GAZOLINE BLAZES WINDOW CAVES IN

ATTEMPT TO MAKE FIRE IN STOVE STARTS FLAMES

Firemen Respond With Chemical and Little Damage Results Above Office

Fire was started in the third floor of the Coos Bay News building on Front street about six o'clock last evening, when C. I. Bohrer attempted to get a stove to burning, with the aid of gasoline. The blaze was put out a few minutes later by some of the firemen who brought up a chemical tank.

It was said that Bohrer had gone into the lodge rooms above the News office early in the evening and, finding the rooms cold, started a fire. The gasoline caught in a blaze and was spreading dangerously when he came down stairs and gave the alarm at the fire station next door.

A few of the fire department members were inside at the time and they hastily responded and put the chemical to use before any great damage had been done. It was said that Mr. Bohrer was slightly burned by some of the gasoline that caught fire on his arm, but the injury was not serious.

DR. SMITH ACCUSED

Alleged Prominent Portland Physician Used His Fists

The following from a Portland paper will be of interest here as Dr. Smith is well known on Coos Bay through several visits here:

Dr. Andrew C. Smith, prominent physician and member of the Legislature, was arrested yesterday on a charge of assault and battery. The warrant was sworn out by H. L. Gilbert, an assayer, son of Federal Judge W. S. Gilbert.

The trouble occurred Friday. Mr. Gilbert had assayed some samples of ore for Dr. Smith's brother. He went to Dr. Smith's office to confer with him about this. A dispute arose. Dr. Smith struck Gilbert over the eye, which since has become discolored. When he swore out the warrant yesterday Mr. Gilbert declared the assault was unprovoked. Dr. Smith said last night that Gilbert had started to strike first. The trial will be held before District Judge Bell this afternoon.

WRESTLERS FALL THROUGH BIG GLASS OF BOHEMIAN BAR

Escape Injury—Bullet Is Shot Through Plate Glass Window in Woolen Mills Store

When a couple of loggers in the Bohemian Bar yesterday afternoon tested out their strength in a friendly wrestling match the big plate glass window in the front of the establishment was the victim. With a crash that could be heard for blocks the heavy glass bulged with the weight and broke in a thousand pieces on the sidewalk. Neither one of the men was injured.

In the scuffle, one of the men had put his hand in the face of his adversary and shoved him back. It was this that caused the breaking of the glass and the outside man ran his head clear through the opening and miraculously escaped being cut.

Fired Through Window

Sometime during last night a shot was fired through a window of the Woolen Mills store. Employees opening up this morning found one of the two big plate glass windows in the entrance, broken. It is judged the break was caused by a bullet and a lodger in the hotel declared that he had heard a shot in the night time. The glass was probably worth about $35 or $40.

HOUSE IS BURNED

Brother of L. E. Bliven Meets With Misfortune

A Salem paper contains the following, the E. H. Bliven referred to being a brother of L. E. Bliven of this city.

Fire completely destroyed the house occupied by E. H. Bliven, four miles north of Salem on the Wallace road, at 10 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Bliven, who is the mother of a child two days old, was fortunately at the home of her parents, a short distance from her home. The house belonged to A. Grueber and was insured, although no insurance was carried on the contents, which were a total loss.

LAND IS PEACEFUL ARGUE FOR JETTY STATES HER SIDE

THANKSGIVING SERMON AT BAPTIST CHURCH BY REV. KNOTTS

Says We Have Billions Upon Billions of Wealth for Preparedness But Nothing for Aggression

Rev. Knotts spoke at the union Thanksgiving service last evening at the Baptist church using four texts, "Let there be no strife between me and thee." In part he said: "We as a people may take delight in that our nation is at peace. There is no nation more interested in the terrible carnage than the United States, for on our shores are representatives of all those nations now at war. We tonight look up with thanksgiving in our hearts for peace."

