CASE HARD FOUGHT

HABEAS CORPUS PROCEEDING TO SECURE CHILDREN HALTED

Wife Given Time to Secure Further Testimony—Bandon Street Case Holds Court in Night

Charge and counter-charge was made in the case wherein Lorin Oland seeks through Habeas Corpus proceedings to secure possession of his two minor children now held by his wife, which was brought before Judge Coke yesterday in Coquille. As a result, the attorneys for Mrs. Oland were given until Tuesday to secure further data and witnesses to combat the unexpected attack of the husband.

Mrs. Oland, with her five year old daughter and three year old son, a short time ago went to the poor farm. She claimed her husband would or could not support her and that they had been living in a tent near a Riverton camp.

Opens New Legal Phase

Oland then appeared and demanded the children. Upon the refusal of the demands he brought the proceedings against Supt. McLeod and later changed, naming as defendant his wife instead, and the action was started, this being the first case in the county wherein a husband seeks possession of his children from the wife through a Habeas Corpus proceeding.

In court yesterday the husband accused his wife of infidelity and said that she had left him four times. His mother further testified that she had observed certain actions of Mrs. Oland that were incriminatory.

It was mostly on this evidence that the wife was allowed another week to secure further evidence and witnesses to her support. She, on the other hand, contended that she had actually been in want when she went to the poor farm and that both herself and children had had little to eat and wear.

Court Held Until Late

Until 10:30 last night court was in session, hearing the case of the Catholic Church at Bandon versus the City of Bandon and Contractor Webb. The church seeks to enjoin the city from collecting the assessment and improving the street in front of its property claiming an understanding that should the church dedicate the disputed strip for a street, the city would pay for its improving.

On the other hand, the city claims that this strip was dedicated some time ago by the church and also that it is a street by the right of prescription, or use.

Decide About Trail

It was shown that along part of the strip there runs a trail. Judge Coke ruled that the path was so meandering and had been used so little that it could have no part in the settlement of the controversy. The taking of testimony was concluded last night and the attorneys for both sides were given time to submit briefs for the final decision.

FERRY AT UMPQUA

Passenger Service Can be Established as Soon as Tracks Reach That Point

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

Although Newly Constructed Road Did Not Suffer—Work Has Been Kept Up During the Winter Months and Moved Rapidly

That passenger service will be established to Marshfield by Feb. 1 is the announcement made in the Eugene Guard which says:

"It was authentically reported in Eugene today that the Willamette-Pacific Railroad company, will handle passengers from Eugene to Marshfield as soon as the ends of the track are laid to the Umpqua river. Passengers and baggage will be transferred by boat across the river. February 1 is the tentative date given out for this service to start.

It is also reported that the railroad company's intention is to connect the track in the vicinity of the Umpqua river upon the completion of the steel bridge across the Umpqua. This bridge is now under construction at this point.

Work Is Rapid

"Notwithstanding the recent heavy weather in western Oregon and in this vicinity in the Willamette valley, the construction of the Willamette Pacific Railroad has been proceeding rapidly, the only intermissions being short delays to trains on one or two occasions, caused by small slides.

"Although this is a newly constructed line, the heaviest storms with which this section of Oregon has been visited, have failed to damage the road at any point.

Operated on Siuslaw

"At present the line is being operated under the construction department, in connection with regular construction work, between Eugene and Cushman, the latter point being in the vicinity of Acme, and at which point the railroad line makes the seventh and last crossing of the Siuslaw river, and proceeding thence due south to Marshfield, paralleling the chain of lakes between the Siuslaw and Umpqua rivers, and the chain of lakes between the Umpqua and the north inlet of Coos Bay.

Crowd Ballasting

"Ballasting operations for the track south of the Siuslaw river are being crowded and the next two weeks will see this track fully ballasted as far as laid from the Eugene end."

SECOND EXPLOSION

SECOND ACCIDENT OCCURS AT DUPONT COMPANY PLANT

Near Scene of Accident Yesterday When Thirty-One Boys and Men Died

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

WILLIMINGTON, Del., Dec. 1.—A small explosion of smokeless powder occurred today at the Dupont Powder Company plant at Carney's Point, N. J., not far from the upper Hagley plant, where 31 men and boys lost their lives in an explosion yesterday.

No one was hurt and the damage was slight. There have been no more deaths among the five injured in the Hagley explosion. There is little hope for determining the cause of the latter explosion.

All Were Killed

Not one of the 28 men who were in the packing house escaped. Now there is only a huge hole in the ground where once a building stood. Reports that notices have been found to be nailed to trees warning employes of Teutonic origin that they would imperil their lives by continuing to work, are being investigated. The theories most widely credited are that the explosion was caused by a spark from a horse's hoof or the wheel of a car.
