WORKED POLICE

LIGHT-FINGERED GENTRY GET AWAY WITH $5 BILL

Were Given Free Lodging and Next Morning Imposed on Benefactors by Taking Cash

There was much merriment at the police station today over a chain of events that have followed, one close on another, somewhat after the fashion of the deep plot of King Brady and Diamond Dick, in which a five dollar bill and its several little bills form the base. No one was to blame for what followed, there was no damage done and everyone had a good laugh over the matter when it ended.

It started when a man was arrested for being drunk and then left a five dollar bill to pay his fine. This bill was put in a drawer in the police station.

There it reposed until sometime later two men came in asking for a bed. They were searched. One had about two dollars on him and this was put in with the five dollar bill. The men went to bed and on getting up, one of them called for his money.

He received it. Man No. 2 spied the bill in the drawer.

"I left some money here too," he expostulated, and the five dollar bill went to him.

The men departed. The loss was discovered.

Away went an officer looking for Man No. 2. He found him. He had only four dollars left. This was brought back and put in the drawer, the officer making up the missing dollar.

All seemed well. Then in the night, when the police were off on their beat, some slippery fingered miscreant sneaked into the station and got away with two of the original five dollars.

This man is still loose, and there remain three little dollar bills, all pretty lonesome.

OLD TIMER MOVES

Frank Langlois Boosted Curry County Over Sixty Years.

When Frank Langlois moved from Langlois to Myrtle Point to make his home, Curry County lost a resident who has boosted for that section for 61 years. #### SOUGHT HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Edgar at Portland Applies to the Police

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 27.—Mrs. Millie Edgar, a pretty matron 20 years old, came to Portland with her husband yesterday. Last night she went out for a stroll and forgot the name of her hotel.

After several hours of fruitless search the woman burst into tears, John Moloney, city detective, and Patrolman Rekdahl, chivalrously inquired the cause of her trouble, and volunteered to find the missing husband. The officers took Mrs. Edgar to the police station. At last they located Mr. Edgar. He was in bed asleep.

MUST USE BLANKS LA GRIPPE GRIPS US

FORMS ARE TO BE FILLED OUT AFTER JANUARY FIRST

Druggists Must Use One Kind and Common Carriers Delivering Liquor Have Another Style

Blanks must be filled out when alcohol is sold by druggists or liquor delivered by common carriers after the first of the year. These are all ready in Portland according to a paper of that city which prints the following:

Under the prohibition law which becomes operative January 1, druggists and common carriers—express, railroad, steamboat and other carrying companies, are required to have a special book for entering all transactions that have to do with intoxicants handled by them, also affidavit blanks.

County Clerk Coffey will have these ready for delivery Monday at 1 o'clock at his office in the Courthouse. One style of book will contain 100 affidavit blanks—that is, blanks that must be sworn to by the consignees when they receipt for liquors delivered to them.

Druggists will not be allowed to sell anything save ethyl alcohol for the arts and sciences—not for human consumption. Each druggist also must have a book of blank affidavits. There will be 50 to the book. The prices of the books will be 75 cents for common carriers and 50 cents for druggists.

Each must make a report to the County Clerk every month between the 1st and 10th, with affidavits attached. Meanwhile the affidavits and other records must be open.

Every druggist must provide a $250 bond with the County Clerk. It can be surety or personal. Blank personal bonds may be had also at the Clerk's office. The law allows the common carriers 5 cents for every affidavit made.

MANY CASES OF THIS SICKNESS IN MILD FORM REPORTED

Physicians Claim It Is Not Serious Form and Do Not Believe Wave of Grippe Covers State

Grandfather Grippe, leader of the mighty host called the Grippe family, flew over the city some time ago and, being tired, dropped down here for a visit. Since that day there have been many cases of the grippe reported and the physicians have been kept constantly on the alert.

It is the grippe, sure enough, but in a mild form and not in the full blast of its vigorous prime. If it were, declare the doctors, the results in some cases might lead to serious complications.

The local cases of grippe may be likened to exaggerated colds. In its regular form this sickness is generally attended with chills, soreness of bones and muscles, deliriousness and high temperature and is quite frequently followed by pneumonia.

In one hotel of Marshfield it was reported today that there are six persons confined to their rooms on account of the grippe.

Over at Lebanon the schools have been closed for several days on account of the grippe, and at several other points in the state this sickness has been reported.

However doctors do not think there is a wave of the grippe sweeping over the state of the same nature as that now being experienced in Philadelphia where 15,000 cases have been reported and where 650 deaths were reported in three days.

