EUROPEAN WAR ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

NOV. 24, 1914 The battle in southern Poland is at a standstill and there is nothing decisive. A German airship drops a bomb near the U. S. consulate in Warsaw. A submarine of the German navy is sunk off the coast of Scotland. The New York stock exchange opens after having been closed on account of the war. Chile starts a probe of action of Kaiser's warships in neutral waters of that country.

CHARACTER OVER ALL THINGS

CONTRASTED in this time of ebb and flow of ideals, true and false, with the imperial fetich of might-over-everything, the tribute of Ellihu Root to the power of character in individuals and nations should be written in gold before every people, on the portals of every institution of education.

Responding to the address of the Regents of the University of New York, conferring upon him the degree of Doctor of Laws, Mr. Root said:

"Tis not so much what they (the children) learn, 'tis not so much what they know, as what they are. Do they love liberty, love it so much that they will accord it to others as well as claim it for themselves? Are they willing to do justice for liberty's sake? ... Does the love of liberty of justice in their expanding natures transcend the desire for wealth and station and ease and fame?"

"Nations live or die according to the character of their people. Wealth, arms, munitions, discipline, armies, navies, are all splendid services, but the character of the people, the character to which the children are growing, determines the life or death of the nation. That alone is worth the having. All the little things that we do go down the stream and are forgotten, but the building into the structure of the world's freedom, the structure of liberty and order, under justice, of every life, though it be forgotten, is worth living for."

"The endowment of universities with uncounted millions, or their support of liberal taxation, is of small service to the formation of citizenship, unless inspired by abiding spirit."

"The finest thing that can be said for American teaching, from kindergarten to university, is that this lofty spirit runs through it from high to low."

Inactive Kidneys Cause Disease

"I shall not soon forget the benefits I derived from the use of Foley Kidney Pills."—A. A. Godfrey, Forest Grove, Oregon.

Too much work and too little work seem to have about the same effect on persons past middle age. Proper action of the kidneys is necessary to good health. They act as a filter and remove from the blood poisonous waste matter which if permitted to remain in the system leads to many complications.

Many nervous, tired, run-down men and women suffer from pains in the back and aches, dizzy spells, bladder weakness, sore muscles and stiff joints and fail to realize that rheumatism, diabetes or even Bright's disease may result. If you have cause to believe that your kidneys are weak, disordered or inactive you should act immediately. Foley Kidney Pills have been used by young, middle aged and old with complete satisfaction. They act quickly and surely and have given relief in cases of ten years' standing.

WITH THE TOAST AND THE TEA

GOOD EVENING

Never educate a child to be a gentleman or lady only, but to be a man, a woman.—Herbert Spencer.

THE MIDNIGHT HOUR

A sputtering lamp on the mantel-shelf, And the fire burning low— The world has nodded off to sleep, And I must go.

A spattering rain on the window pane, And the chill wind blustering by— The world forgets it ever lived, And so must I.

A shuddering thought of the morrow's care And a sigh for the yesterday— And now to prayer and a little sleep, The while I may.

—Anon

You can always make an enemy out of a Coos Bay man by calling his bluff.

Judging from the way the divorcees are pouring through the hoppers of the Coos county courts, some Coos county men and some women would like to get partners as they buy their socks and hosiery—guaranteed to wear for three months or you get new ones.

A Coos Bay girl spends her years learning music so she can forget it when she gets married.

When a Coos Bay bride has been married for ten days she begins figuring on how she will celebrate her silver wedding and just who she will invite.

WOUGH

A rancher just fresh from the plough, In a front street lunch place said, "I wough

That I asked for cream, But this stuff is a scream, And it never came from a cough."

A Coos Bay man who has no salaries to pay is always in favor of raising them.

Most of us are willing to say nothing of the other fellow will say the word.

The way things are running now it won't be long until parents will be sent to bed without their suppers because they talked back to their children.

TIGHT

He always digs up some excuse To stay out late at night; His morals and his change are loose, But he is always tight.

