BANDON MINISTER MAKES STATEMENT
Rev. C. Mayne Knight Published His Side of the Recent Trouble With Charles Martin

Rev. C. Mayne Knight, of Bandon, has made a public statement regarding the trouble he had last Sunday when Charles Martin attacked him on the street and blacked his eye in a fight. It was afterward agreed in the office of Justice Wade that the two friends should be friends. Mr. Knight's statement, which appeared in the Bandon Western World, was as follows:
"While I appreciate the sympathy of the public, I should like to say that the physical suffering and humiliation of being way-laid and pummeled on the way to church are nothing to the mental distress which I have endured for two years. I have been censured for freely forgiving my assailant, but wise friends will do the same. Let the matter be dropped entirely, and let there be no more feeling about it. I say with all sincerity that I have 'malice for none and charity for all,' but it is my business to clean up my church or it will soon be time for another row."
"C. MAYNE KNIGHT."

FAMILY DESTITUTE

WOMAN WITH INFANT AND FOUR CHILDREN HUNGRY

Chief Anderson of North Bend Raises Purse to Provide for the Sufferers

A pathetic case of destitution is reported at North Bend. Agnes Johnson, an Indian woman, lives in the Pony Inlet district of the city. She has four children and several days ago another child was born. Will Anderson, the acting chief of police, heard that the woman was in destitute circumstances and made an investigation.
When Anderson went to the house he found the woman with her infant and the four other children without food. He could find absolutely nothing in the house to eat and they had no money with which to purchase food.
Mr. Anderson at once raised a purse of twenty-five or thirty dollars and turned it over to the grocers to see that the immediate wants of the family were attended to.

ATTACKS INDICTMENT

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Jan. 15.
—The recently-found indictment of the Klamath County grand jury charging A. Ernest Lawrence and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hunter with the murder of Mrs. Alma Keuhne in the Dodd Hollow fued some time ago was bitterly attacked in Circuit Court here by W. H. A. Renner, attorney for Lawrence, with a motion to have same set aside.
The motion charges that not sufficient facts are alleged to constitute a crime; that no such crime as first degree murder now exists in Oregon.
The grounds are similar to those upon which demurrer to the indictment against Mr. and Mrs. Hunter was based, which demurrer was overruled by Judge Keykendall.

SUMMERHOME IS A BEAUTIFUL SITE

MARSHFIELD SUMMER RESORT ON TEN MILE LAKE

An Ideal Location for Vacation Days, With Fishing, Hunting and Amusements

"Summerhome" is the pretty and suggestive name chosen by J. O. Langworthy and J. E. Hedges for their new summer resort for Marshfield, located on the shores of beautiful Ten Mile Lake.
The location is ideal. The land slopes gently down to the lake and is only three miles from the ocean beach. The promoters are already busy on securing superior transportation facilities and at reduced rates during the summer season. A gasoline boat will meet stage and train to afford prompt and convenient means of reaching the summer colony. It is also planned to have a telephone on the ground. Negotiations are already on for a summer hotel, boat houses, pleasure boats and all kinds of amusement concessions that will add to the enjoyment of the summer colony.
There are two fine springs on the land thus insuring an abundance of pure, fresh water.
A strip of land 60 feet wide all along the lake front has been dedicated to the public, thus insuring in perpetuity the right of every property owner and the public to the lake beach for common use and enjoyment.
With all these advantages the property has been placed on the market at a price that makes it possible for everyone to own a summer home, lots selling for from $10 up.
"Summerhome" promises to be one of Coos County's most popular summer resorts. Keep your eye on it.

OLD SHIP STILL USEFUL

The old gunboat Concord, famous as one of the old time vessels of the American Navy, is still useful. She is a quarantine station at Astoria where persons coming into the port with contagious diseases are placed.
Only recently orders have been received from Washington to remodel the hulk, putting in a new galley and several staterooms so that she will provide accommodations for about 40 stowage and 20 cabin passengers.