Albany claims to have the fewest number of cases of any city in that part of the state and at Portland the doctors say the people only have had colds and that there is no real epidemic of grippe.

LAUDS THE PAPERS

AID TO OREGON COMMISSION AT EXPOSITION IS RECOGNIZED

Letter From George M. Hyland is Highly Complimentary to Publications of the State.

George M. Hyland, the managing secretary of the Oregon Commission at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, praises the newspapers of the state for the part they took in aiding the work of the state. The following is a letter from Mr. Hyland:

"Nothing has been more instrumental in the acknowledged success of Oregon's undertaking at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition than the hearty friendly interest of the newspaper men of Oregon. In the preliminary work incident to arousing interest and gathering exhibits the Oregon press performed an invaluable service.

"In sending to the Oregon building for filing purpose and public perusal, and in finding it possible and desirable to use any portion of the news matter sent out from this building, the Oregon newspapers have performed another splendidly helpful service. At this time, as the exposition period is closed, the Commission desires to express its sincere appreciation of this generous co-operation and to acknowledge its deep sense of obligation. I would urge you to accept this expression as anything but the stereotyped 'card of thanks', but rather as a sincere, grateful acknowledgement of a truly helpful service that has been noted and frequently commented on by the Commission when in formal session and privately, as well.

"As you know, the Commission has served the state two years and wholly without compensation. Its whole effort has been an entirely unselfish service in behalf of the state we all love and which we hope will be made more populous and prosperous as a result of the endeavor here. To whatever success there has been the Oregon press also has certainly contributed its full share, and it is our confidence that the results will show mightily during the coming years.

"It may be of interest to you to know that the Oregon appropriation for use at the exposition has been so carefully conserved that there is still ample within the fund to finish the work here in accordance with contracts and the state act."

NEW VOTING LAW

PERMANENT REGISTRATION OF VOTERS GOES INTO EFFECT

County Clerk Appoints J. T. Brand As Registrar for Local District—Instructions Later

January 1, 1916 will see the new registration law, passed by the last legislature, go into effect. Under these provisions a voter may be permanently registered, unless he moves from one precinct to another or fails to vote for more than two elections when it becomes necessary for him to register again.

County Clerk Watson, under this law, appoints a registrar for a certain number of precincts, whose business it is to register the people within his assigned territory. J. T. Brand has just been appointed to have charge of the Marshfield, the Coos River, the Bunker Hill and the Eastport precincts.

He said this afternoon that only the notice of the assignment has reached him, and not the full instructions, thus leaving him undecided about many points of the new measure.

Under the old system a voter had to register for each election. Under the new system of permanent registration a voter can register any time up to within 30 days of the primaries or general election and within 15 days of a special election.

A voter may be sworn in before two instead of six free holders.

The precincts included in the local district are Nos. 14, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 24, 25 and 27.

Further instructions regarding the registration of voters will be given out later.

NEW FLAG ARRIVES

ALIENS BECOMING CITIZENS WILL FACE BANNER

Is Gift of Oregon Sons of Revolution. First Flag Went Down on Santa Clara

And now when Judge Coke admits foreigners to citizenship as full fledged Americans, the balliff will have a brand new and large silk flag of Uncle Sam's dominions to which aliens may bid allegiance. The flag arrived today and this afternoon was on display at the Hub store.

There was another flag presented by the Oregon Sons of the American Revolution, but this went down on the Santa Clara. Later it was rescued by pirates and when it came into the possession of R. O. Graves the colors of the flag had run together, making it a blurred mass.

Mr. Graves will present the new flag to the circuit court later in the term. These flags were presented to all circuit courts of the state as a patriotic move.

CORVALLIS — A co-operative creamery is being organized for the purpose of marketing butter, cheese, ice cream and other dairy products.

DAUGHTER IS FOUND AFTER MANY YEARS

Father of Mrs. Charles L. Willey, of Fairview, Comes From New York to See Her.

The following story is told in the Coquille Sentinel: "Yesterday a well-dressed, elderly stranger at the Postoffice here asked Eck Johnson if he knew any one in town by the name of Willey. He was informed that a man named Willey could be found at Lamb's hardware store. Proceeding there the gentleman asked Mr. Lamb if there was any one there of that name. Mr. Lamb responded that he would find Mr. Willey in the back room.

The stranger was on a warm trail now and as soon as he had identified Mr. Charles L. Willey, the plumber there as the man he sought, he asked: "Did you ever know a girl by the name of Pearl Clarke?"

"Why, yes, I married her," came the quick response. Then it was a case of falling on his neck and weeping, or would have been in Bible times, for the stranger was Mrs. Willey's father, G. B. Clarke, who had made the journey across the continent from New York City, to find her.

