JOHN HOUSER BURNS FEET IN FIGHTING IT Blaze Starts in Attic of Residence, But is Put Out by Neighbors Who Quickly Gathered

John Houser, a carpenter living in Ferndale, came near losing his home by fire this morning at 6:30 o'clock and burned his feet quite badly in his efforts to put out the blaze. When the wall paper in the kitchen caught fire from another part of the house Mr. Houser started to tear off the burning paper. In his haste he stood on the cook stove to reach parts of the wall and ceiling. The stove was hotter than he had calculated and his feet were quite painfully burned.

The fire was discovered in the attic above the first floor of the residence and evidently started from some defect in the chimney. It had a very fair start and an alarm was given through the neighborhood and quickly a volunteer force was at work and saved the house.

Damage Not Big. The attic was burned and the wall of the kitchen ruined. The damage was probably less than one hundred dollars. None of the household effects were damaged further than what they suffered from being carried out of doors.

The fire chief was notified, but very soon afterward word was sent that the fire was out.

HARMS BITULITHIC

NEW HARD SURFACE PAVING GOING TO PIECES

City Engineer Gidley Informs City Council It is Disintegrating—Contractors Bond

The new bitulithic paving on North Front street is rapidly going to pieces under the heavy logging truck operations according to a report of City Engineer Gidley last night. Mr. Gidley said that he had not estimated the extent of the damages to the bitulithic owing to the paving being guaranteed for a period of five years by Warren Bros., the contractors who laid it. However he was not certain whether their guarantee bond was ample against the "extraordinary traffic" as the logging truck operations are now termed.

Mr. Gidley said that the bitulithic paving was now beginning to grind up and disintegrate.

This has been the first comparative test of the bituminous and bitulithic paving under like conditions. The bituminous paving except where the concrete base has given away underneath the traffic has stood up pretty well but the bitulithic which has not been laid as long as the bituminous is not showing up well according to Engineer Gidley's report.

The matter will probably be taken up at once with Warren Bros. at Portland to ascertain if the company will make the paving good. Otherwise the cost of replacing it will have to be charged up against McDonald and Condron.

MOVEMENT FOR ESTABLISHING READING ROOM STARTED

F. E. Allen Elected Chairman—Expect Different Organizations to Subscribe Funds for Test

At a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce last night, plans were perfected for trying out the plan of establishing a free reading room and lounge room where strangers, laboring men and others may spend their spare time while in Marshfield. About a dozen were present at the meeting a permanent organization to have charge of the project formed.

F. E. Allen was elected permanent chairman, J. C. Kendall secretary, I. S. Smith treasurer and W. A. Reid, Ben Fisher and E. H. Campbell as the executive committee.

The matter was discussed at length many urging the necessity of finding a substitute for the saloon as the poor man's club. It was agreed to that quarters conveniently located should be leased for the purpose, and the plan tried out for a period of about six months to ascertain the necessities and benefits. It was suggested that the former Blanco hotel room or the former Claymore bar room be rented, the latter being offered for $50 per month. However, this was referred to the executive committee to look up.

Objection to the letter forms and illustrated letter heads offered by the Portland Chamber of Commerce is found here in the fact that all the boosting and pictures are of Portland, the Rose Festival and the Columbia highway instead of Oregon in general or other attractive spots in the state.

Robert McCann of North Bend Sues G. W. Tribbey on Old Note

Deputy Sheriff W. C. Laird yesterday served papers on G. W. Tribbey and his wife in a case begun by Robert McCann of North Bend to collect a note for $225 which Tribbey gave to McCann in 1906.

Mr. Laird also served papers on George Flanagan, Pat Hennessey and others in a case begun by Judge John F. Hall to collect $275 from them on an old claim. In order to guarantee its collection and to prevent the claim becoming outlawed, he is seizing a tract of stoneland on Coos River which the parties planned to open as a rock quarry.

SOME BIG DEALS

The final consummation of the big Simpson deal and the sale of the McDonald & Vaughan Logging Company are fore-runners of what 1916 will bring us. These deals, following closely upon the closing of several big timber deals of some magnitude and a big land deal across the Bay, lead us to place confidence in rumors of all sorts. It is not true, however, that Wm. T. Stoll has purchased the entire Perham Park tract. Investigation reveals the fact that he has only purchased a homestead. This was later confirmed by W. A. Reid, agent for the Perham property. There are several sites left which are being reserved for our best citizens. Outside capitalists will not be permitted to cash off all the best properties on the Bay.

SEND LETTERS BACK CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO INAUGURATE MOVEMENT Chairman Montgomery of Publicity Committee Will Call Meeting to Outline Plans While this is "Letter writing week" in Oregon, Coos county is not actively participating in it. However the matter is not to be overlooked and Chairman Montgomery of the Publicity Committee of the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce said that he would call a meeting of his committee in a day or two and outline a similar week for Coos county people to boost this section. Owing to the recent change in the officers and committees of the Chamber of Commerce, the plan could not be organized in time to conform with the Oregon campaign. The idea is to have all Coos County residents to write to friends and acquaintances in other sections of the country boosting this part of the country, outlining its advantages and opportunities. Letters will be sent to the old home papers of residents and in this way will get more and better advertising for this section than has ever been obtained. Objection to the letter forms and illustrated letter heads offered by the Portland Chamber of Commerce is found here in the fact that all the boosting and pictures are of Portland, the Rose Festival and the Columbia highway instead of Oregon in general or other attractive spots in the state.