PTERRIBLE

Beware ptomaine or you'll die, No tainted food for me; I'd like to have some ptongue, but I will stick to toast and ptea.

The trouble with Diogenes was not that there were no honest men, but that he tried to find them with a lantern.

The elderly woman gets her pleasure going to funerals. The elderly man takes his in looking at the thermometer.

WUFF

The thick paint on her lips we see, A kiss from her would sicken, She thinks she looks real chic, but we think she looks like a chicken.

QUESTION FOR THE DAY

Who is the homeliest man on Coos Bay?

There's at least one happy married couple on Coos Bay—She can cook a dinner without burning it, and he can eat one without roasting it.

A Coos Bay woman believes there is something crooked about a woman who can keep a secret.

THE EASIER THE HARDER

"Do not fear work," said old man Hobbs, "Pitch in with brain and hand, For you will find that easy jobs Are mighty hard to land."

QUESTION FOR THE DAY

Why is it that the tiresome man is also tireless?

Liquor On Hand Jan. 1st. Can Be Held By Owner

What shall be done with the stock of liquor that will be left on hand on Coos Bay after January 1.

This is a question which is being asked. Should a saloon be left with some liquor which is not sold before 12 o'clock on the night of Dec. 31, or should some individual be left, when the last gong strikes, with three bottles of beer under his arm, is this individual or the saloon with stock on hand liable under the law?

This is the question which is being asked and which was the subject of discussion at a convention of the Anti-Saloon League held at Portland recently.

Can't Ship Out

It is a very serious question because while it is impossible to ship liquor into the state excepting under certain restrictions, it is also unlawful to ship liquor out of the state. It is herein that the problem arises. If a man has three bottles of beer or a whole saloon full of whiskey on his hands when the new year of 1916 enters must he stand liable under the new law for prosecution or must he save himself from being a willful law breaker, pour the whole bottled contents into the bay?

Comes to Rescue

Attorney General Brown offered a solution to this question at the Anti-Saloon League meeting.

Mr. Brown pointed out that the law makes no provision for the disposition of the liquor stocks that will be on hand when the prohibition law goes into effect, nor is it unlawful for the owners of stock to keep it on hand, so long as they do not sell it nor permit persons to gather in their places to drink it.

It was also brought out that the liquor could not be lawfully shipped out of the state because the law prohibits a common carrier from accepting for shipment packages containing more than two quarts of spirituous or 24 quarts of malt liquor.

Attorney General Brown said unless this stock is gotten rid of bootleggers may be expected to flourish.

Solution at Salem

The same question arose at Salem as it doubtless has in many sections of the state. On this phase of the liquor law a Salem paper says:

District Attorney Ringo has received an inquiry relative to the 1916 drought from a resident of this county who wants to know if it will be legal to lay up some liquor for his own use.

"If a man has a few gallons left on hand on January 1, can he keep it for his own use," reads the letter. "I don't like this thing of getting two quarts at a time. Look at what the freight bill will amount to in a year."

Mr. Ringo said that he would assure the anxious resident that as long as the liquor was kept for family uses that any amount purchased before January 1, 1916, might be retained by the purchaser and that the two quart a month provision applied only to the railroads and express companies.

FOREST NOTES

There were 29,276 acres of agricultural land listed to 515 applicants in the State of Oregon, and 3,895 acres listed to 52 applicants in the State of Washington during the past year by the Forest Service.

Since the passage of the forest homestead act, June 11, 1906, there have been 188,514 acres of agricultural land listed to over 2,000 applicants in the States of Oregon and Washington by the Forest Service.

Of the varied special uses to which National Forest land is put, one of the most interesting is that of the school house. There are thirteen school houses within the National Forests of Washington and Oregon, and one in Alaska. The only church is this bar built on National Forest land are two in the Tongass Forest, Alaska. No charge is made for this use of the National Forests.

It is estimated that over one hundred thousand people visited the National Forests of Washington and Oregon for recreation purposes during the past year. In addition to this, 25 permits are issued for summer homes, making a total number of 83 permits of this character now in force on the National Forests of the two states.