REVEL IN SNOW AND BUILD MEN TO HEARTS' CONTENT

Snowy Mantle Brings Joy to Youngsters and Grief to Adults—Snow Ball Fights Rage

"Hey! Skinnay! Ain't yer glad?" "Ere cockerow, Young America was out delving into the snowy mantle, determined to make the most of it while it lasted, summoning the kiddies of the neighborhood to the playfest.
Joy was short-lived in many instances, when Dad, the Frightful Parent, put his hand through the crack in the door and commanded: "Never you mind Skinnay, Oswald. You sweep the snow off that sidewalk before you get a bite of breakfast. Understand?"
Bang! would go the door, leaving Oswald to suddenly find that the shovel and the broom weighed a ton, and anyway, it was more fun to make a snow man, and what's the use of breakfast when snow comes but once a year?
So Skinnay and Oswald, the town over, immediately got together, started snow men, snow forts and the making of sleds out of cracker boxes in breathless haste, keeping, all the while, a weather eye peeled for the rising of the naughty sun and the coming of Dad, the Stern Parent.
Today was a day of treats to the kiddies. Grandfatherly old gentlemen, pausing along the curb to watch the youngsters at play, and again found themselves surrounded in the rear by a successful flank movement of the enemy and with their first warning an icy snowball in the ear or the back of the neck.
But it was a great day, just the same. Despite the fact the ground was not frozen underneath, dozens of sleds put in appearance and grated and scraped along the pavement, much to the delight of the kiddies, many of them out for their first sleigh ride.
And, of course, there were snow men, lots of them. Almost every block could boast of at least one and sometimes two or three. But tonight Mother and Father, at least, agree on this point, that they never want it to come again. "Willie surely has got the grippe and just this minute Mary was coughing something dreadful. Dad, you run right down to the drug store and get a bottle of castor oil, right off."

W. P. MAY SEND BRANCH LINE DOWN TO FLORENCE

Is Stated that William Hood, of Southern Pacific, is Investigating—To Serve Lumber Mill

There is a possibility that the Willamette Pacific railroad will run a spur line from Cushman, on the Stiuslaw, three or four miles down the river to Florence. It was stated today on good authority that this is one of the features being investigated on this trip by William Hood, chief engineer for the Southern Pacific. The spur line would be principally for the getting out of the lumber from the Porter Bros. mill at Florence.
This seems to quash the rumor current here in the last two or three days that the Porter Bros. intended to move their lumber mill to Coos Bay.
Would Be Costly
To build such a spur would cost the Southern Pacific something like $55,000, it is said. The north fork of the Stiuslaw river branches off between Florence and Cushman, necessitating a draw bridge across the stream as it is navigable by good sized river boats.
It is understood the road would be used principally by the Porter Bros. mill, which at the present time is not being operated and has not been for several months.

WANT ASSOCIATION

FARMERS MEET AT NORTH BEND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Delay Permanent Organization Until Return of L. J. Smith—College Men Send Man

The agricultural committee of the North Bend Chamber of Commerce held a meeting this morning. There was a large attendance of farmers who had been invited to attend. The purpose was to discuss the organization of a farmers' association with the view of securing better markets for the farmers and otherwise benefiting them. The organization will be called the Growers' and Producers' Association and it will take in all the territory this side of the Coquille divide.
C. P. Moffett of Kentuck Inlet, addressed the meeting. He had experience with a similar organization at Eugene and said it was a great success. He outlined in detail what might be done.
A communication was received from Jay L. Smith, the county agriculturist of Coos county, who is now at Corvallis attending farmers' week. Mr. Smith advised that the forming of the organization be delayed until he could return as he contemplated asking the extension department of the Oregon Agricultural College to send a man here to assist in the forming of the association.
It was therefore decided to wait before taking steps toward a permanent organization and another meeting will be held in about two weeks.

FLAGS AND LIGHTS FOR WIND

People Are Able to Read Signals—Less Hill Are Indicators

Show Direction of Winds, Prevailing People Are Able to Read Signals—Less Hill Are Indicators
Did you ever notice the weather signals that fly on Wireless Hill? Likely not. There is a tall mast there and every day these signals are changed by D. L. Rood on receipt of word from the government weather forecaster in Portland. It is interesting to know what the Mariners are especially concerned with the changes.
A red three cornered flag on the mast indicates that moderately strong winds are expected. There is no night signal for this indication.
A red flag with a black center shows that a storm of marked violence is expected. The direction of the expected winds is then designated by other flags.
A white flag over the red one with a black center indicates North-west winds; a white flag under means Southwest winds; the black centered red flag beneath the three cornered flag is underneath, both for Southeast winds. A hurricane is plainly marked by two red flags with the black centers, one flag directly above the other.
By night a red light indicates easterly winds, and a white light below a red one, westerly winds.

EXPECT GOOD YEAR FOR AUTO TRADE

ISAAC R. TOWER, SOUTHWESTERN OREGON REPRESENTATIVE OF FORD COMPANY, APPOINTS AGENTS AT BAXTER AND GOLD BEACH

Isaac R. Tower, southwest Oregon representative of the Ford Motor Company, and Dalter L. Clapham, special representative of the Portland agency of the company who is spending a few days in this section, returned this morning from Bandon. While there, Mr. Tower appointed Albert Garfield Ford agent for Bandon and vicinity and Fred Caughel was appointed Ford agent for Gold Beach and vicinity. They are expecting a big business in that section, a number of orders having already been placed for early delivery of cars.
Mr. Clapham says that the outlook is for an unusually good year in the auto business. Present demands are away ahead of expectations. The recent advances in gasoline he thinks are not permanent and so will not detract from motoring because of the additional expense. He says that the Ford cars will again be the big sellers and maintain the lead they have held in auto sales for the last few years.
