ELECTRIC WIRES DIVIDE COUNTRIES

There is a Fence Between Belgium and Holland And It is Charged With Strong Current

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

TILBURG, Netherlands, Feb. 5.—A continuous wire fence, charged with electricity at high tension marks the border line between Belgium and Holland. To touch the wire means instant death, and it is seemingly impossible for even a cat to crawl through unscathed. As a matter of fact, electrocuted dogs, cats and chickens are often found emmaned in the wires. Resolute smugglers, however, are undismayed and constantly devise new tricks to circumvent the "line of death".

In a field near Baarle Nassau, close to the frontier, a whole set of contrivances had been discovered which enable a man to cross the line unharmed. The principal object was a flat oblong piece of wood, provided with a rubber-coated groove lengthwise down the center. Then, by means of hinged and jointed side-supports, the wire is pushed upwards and a tunnel-like opening appears, through which an ordinary-sized man, lying on his back, may safely wriggle without coming into contact with the fatal wire. The official report says: "The owner has not presented himself to claim the return of his property."

BOY EMPEROR TO REMAIN IN PALACE

New Ruler Will Not Let Him Leave Until Change of Government Takes Place

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

PEKING, Feb. 9.—Shi Tao, the guardian of the Teing imperial household, has advised Yuan Shi-kai that the boy emperor and his retinue desire to move from the imperial palace and take up their home at the summer palace, thus leaving the royal quarters in the Forbidden City entirely to the new sovereign, Yuan Shi-kai, his wives and thirty-one children.

The president declined to have this change made immediately, saying that he had not yet been enthroned and preferred to have the boy emperor remain in the present quarters until the change in the form of government is actually put into effect.

Rumors are still in circulation that the sixth daughter of Yuan Shi-kai has been betrothed to the boy emperor Hsuan Tung who is now about nine years old. No official announcement has been authorized as yet.