They had not met for 35 years, Mrs. Willey's parents having separated when she was ten years old, she remaining with her mother.

Mr. Clarke, accompanied by Mr. Willey, lost little time in starting for Fairview, where the family reside on Mr. Willey's farm, while he is employed in town.

FIGURE WAY TO GET MORE BEER

Fact that Bottles Are Not Full Quarts It Is Claimed Will Make a Difference

Deponents have figured a way in which they believe they can stretch the statutory 24 quarts of beer one may legally import in any four weeks after the first of the year into 36 "quart" bottles of brew, says the Portland Telegram. By another route they have discovered the law.

The authorities are Noah Webster, the Gambrinus brewery, the city bureau of weights and measures and the prohibition law. The law says very clearly that one may bring into Oregon in any four weeks no more than 24 quarts of beer.

The well-known authority on words and their meaning says a quart is one fourth of a gallon. A gallon of water weighs a trifle more than eight pounds. Therefore a quart would weigh two pounds, or 32 ounces. The bureau of weights and measures says beer is slightly heavier than water. So a quart of beer would weigh a little more than 32 ounces.

Now comes the Gambrinus brewery. It says there are 21 ounces of beer in what is commonly called the quart bottle. Worked out by geometry, algebra, arithmetic or whatever the system of computation is, the theory of the deponents is this:

"Twenty-four quarts of beer is allowed by the law.

One "quart" bottle of beer equals 21 ounces.

One standard quart equals 32 ounces.

Thirty-two times 24 divided by 21 equals 36 4-7.

Therefore, you can get 36 bottles of beer, within the law.

Another Suggestion Here it is the other way, which makes it appear that you may import 30 bottles of beer every four weeks. The breweries bill five large bottles of beer to the gallon. A quart is a fourth of a gallon. Therefore a regulation so-called "quart" bottle of beer holds only 4-5 of a quart.

Twenty-four times five divided by four equals 30, which represents the number of bottles you can import if

STILL TO BE DRY

MYRTLE POINT AND COQUILLE LITTLE AFFECTED BY LAW

Tipsters There Must Still Pack One Gallon Limit Into Town Themselves—No Deliveries

Despite the ruling allowing individuals 24 quarts of beer or two quarts of whiskey every four weeks, will remain as dry as ever. City ordinances in both cities restrict the importation of more than one gallon of alcoholic drinks at one time, and even this has to be brought in by the individual user and can not be shipped to him for delivery.

There's Many a Slip But, let not the hopeful tipster of Coos Bay chuckle in his sleeve believing himself secure at least in his lawful allowance. "Not so," says the District Attorney and he explains it in this wise. "City councils have the power to pass ordinances restricting the importation of the amounts allowed by the state law. In other words, the city, fathers, if they see fit and find that the prohibition law is being abused, may tighten the screws considerably."

Also is this true, persons who fill big gaping cellars to overflowing with barrels and bottles of booze, may, if such persons become guilty of conducting a nuisance and so under the prohibition law, be prosecuted and have the entire drought resisting supply confiscated.

Grief Still Again And still there is more grief, that is, it may be grief providing the powers that be decide it shall be so. A city council may even pass an ordinance making it a crime to give booze away.

But Mr. Liljeqvist believes there is little chance of a loop hole in the portion of the dry law relating to the securing of liquor for sacramental purposes. He points out that the law says that affidavits made with common carriers on receipt of the beer or liquor must be "substantially of the following form." The better is expressed that the word substantially allows the court wide discretion in the matter.

Furthermore, in the same section is prescribed the limiting amount that may be received by one person. If the liquor is for sacramental purposes, the receiver must sign to this effect, and if he is not a bond fid officer of any organization for which he must claim the liquor will be used, he has committed perjury.

However, there is nothing to prohibit a man from receiving, on January 1, 1916, his full quota of drinks for the next four weeks.

NEED AN OUTLET

Argument Made by Port of Bandon Before the Engineers.

There are said to be 20 million feet of logs in the Coquille Valley now, and the fact that it will cost $1.50 a thousand, or a total of $30,000, to haul them over to the Bay, was used as an argument with the government engineer at Portland, to induce him to recommend the immediate improvement of the Bandon waterway, to the end that this sum might be saved to the lumbermen, as the rate to market is exactly the same from the Bay as from Bandon and it costs very little to float the logs down the river.—Coquille Sentinel.

you figure by the second system. "The law says 24 quarts, all right," said District Attorney Evans this morning. "I guess the breweries will have to start putting out beer in full quart bottles to avoid complications."
