MUCH STORED AWAY

MANY IN MARSHFIELD WHO WILL NOT BE DRY

Large Amounts of Beer and Whiskey Bought by Individuals for Future Use

The supply of liquors in Marshfield is rapidly diminishing. For the past week those who wanted to be prepared against suffering from thirst after the first of the year have been buying their supply to lay aside for future use and a large amount has been purchased by individuals for storage in their homes. Wholesale houses and saloons have been selling out until there will be but very little liquor stock left on hand when the new law goes into effect. The retail saloons will have enough liquor to accommodate their trade up to the last hour but aside from that there will not be very much left over. In fact some of the saloons may run out so that they might close up before midnight Friday.

Much Has Been Stored

The amount of beer, whiskey and wines that has been purchased to store away has been greater than was anticipated. One wholesaler said that he could have easily sold 200 more barrels of bottled beer if he had them in stock and another dealer said that the case was the same with him.

The brewery at North Bend ran out of beer some days ago so all of the beer supply was from the outside. The local bottling works put the beer through a pasteurizing process which would make it keep for a greater length of time. The last shipment of beer from San Francisco came in on the steamer Yellowstone and that will be the last shipment of any quantity, as hereafter beer can come only in consignments of two dozen bottles to each individual.

Little Left for Sale

It is stated that there is very little whiskey left in the city which is for sale. Purchases were made in varying quantities. Some bought a few bottles to lay aside while others stored away enough to be sure that they would not run out. If the liquor of different kinds that has been laid aside in private cellars in Marshfield was brought together it would make a supply that would run a well patronized saloon for quite a while.

Some Do Without

So there are at least some in Marshfield who will not suffer for the want of a drink after the first of the year. On the other hand there are a few who have been in the habit of drinking under the present system who say that they will not bother about any private stock but will take advantage of the dry system and try doing without.

CAR AN ELUSIVE ONE

LIENS FILED AGAINST AUTO OPERATED BY OLIVER KEPHART

Case Is Taken Into Circuit Court for Judge and Jury to Entangle—O. C. Baker is Plaintiff

"Button button, whose got the little spheroid?" might be a proper heading for a suit filed yesterday in the circuit court and entitled O. C. Baker, of Roseburg, versus O. D. Kephart, George Goodrum, the Coos Bay Iron Works and E. I. Chandler. The case involves the ownership of an automobile formerly operated by Oliver Kephart and against which have been filed various liens for money due. The whereabouts of Kephart are said to be unknown.

O. C. Baker is a garage man of Roseburg and his lien was for $133.90, claimed to be due him for repairs made on the automobile while being operated this summer by Kephart on his stags line.

The Coos Bay Iron Works also had a lien against the car, and Mr. Goodrum, having purchased the equity of J. E. Wasson in the car, now retains the majority ownership. Constable Cox took possession of the auto, and, to secure it, Mr. Goodrum took out a bond in a company represented by E. I. Chandler.

Both Mr. Goodrum and the Coos Bay Iron Works have entered a denial to the lien of Baker and the case comes now to the circuit court for settlement with Earl Powell and Peck and Peck for the plaintiff and Bennett Swanton and Bennett and John D. Goss for the defendants.

TO USE SIDE ARMS

Not Known What Effect Will Be On Local Coos Bay Crew—No Orders Received Yet

Now that the Treasury Department of the United States has adopted the use and training of men in the Coast Guard service to the use of the side arms of the sailors in the Navy, speculation becomes rife as to what effect this will have on the Coast Guard crew of Coos Bay.

According to the news from Washington the entire Coast Guard of the United States will be affected by the change and will be drilled in accordance with orders soon to be given out.

Already the Navy Department has invited parties of officers and petty officers of the service to the Naval school for small arms coaches at the marine corps rifle ranges at Winthrop, Maryland.

So far no word has reached Captain Britt about the new move. His men are not enlisted under any branch of the Navy, but come under the jurisdiction of the United States Treasury Department now that the Revenue service has been combined with that of the life saving bureau.

The present drills of the local crew is anything but military in its nature, with the exception of the line shooting gun. What effect the new orders will have on the men is not known.

LAW IS EXPLAINED

DISTRICT ATTORNEY SENDS INSTRUCTIONS TO DRUGGISTS

Majority, However, Will Not Keep Alcohol for Sale Except in Denatured Form

Instructions today were given several of the local druggists by District Attorney Liljeqvist, stating to them to the fine points of the Prohibition law on the question of alcohol sales. But the local druggists had already beaten Mr. Liljeqvist to it, having long ago decided not to carry alcohol for sale, except in the denatured form which is good only for external purposes and which does not come under the United States revenue law.

Doctors Must Order This then is taken to mean that local physicians, to secure alcohol, will have to ship in supplies themselves. Such a procedure will be lawful, though the physicians will be strictly governed in the manner of distribution of the alcohol.