Neutrality Is Hard

"The Psalmist says: 'Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.' It is good for the United States of America to dwell in peace. We are to regard the rights of others. It is hard for our nation to stand neutral as all other nations are throwing down international law and this makes it extremely difficult to be neutral. We have those among us who although they have sworn allegiance to the U. S. yet they follow with interest the struggle, and their heart goes out to their old home."

Praises the President

"Our president is the right man for this hour. We would believe from the statements of those who are ex-presidents to the effect that if they were, some of them, in the chair our country would before this have been thrown into the midst of the carnage. They tell us the preparedness of Europe compels us to be prepared. I can say to you that we have billions upon billions for defense today but not one cent for aggression. May it not be the flaunting of our money and our boasting of wealth that brings about this demand for preparedness."

Temporal and Moral Blessings

"During the past year no great pestilence has swept across our land. No calamity has come to us. Our crops have yielded enough to feed the world. Corn has increased three billion bushels over last year, wheat is in excess one billion bushels, potatoes, three hundred million bushels; and hay eight hundred million tons. We should rejoice and be thankful."

"There are moral reasons for thanksgiving. Since last Thanksgiving Day five states have voted for prohibition. Millions of money have fallen off from the revenue of liquors, and this makes us thankful for we know there is just that much more for other things more useful."

"We are expecting great things as a nation. We are looking for peace, and we believe that overtures which are to be made will be heard. As a locality we are glad the mills will soon be operated five days a week. In our isolation we will be glad when the steel horse arrayed in gala attire comes to Coos Bay. And last but not least we will be glad when the saloons of Marshfield will be a thing of the past."

LUMBER IN DEMAND

Douglas County Man Receives a Big Order for Fir

The Roseburg Review prints the following: "Can you furnish me with one billion feet of Oregon fir within a reasonable time?" was the substance of a telegram received by a well known Roseburg timber dealer this morning. The telegram was dispatched to this city by one of the most prominent dealers in timber in Lane County. The person receiving the message refused to divulge the price offered for the timber.

TEN POINTS BROUGHT OUT IN MEMORIAL FOR ENGINEERS

Shows Conclusively Why Deeper Bar is Needed for Coos Bay—Product is Available

Ten points are advanced in the memorial prepared by Henry Diers for the Port Commission and which will be forwarded to the government engineers in Portlance to argue for a jetty appropriation and a survey for a deeper inner channel.

His points take into consideration the resources of Coos Bay and the territory surrounding, points out the industries and the possibilities. Following these points are many pages of facts and figures on shipping and commerce as compiled by Mr. Diers some time ago.

A territory with 700 square miles, or two-thirds the size of Rhode Island, is contained in the Coos Bay country.

The total assessed valuation, including north to the Siuslaw, east to the Coast Range and south to the California border, is approximately $30,000,000.

This is Outlet Port.

By all the laws of distance and grades this entire territory looks to Coos Bay for the outlet of its products.

There is in this area some 42,000,000,000 feet of timber and of this about one-sixth is in government reserves, the stumpage alone of which is worth $14,000,000.

The best lumber markets are China, South Africa, Australia, Europe and the Atlantic coast via the Panama Canal. All of these ports are practically excluded to us only by the depth of water on the bar which keeps out big ships.

Would Raise Timber Values

The estimated value of timber shipped to foreign ports is about $2 a thousand more than that sold coastwise and in the interior, therefore, the deepened bar and channel would add $82,000,000 to the wealth of this country.

Completion of the Willamette Pacific puts Coos Bay and its products into open competition with the markets of Portland and other Coast cities.

Coal Here a Plenty

Coos Bay has 400 square miles of semi-bituminous coal, with 6000 to 10,000 tons to the acre. It can be disposed of profitably only in lots of 2000 and 3000 tons and upward. Ships with this capacity are barred from here under present conditions.

There is a wide range of agriculture. And the 10th point is brought out by the figures on Coos Bay's imports and exports during 1914.

