TAX FIGURES OF COOS COUNTY FOR YEAR 1915

The statement of taxes levied in Coos county for the year 1915 which has just been issued by County Assessor Thrift contains some interesting figures now that taxes are to be paid.

The city levies in mills for each of the cities in the county were as follows: Bandon, 13; Coquille, 17.5; Eastside, 20; Empire, 5; Marshfield, 20; Myrtle Point, 13.5; North Bend, 16; Myrtle Point, 13.5.

The following figures show the total valuations, and the total levies of each city and the total tax within the city limits, indicating to the tax payer just what is paid:

	Valuation	Total Levy	Total Tax
Bandon	$ 852,275	55.4	$ 47,316
Coquille	614,371	48.9	30,942
Eastside	129,096	56.5	11,243
Empire	139,589	31.	4,326
Marshfield	2,920,139	54.4	158,855
Myrtle Point	380,930	53.9	20,532
North Bend	1,237,997	55.4	68,585

With the valuation of Beaver Hill of $51,690 added this gives a total valuation of $6,396,078 in the cities and the total taxes paid in the cities $340,807.

CORN DISAPPEARS

SEVERAL PRIZE EXHIBITS TAKE "FRENCH LEAVE."

Believe Spring Garden Enthusiasts Did Dire Deed—J. L. Smith Mourns Loss of His Ears.

There was "blood" in both eyes of J. L. Smith, the county agriculturist, as he looked over the displays of prize corn in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, at least what there was left of the displays. A hasty survey showed him that some one had been "swiping" part of the corn; several of the big prize winning ears were missing.

J. L. howled, but not with delight. "Darn this spring garden bug, anyway," he protested. "Some guy with a lot of crust is figuring on making a garden with our seed. 'Say, you tell him that if he'll come to me, I'll donate a bushel or two to the cause, but Gee Whizz, leave this prize stuff alone.'"

Much of Best Taken.
The White Dent corn was the worst hit. Many of the best and biggest ears, gleaned from all over the county last fall, had taken their departure, and without leaving any address.

"Be a spouting pretty soon somewhere around here," mourned the agriculturist, and he looked sadly over what remained of the corn. These were his special delights; he had worked hard to get them together.

But he took his medicine philosophically. "You tell the chap that we know who he is. If he'll promise to bring 10 of the biggest ears to the corn show here next fall, we will let him off this time."

Banks Interested.
Banks all over the county are taking added interest in the corn shows and the raising here of the product that formerly was declared impossible to bring up in this climate. Prizes for next year are being arranged and shortly will be announced.

A BIG MEETING IN NORTH BEND

signed to Iris Elrod, but Secretary Powell claimed that Iris bribed the townmaster and the Secretary made the response, telling of the practical benefits to be derived from an intelligent use of this important feature of the association work.

R. B. Hazer gave an interesting and enthusiastic talk on "Membership Benefits" reciting many incidents that proved the worth and value of the association to the individual members.

J. W. Mast of Bandon was on the program for an address on "Association Extension" but was unable to be present.

C. R. Peck made a felicitous talk on the relations of the legal fraternity to the business men and spoke for constructive co-operation and a more thorough understanding.

F. C. Getty presented the claims of Empire for recognition by the association so eloquently and ably that he was promptly elected a vice-president of the association.

At the closing of the business discussion the meeting proceeded to the election of a new board of ten directors from the following list of nominees:

R. B. Hazer, L. G. Johnson, E. P. Lewis, J. S. Lyons, M. C. Maloney, J. Albert Matson, F. C. Mather, James Montgomery, Chas. Powers, Geo. H. Rotnor, C. W. Wolcott, Tom Harvey, M. E. Everitt, W. H. Dindinger, W. N. Ekblad, F. C. Getty, W. S. Nicholson, George Goodrum.

Lee Brown of Marshfield and P. N. Reberg of North Bend were appointed, tellers and at the conclusion of the canvass of the votes the following were announced as elected members of the new board:

R. B. Hazer, E. P. Lewis, M. C. Maloney, J. Albert Matson, E. C. Mather, Geo. H. Rotnor, Tom Harvey, M. E. Everitt, W. H. Dindinger, W. N. Ekblad.

Among those present were the following:

WANTS A HUSBAND

WINSOME WILLING WIDOW WRITES TO POSTMASTER

Says She Is Lonesome and Would Correspond With Likeable Gentleman—Lives in East

Truly this is leap year. Postmaster McLain has received a letter from a lonesome Mrs. in New Jersey who proposes marriage to anyone in the world. She asks, however, that the gentleman be somewhere between the ages of 35 and 60 years, though she makes no mention of her own age.

The letter is brief and to the point. "I am so very lonesome and would like to correspond with a gentleman between 35 and 60 years. I am a widow with no children so will ask you again to excuse me and beg you to give my name and address to some one who might be glad to write me." Signed, Mrs. Katherine Stone, Bridgeton, New Jersey, Box 464.

The Postmaster was nonplussed. He sat down and for a time thought over all the nice old bachelors and unmarried men in general, friends of his, who might be interested in the quest and then in desperation turned his letter over to The Times. Also he heaved a big sigh of relief as though a load had just rolled from his shoulders.

