinx.

O. A. C. Has Strongest Team

It is acknowledged that Coach Stewart has built a fighting machine of heavy men. But for the unfortunate battle with W. S. C. early in the season the Aggies have won the rest of their games by big scores.

Oregon too was unfortunate in meeting W. S. C. She has won the rest of her games, but a study of her men and her plays clearly shows her to be inferior to the battering ram of the Aggies.

Situation Puzzle Here

Local fans have studied the situation with all the seriousness of first graders on their A. B. C.'s. Opinion as to the outcome tomorrow differ. There has been some money put up with two to one odds on Corvallis, with little Eugene cash in sight. Maybe so, but beware the Oregon Jinx.

And then—there is this thought which comes in an answer of Grantland Rice, the eminent sports writer. "No Reginald, the Oregon Aggies are not the only players on the eWater, or Pacific, Coast.

"University of Washington has almost forgotten how to lose and has steadily and with great regularity

AMONG THE SICK

C. C. Pratt was taken with a light paralytic stroke on Wednesday morning while visiting at the home of his daughter Mrs. W. W. Burtin. A doctor was summoned and later he was removed to his own home where he is now able to be up and around, though he is still weak. Mr. Pratt is about 81 years of age and his many friends hope for his quick recovery.

Chas. Swanton who has been at Mercy hospital receiving treatment for injuries sustained in the McNeal & Vaughn camp at Blue Ridge is rapidly recuperating and will soon be able to return home.
