TALKS TO VOTERS

CITY ATTORNEY JOHN D. GOSS EXPAINS MEASURES

Gives Reasons for Voting For Amendments to City Charter—Election Today

Editor The Times—

If the dangers which Mr. Miller sees lurking in Section 11 of the City Charter they should surely be remedied at once; but next Tuesday's election affords no opportunity for making a change in the provisions regarding failure to give notice which he has so severely criticised, contained in the charter amendments then to be voted on are identical with the provisions of the present charter, and have always been the organic law of the city, so that whether the amendments carry or not these provisions will remain unchanged.

The amendments should carry however and voters should remember to vote for all of them.

Gist of New Amendment

They do away with primary elections; which are ineffectual, useless, clumsy and expensive.

Ineffective because only a small percentage of the eligible voters usually attempt to vote thereat and in consequence the result is not the full expression of the electorate.

Useless because other candidates are easily nominated by petition. Clumsy because the nominations are necessarily partisan, and the national parties have no proper place in our municipal elections.

Cuts Down Expenses

Expensive both for the voters and the city because the voters must in the aggregate give up considerable time to going to and from the polls, and because the city is put to practically the expense of an extra election, including clerks, judges, polling places, ballots, canvass of returns, etc.

The primary this year cost the city in excess of $250 and under the new districting of precincts as determined for last year, would cost the city at least $300.

Furthermore these primary elections involve a great amount of extra work in the office of the Recorder, and just as fair and satisfactory results can be obtained by nominating petitions as provided in the amendment, with practically no expense to the city whatever.

The second amendment submitted merely cures an uncertainty in the provisions of the present charter, due to a change in the state statutes governing tax sales, and needs no argument to support it.

No Secret Election Possible

To any careless reader of Mr. Miller's article who has become alarmed lest the welfare of the city be endangered and our liberties wrested from us by some secret election, we commend a consideration of the following facts:

1st. All officers must be elected at regular elections, the time of holding which is prescribed by the charter and a matter of common knowledge.

2nd. Special elections can be held therefore only to vote upon ordinances, measures, etc.

3rd. A pamphlet setting forth these measures to be voted on must be mailed to every registered voter before the date set for the election, and the pamphlet must specify the date of the election so that it amounts to a specific personal notice to every voter.

4th. Elections must be ordered by the common council with the approval of the mayor.

Press Gives Due Notice

5th. All meetings of the council are attended by representatives of the press and their proceedings are fully reported and commented on by the local papers.

6th. The publishing of notice of election is little more than a form as the actual notice is not much more effectively given by these other means of publicity.

7th. The provision that failure to give notice shall not invalidate the election is intended to prevent the setting aside of a fair election through failure to post notice by a careless or designing election officer.

8th. It is further intended to prevent litigation and attempts to contest elections on purely technical grounds, such as much of the litigation over the establishment of the Port of Coos Bay, by reason of the failure of a few of the judges. In some of the precincts to post notices.

9th. In conclusion the provision is based upon common sense and experience, is common to many city charters and the election laws of many states, is in accord with the decisions of our own courts and results in safety and actual justice.

APPEALS FOR BIRDS

WILLIAM FINLEY TELLS OF WILD ANIMALS IN STATE

State Biologist Makes Direct Appeal to Children To Protect Game—Talk Well Illustrated

To the people, and especially to the school children, William Finley, state biologist, last night at the Noble theatre made a direct appeal for the protection of birds and wild animals. His lecture was illustrated with motion pictures taken in all parts of the state, sometimes under very adverse conditions, showing the "little feathered brothers" in their native haunts.

One time in southern Oregon, to get a "close view" of a young eagle's nest, men climbed a 100 foot tree with a movie machine, and clicked the shutter within a few feet of the nest.

Inside, a couple of young eagles looked surprised and yelled for their dinners. This was one of the most interesting pictures shown.

Take Picture in Tree

And another time, over in eastern Oregon, the men wanted a new view of the wild antelope. There are only a few left in the United States. Efforts to get near the animals were fruitless until the men got upon the expedient of stacking up some brush, with sticks and leaves making a natural looking barricade, and behind this they "shot" the antelope as they came along, much after the fashion in which European soldiers snipe the enemy.

Shutter Scares Animals

The first click of the shutter generally sent the animals scattering. A long rope, 50 feet from the camera, was stretched along in front of it. The antelope, perhaps out of curiosity, would walk up to the line and stop there. Some very good pictures were secured.

For years a determined and successful effort has been made to stock the state with Chinese pheasants. At Corvallis the state has a farm where thousands of the birds are raised annually.

Pictures of the birds in the pen were taken showing them in the original pens before being sent in crates to different parts of the state. These pictures were shown.

Hens Raise Pheasants

In captivity the mother pheasants refuse to sit on their eggs. For this reason ordinary hens are used and they were seen, clucking and scratching about with their funny little alien broods, evidently as happy as under ordinary circumstances.

Interesting scenes were shown from the Bonneville Hatchery on the Columbia. Every year at this place are secured millions of salmon eggs, from which are hatched the salmon that later are turned loose.

Show Salmon Scenes

Up the stream, in the spawning season, come the thousands of fish from the sea. They are caught in big nets, the females placed in one section and the males in another. The eggs are secured, fertilized, and the adult fish later are killed and made into commercial fertilizers.