And the offer is still holding good.

You will be welcome at Sarter's new home next Saturday afternoon.

FIND BOOTLEGGING

EARLY MORNING DASH TO TAKE MAN FROM KILBURN.

Affidavit Claims Whiskey Sold for $5 a Quart—E. Edson Said to Have Been "Go-Between."

CAPTAIN WOULD NOT GIVE UP THE MAN

Word from the lower bay this afternoon was to the effect that Captain McLellan refused to give up Edson, the reason not being known, but possibly because the special deputy did not have a written warrant. However, Deputy Sheriff Laird is aboard the vessel, and will take care of Edson.

Fog delayed the departure of the Kilburn for Portland until this morning. Before the haze had begun to rise this morning District Attorney Liljeqvist had a special deputy speeding from Empire in a launch to the lower bay in an effort to bring off E. Edson, who sailed yesterday aboard the ship for Portland. He is wanted here for having acted as a "go-between," it is alleged, between a bootlegger and Mode T. Burnwell, a logger.

If the boat could not be intercepted a wireless message was to have been sent to Deputy Sheriff Laird, who happens to be aboard, asking him to detain the man at Astoria and have him returned to Coos Bay.

Found Drinking.

Evidence is necessary to find out who has been doing the bootlegging. It develops that Chief Jack Carter on Monday found Burnwell and another man drinking. Burnwell in an affidavit later made before District Attorney Liljeqvist swore that he secured the whiskey from Edson.

The affidavit runs: "I spent between $10 and $12 for whiskey here on the 14th. I gave the money to Edson. He told me he could get the liquor from a fellow and showed him to me. I think the man's name was Gust. Edson got four or five quarts for me and I paid for it to Edson. Today (being yesterday) I gave Edson a $5 gold piece and he got me a quart. This was the same whiskey that J. W. Carter saw men and another fellow drinking." Signed—Mode T. Burnwell.

From this it is judged there must have been a good margin of profit in the deal, if Edson actually sold a quart for $5. It is said Edson is being brought back as a witness, to tell of whom the whiskey was bought, but there is a possibility that he will be further implicated in the matter. It is said that Edson has been working at the C. A. Smith mill.

THREATENS SUICIDE IF SENT TO JAIL

Roseburg Shoemaker Regards Punishment Coming to Him as Being His Death Sentence

(Special to The Times)

ROSEBURG, Ore., Feb. 16.—Sentenced to jail for disorderly conduct Joseph Kundstat, a local shoemaker, declares will be his death sentence. "I cannot bear to go to jail," said Kundstat. "If I went to jail I would be a jailbird, and I could not dare to look other men in the eye. If I go to jail I will load my gun and blow my brains out."

According to the decision of City Recorder Whipple Kundstat must either pay a fine of $10 on a charge of disorderly conduct or go to jail. He declares that if he goes to jail it will be for the first time in his life and the last.

The time when Kundstat must pay the fine is therefore taken by the city officials as the passing of a death sentence. He declares that he cannot raise the money and also maintains his rights to act as he did when he was charged with making loud noises in his room at night so that his neighbor, W. H. Clark, was unable to sleep in a room close by. He contended Clark's disturbance in the night was as bad as his own.

It is expected the man will make a scene when sentence is passed upon him in the city court tomorrow.

BALLAST LOGS ARE USED. SOLD FOR GOOD PRICE.

Despite the fact she had 300 tons of rock ballast in her hold, the owners of the British three-masted bark Tridonla were afraid to let her tow from Astoria to Portland without the use of ballast logs.

These are heavy logs that are placed along on either side of the vessel for the purpose of buoying her up on an even keel. It is very seldom that they are needed. Ordinarily the ballast would have sufficed, but at this time there is a heavy current in the river because of the floods.

MUCH EQUIPMENT.
Breakwater Now Well Equipped and Makes Good Time.

Since the time she left Coos Bay in the middle of last November, the steamship Breakwater has gone another step toward her ambition of becoming a regular liner in adding much new equipment.

The following are some of the changes: The Breakwater carries a crew of 43, being six more than when previously in the Portland fleet. Her company has been increased through carrying an extra wireless operator, another engineer, extra mate, one more cook, an oiler and two sailors, but through the installation of oil burners on the fireman was laid off. On the run to the river she averaged 11-1-2 knots, and Captain Macginn asserts that when her burners are regulated she will make 13 to 14 knots. Cement in the bottom of the hull for years was removed at San Francisco, and the plates beneath are said to have been found to have retained their original finish.

SUES FOR DIVORCE
Chas. Heisner of North Bend Files Suit in Circuit Court

Chas. Heisner of North Bend has filed suit in the circuit court for a divorce from Carrie M. Heisner. Heisner alleges infidelity and a man named Payne as correspondent. Sometime ago the trouble of the Heisner family and Payne ceased quite a stir at North Bend, the North Bend Longshoremen's Union ousting Payne from membership. The Heisners formerly lived on North Inlet. Mr. Heisner asks the custody of the three minor children.