HOLD ANNUAL GAME

MOVE IN FAVOR OF BRINGING FRESHMEN EVERY YEAR

With Railroad Coming Turkey Day Battle Would be Possible—Local Football Men Favor It

To make the football game between the Marshfield High and the U. of O. freshmen an annual affair, now that the railroad will be completed in here next year is the cry that has been started. Dr. John Straub says that he favors the move and will do everything in his power to bring about this arrangement.

"I think that an annual schedule of this type can be fixed up," he said today. "I feel sure that the faculty will agree to it. And it would be a wonderful thing to knit Coos County with the Willamette Valley."

He went on to say that because of the transportation facilities in here the remainder of the state has been in the habit of thinking of Coos as isolated in some sort of inside world of its own, but explained that this is the last year and from now on this section will be on the railroad map.

On Turkey Day always the big team of the state institution goes to Portland for the battle with the Multnomah Club and so for this reason a game with the freshmen might have to be played each year in Marshfield, as football interest at Eugene is centered to the north on that day, and it might be a hard matter to get a crowd.

The move has taken well with the local high school and it is possible that an arrangement of this sort can be made.

"Though I hope it will always be with better results than yesterday," declared Dr. Straub. "We can blame the elements for that; next time you'll have the railroad and that doesn't run along the beach."

TEACHER SAYS MANY OBJECT TO HER POLITICS

Mrs. Flora Foreman Says Remonstrance Against Two of Board Signed Mostly by Non-Patrons

Out of the 10 families sending children to the school which she teaches on Kentuck Inlet, nine of them are satisfied with her work and have caused no trouble regarding school directors A. J. Stevens and Andrew Sanline, is the statement this morning made by Mrs. Flora Foreman.

She admitted a remonstrance had been signed and forwarded to Supt. R. E. Baker in an effort to start recall proceedings against the two men, but declared that it was signed mostly by people who have no children in the school.

Not For Recall

Mrs. Foreman said the meeting of the district called for December 13 is for the purpose of voting on whether or not to retain the ninth grade, which has been newly added this year, and not to vote on the recall of any directors.

The contention was that Mrs. Foreman had signed a contract for $75 a month, and that she would do the janitor work. Mrs. Foreman today stated that her contract did not specify in it janitor work and also that the school law specifically states out of what fund a janitor shall be paid. The extra five dollars a month asked for, she said, is asked by the board and not by herself and is for the purpose of paying someone else to clean up the school building.

Is a Socialist

"I am a Socialist," she said. "Lots of the people there are dissatisfied with me and have started this fuss, because of my politics. But its going to be a good fight," she added.

FISH SCARCE, BUT PRICES WERE GOOD

Sam Nass, of Prosper Cannery Tells of Season on Coquille River Just Closed

According to Sam Nass, of the Prosper Cannery, the season for salmon fishing on the Coquille River, which is just ended, has been marked by a poor catch and good prices, says the Bandon Recorder. The season has been a bad one for the man with nets all up and down the coast, and poor hauls are recorded everywhere.

Mr. Nass thinks the lack of fish is due to lack of rain at the season of the annual run. He says this has made the water of the rivers salt and lacking the stimulation of the fresh water, the silversides have stayed outside and thus saved themselves from the nets.

But while the catch has been light, the market has been good and everything offered has been taken at good prices. Last year's crop was sold in the fall after the season closed and because the buyer could not dispose of it the pack had been returned and left in the hands of the canneries.

The Prosper cannery sold its last year's pack in August of this year and if it had held onto the goods a month longer, would have profited by the wait to the amount of $2000.

The seiners were the only net workers who caught any fish at all this year. The gill netters had very poor luck.

CENSUS COMPLETE

SHOWS 784 CHILDREN OF SCHOOL AGE IN MARSHFIELD

This Is Two Hundred Short of the Count in the City Last Year

Judge Hall this morning completed the taking of the school census of Marshfield and found the number of children of school age to be 784 this year. This is a decrease of nearly 200 over what the census was last year and is attributed in part to the fact that many people have gone to the woods and elsewhere to work.

It is believed by Judge Hall that the figure of 784 will be increased. The judge made a house to house canvass, together with the aid of Ben Fisher.