Tillamook Scenes

Scenes at Tillamook showed thousands of sea birds. In one scene, Mr. Finley had crawled up to an old mother bird with 33 little chicks. She stood her ground and the picture was taken of him stroking her back. "Help the little birds," declared Mr. Finley. "If it wasn't for them, there wouldn't be a green leaf in Oregon. All day long the birds eat worms and insects, in fact they have but one meal a day and that is from morning until night."

DADDY McCULLOCH was here today en route home to North Bend from a visit at the W. B. Piper home on Coos River.

NEW SCHOOL DONE BOOST TO HIGH

BUILDING COMPLETED AT POWERS AND 250 PUPILS ENROLLED

Have Six Teachers—Many Families Go There From Marshfield—Bank Is About Finished

Two hundred and fifty pupils have enrolled in the new school at Powers. A week ago the big building was completed and school started with a faculty of six teachers, according to J. E. Montgomery who returned from there last evening. This structure was designed by W. S. Turpen and built by J. M. Wright, contractor.

During the last few months many families have moved into Powers, most of them going there from Marshfield. It is expected a large number of pupils who attended the schools of Marshfield last year have gone to Powers, one of the reasons for the decrease in the local school census, just taken.

The bank of E. J. Loney is just completed at Powers and it was said yesterday the building would be finished and the bank in operation by the next pay day.

USE U. OF O. BOOKS

Many Oregon Pastors Borrow the Religious Works

EUGENE, Dec. 3.—Increasing use of the fine library on religion at the State University is being made by the ministers of Oregon, to whom books can now be sent by parcel post at small postage expense. Pastors of many denominations get the benefit of the University shelves under this plan. Any Oregon minister may have upon application a list of books upon religious subjects.

LIQUOR ADS HAVE BEEN FORBIDDEN

West Virginia Supreme Court Gives A Decision Upholding One Section of State Law

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 3.—The Supreme Court has declared constitutional that section of the liquor law which prohibits liquor dealers outside the state from advertising their wares in West Virginia by circular letters and order blanks. The decision came when the court confirmed a decision of the Circuit Court of Harris County.

DOUGLAS COUNTY COURT TO AID OF CAMAS VALLEY

Matches One Dollar For Two—Raises $30,000 For Road—E. Weekly Works on Case

Thirty thousand dollars available in the Camas Valley district for road work in 1916, according to E. E. Weekly who came to Coquille to meet with the county court of Coos county, endeavoring to have the pioneers appropriate funds to be expended next summer on the road of Myrtle Point, toward the county line.

When Camas Valley raised $10,000 by a special mill on the Douglas county road it would match every dollar with more. This money will be used for the highway leading from the Valley out to the Coos county line.

Were Disappointed Mr. Weekly is one of the good roads enthusiasts of Coos, resides in the Bridge district, 4, and told Charles Hall, president of the Coos Good Roads Association that the people of Bridge are extremely sorry that the recent road levy did not carry their vote against priority.

Mr. Weekly, by people from the other end of the district who would receive little benefit from the road. This district in the fall was largely, taking in several separate road districts.

Invited to Portland Members of the Coos county have been invited to attend the annual gathering of county commissioners to be held in Portland next week. Judge Watson has expressed his intention of going, but the two commissioners are not yet talking of making the trip.

POPULATION GROWS

New York City Has Five and a Half Million People

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—New York has 5,523,888 inhabitants in five boroughs according to the census just completed. The state census, completed July, gave the total population 5,909,112, but disallowing, felt with this count and at the stance of the health department, police compiled a new count.

MUCH MAIL COMES

COQUILLE VALLEY TAKES LOAD OF PARCEL POST

Biggest Shipment of Year Comes From Portland Yesterday—Here Once More Before Christmas

While half a dozen men poked big sacks of parcel post into a freight car for the Coquille Valley this morning, the train waited. The largest shipment of this mail in months arrived yesterday on the Kilburn from Portland, the first in practically two weeks. For the Valley and Curry County there was close to a freight car full of parcel post.

At the Marshfield Postoffice this morning the clerks were swamped for a while with the sacks piled high in the back room, and North Bend too, yesterday afternoon, had its share of the load.

The next trip of the Kilburn south will be only a few days before Christmas and it is expected that Santa Claus will take special post shipment of the year comes at that time.

Unless trouble is experienced by the vessel on the bars, it is expected the Kilburn will be back here by about December 16, but it is hardly possible that the vessel could get in another trip before the 25th of the month.

WILL DISCUSS THE SUNDAY CLOSING LAW

Mass Meeting Will Be Held Sunday at Portland, Salem, Eugene, Tacoma and Seattle

The agitation over the Sunday-closing decisions which have been handed down recently in the different courts is growing stronger each day, and the latest plan which those who oppose Sunday laws have arranged is a series of mass-meetings which will be held in the different parts of the states of Oregon and Washington. Under the leadership of H. W. Cottrell, secretary of the North Pacific Religious Liberty Association, mass-meetings will be held in Portland, Salem, Eugene, Tacoma and Seattle.

All on Same Day Arrangements have been made for holding three meetings in Portland simultaneously on Sunday morning, December 5th, at 11 o'clock. For this purpose the Religious Liberty Association has secured three of the large downtown theatres, the Baker in Salem a mass-meeting will be held in the Liberty theatre Thursday night, December 2nd, at 8 o'clock, and a similar meeting will be held in Eugene Friday night, December 3rd, in the Oregon theatre.

HOMER RING, the retired logger-capitalist, was up from Tar Heel yesterday on business and pleasure. He says that the South Slough and Tarheel Pirates have decided that it is no use to contest with the Marshfield and North Bend pirates.