The law says that they may administer alcohol or an intoxicating liquor only for medical purposes, but they can not sell it or give it away.

J. Lee Brown, of the pharmaceutical association said today: "We druggists have made this decision not to carry alcohol for sale on the grounds that it is not absolutely necessary. We will carry it on hand for use in making different kinds of preparations. The denatured alcohol may be purchased for rubbing purposes and the like."

What Law Says The law says "A registered pharmacist may sell ethyl alcohol for medical, or scientific purposes, for external use and application. . . by first filling with the county clerk a $250 bond." Also he cannot sell more than two quarts to any person less than four weeks time. An affidavit must be made of the sale. Persons addicted to the use of drugs or intoxicating liquor can not be sold alcohol.

However, the stand of the local druggists will be taken by the majority of the pharmacists of the county.

NEW LIQUOR PLANS

PROPOSE INITIATIVE MEASURE FOR STORES AND HOTELS

Announcement At Portland that they Will Not Try to Enjoin New Drug Law

PORTLAND, Dec. 29.—It is now generally believed that the liquor interests will take their medicine and will not attempt to secure an injunction to prevent the operation of the prohibition law Saturday, January 1, 1916. Instead, they have other plans and will bide their time for a few months.

Next November it is said that several proposals will be submitted to the voters of the state. One of these will probably be an initiative measure to permit breweries to manufacture beer for shipment out of the state. Another talked-of measure has for its object the permission of family liquor stores, or liquor depots, where the consumers can make purchases in the original package and take it home for consumption. A third rumored measure is to make certain concessions for hotels and restaurants.

There is, however not disposition on the part of anyone to rehabilitate the saloon. It is conceded on all sides that the saloon must go. Amendments there may be to the prohibition law, but in no event will the saloon ever be restored. It was the saloon, chiefly, that was aimed at by the voters when Oregon went dry.

HAD BIG INSURANCE LAWYERS BANQUET

THOMAS L. SHEVLIN CARRIED $1,525,000 ON HIS LIFE

Had Taken Out Million Dollars Of Amount Last October—Inherited Big Estate

Thomas L. Shevlin, the young Minneapolis lumberman and millionaire, news of whose death yesterday came as a great shock to his many Coos Bay friends and acquaintances, carried $1,525,000 life insurance. D. F. Givens, Coos Bay representative of the New York Life, a few days ago received an insurance publication telling of the placing of the last million of the insurance.

Mr. Shevlin inherited an estate of about ten million dollars from his father, Thomas Shevlin Sr. who died about two years ago. The latter made all his wealth in lumber and timber and when a young man was working as a tallyman where A. H. Powers had his first job on the booms.

Mr. Shevlin carried $525,000 life insurance and last summer decided to take out an additional million in favor of the many companies which he headed as a safeguard against financial trouble that might result from his sudden death. A fine athlete and in perfect health he little dreamed of the possibility of the sudden termination of his life. He was just 32 years old, instead of 34 or 35 as some thought. The annual premium on his life insurance policies was $25,500. The last million of his insurance was divided among these companies as follows:

- Aetna, Hartford—$150,000.
- Equitable, New York—$50,000.
- Mutual, New York—$100,000.
- Prudential, Newark—$50,000.
- Home, New York—$150,000.
- New England Mutual—$50,000.
- Travelers, Hartford—$200,000.
- New York Life—$200,000.
- Mass. Mutual—$50,000.

NO FISH SCARCITY

LOCAL ISAAC WALTONS PROPHESY MANY TROUT THIS YEAR

Claim Water Will be Low and Feed Scarce and Why Ones Who Rise to Bait—Duck Season Closes

Proteges of Isaac Walton are already beginning to warm-up to the subject of trout fishing and it takes hardly any effort at all to get them started on the subject. They loudly proclaim that the new year is going to bring excellent fishing, because of the fact the streams have been high and still are and that in the spring the water will go way down, thereby depriving the fish of excessive supplies of food and making them more prone to rise to the bait.

Along in February is expected to be the first of the trout fishing. Until that time exists the open season for fish stories, but the second month of the year will see the supply running low. And so again the fishermen will take to their hip boots and fishing baskets and tie themselves off to that favorite spot. It is also noted that said baskets in 1916 will carry strictly fresh bait and nothing in bottled form.

But the ushering in of the trout season is also the ushering out of the duck season. January 15 is the latest date for the Nimrods on this particular sport.

Taking it all in all, this has not been a highly successful duck season, according to the hunters. There is considerable criticism against the season's opening in October. Sportsmen here contend that for Coos Bay the time should be set for about November 1 and allow the extra month on the end of the season.

Most of the bags reported have been medium sized and, as far as can be ascertained, there was no need this year for the law on bag limit. Deputy Game Warden Thomas, at any rate, made no arrests on this particular score.
