

SALOON ROBBER CAUGHT IN ACT

 Restaurant in that city.
 The trio, said Baker, planned to come to Coos Bay to make what they could off the loggers during the last days of the wet year. They dressed in logger's clothes, went down to Eugene, and claim to have walked in over the Willamette Pacific to Coos Bay.

Carried Revolver
 When arrested in his room this morning Haley had a revolver with him. Jennings steadfastly stuck to his story that he did not have a gun. He has relatives who live over near Pony Inlet and said that he was visiting yesterday in North Bend with an uncle, Fred or Tom Jennings and later in the day had visited a grandmother in west North Bend.

Jennings is a young man, of slender build and possibly 21 years of age. His companion, Baker, is about 35 years of age and Haley somewhere in the neighborhood of 25 years old. All three were dressed in rough clothes like loggers.
 It developed later in the day that Jennings was not implicated in the liquor robbery of last night, but was in North Bend, and the police say they have evidence to connect him up with the two robberies there.

P. T. Beeching, one of the two men held up last evening, came over from North Bend this afternoon and identified Jennings as the man who ordered him to throw up his hands last night. He said the man wore a black or a brown mask. Beeching also recognized Jennings he claimed, by his voice. Pictures of all three men were taken this afternoon. Jennings' picture will be sent to Roseburg where it is said Sheriff Quinne wants him on another charge. The men were held today without examination. District Attorney Lilequist is expected home tonight.

SALOON ENTERED

THREE BOTTLES OF WHISKEY ARE STOLEN THIS MORNING

Gets Into Coos Bay Saloon Through Rear Door—Found Nothing In Cash Register

Burglars jimmied the lock of the rear door to the Coos Bay saloon, on North Front street, some time early this morning, and escaped with three bottles of whiskey. The till was found standing open and empty, the same as it was left last night by the owner, John Burke.

The lock is a simple one. It had been pried open, allowing ready entrance to the place. A drawer underneath the cash register, possibly thought by the robbers to be the cash drawer was half pried open.

CIDER IS DISCUSSED

PROSECUTORS SAY FARMERS MUST BE CAREFUL

Can Allow It To Turn to Vinegar But Not Sell Any Hard Cider

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 21.—Danger will lurk in innocent looking apple cider after January 1, according to district attorneys who gathered here to discuss the workings of the prohibition law.

It was decided, however, that a farmer may allow his cider to ferment and make vinegar but that he should not be permitted to sell hard cider. Some of the attorneys saw a loophole in this provision for keeping hard cider.

It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that no one should be prosecuted unless there was a strong probability of gaining a conviction.

Examples In Douglas
 Attorney General Brown told of how ardent temperance people of Douglas county had been convicted of handling hard cider with more than the lawful per cent of alcohol in it.

He said that when bruised apples were used in manufacturing cider there might be an unlawful quantity of alcohol in the cider right from the start. The only way to be absolutely sure would be to use apples that had not been badly bruised.

Not Pleasant Jag
 District Attorney Kelly of Jackson county, suggested that if anyone tried a cider "jag" once he would not hanker for it again. The recovery from the effects was a strenuous experience, he declared. He tried it once when a boy.

It was decided that each pharmacist employed in a drug store which handled liquor, should be required to furnish a bond, as well as the proprietor of the store, and also that each should keep a list of sales in separate books.

SAGINAW SOLD

Vessel Was Once Rescued Off Coos Bay Bar

The Pioneer Western Lumberman tells the following about the Saginaw which it will be remembered was several years ago brought into Coos Bay in an almost sinking condition and beached on the mud flats on the east side of the bay opposite Marshfield:

"J. H. Baxter has purchased the steamer Saginaw from the McCulloch Lumber Company on terms not made public.

The Saginaw was built at Hoquiam, Wash., in 1907. She is a vessel of 498 tons net register, 191.4 feet long, 39.1 feet wide and 14.2 feet deep, with a lumber-carrying capacity of 900,000 feet.

CARRIES 21 MIDSHIPMEN

There are 21 midshipmen aboard the British four masted bark Medway that arrived in Portland on Saturday 78 days from Hobart, Tasmania. The young lads who are learning the ways and methods of the sea arrived in Portland to find great bundles of mail awaiting them from home and, perhaps about as welcome, hermetically sealed tins of real English plum pudding, sent all the way as a Christmas delicacy.

Most of the British deep water ships carry midshipmen, young lads who pay certain sums to make the trips to sea and learn navigation and the methods of handling ships. In this way England manages to educate the vast army of men who are needed yearly to command her ships.

D. W. SMALL DIES

Pacific railroad to clear 100 miles of right-of-way as well as to furnish the ties and bridge materials for this stretch.

Later he was interested in the building of a short railroad from Walla Walla to Wallula on the Snake River, the little line built of scrap iron laid along planks that later sold to the O. W. R. and N. company for about $1,000,000.

With Relief Expedition

The season before the gold rush to Alaska Mr. Small went into that country with a government expedition rushed to the relief of Dawson when the city was threatened with famine in midwinter. Later he was down at Dyce, Alaska, and there was elected Mayor of the city. Before he could take his office, the town government was moved, so Mr. Small always contended that he is still mayor of Dyce, his commission never having been revoked.

Mr. Small served in a cavalry regiment from Maine and fought for the North in the Civil War. He was a member of the G. A. R.

Wife Died Here

S. C. Small, of Marshfield, went to Alaska in 1898 and was associated with his father in freighting there. The deceased came to Coos Bay about 1903 to build the Belt Line railroad for Major Kinney, a project which fell through. In 1910 Mrs. Small died. The death of Mr. Small is the first death of blood relatives in the family since 1874.
