NEW JITNEY LINES HERE ON SATURDAY

AUTO STAGES TO COVER COOS AND CURRY LIKE A BLANKET

Coquille to Be Hub of Operations—Stage's Work From There in All Directions—Travel on Schedule

Jitneys this spring are to cover Coos and Curry counties like a blanket. Plans have just been perfected to make Coquille the hub of the trade and from there extend lines to Bandon and to Crescent City, to Coos Bay, to Powers and out to Roseburg. The lines will cover 350 miles of roads.

Fred Slagle, of the Coquille-Marshfield stage line, is one of the heads in the new concern. He was here yesterday and today with F. C. Stone, completing the plans.

The project will mean the putting into use of about 60 automobiles and will employ 25 men said Mr. Stone today.

The lines will use the Cadillac, the Dodge and the Chevrolet cars, the latter coming in especially handy on the run from Bandon to Crescent City, by way of Langlois and Gold Beach, where there is considerable sand and a light but powerful car is necessary.

Fred Slagle will have charge of the driving between Coquille and Coos Bay; the Ford Bros., between the county seat and Bandon; Sheridan and Whitsett, from Bandon to Crescent City; I. Clinton from Coquille to Powers and another partner not yet named, will take the line from Coquille out to Roseburg via Myrtle Point. Brewster Valley will also be in the route.

The cars will travel on a time schedule so arranged that passengers from one place to another will be able to make connections. An agent will be placed at Marshfield to take care of the business here.

Last summer Mr. Slagle conducted the run to Marshfield, but this is the first time that such an intricate system has been worked out on a scale that covers all the cities in the two counties.

PLEADS FOR BOOZE

COMEDY-TRAGEDY ENACTED IN THE POLICE COURT

Finale of Jamaica Ginger Episode Is Touching—Victim Tells How It "Cramps Your Inside"

The pleading guilty to charge of being drunk and the ultimate fine of $5 was assessed by Judge Butler against Donald Cameron, aged 45 and a logger, was but a small part of the comedy-tragedy enacted late yesterday in the police court. Cameron said he is of Irish descent. A medium sized man he was, and roughly dressed. "One of the floaters," he classed himself. He had gotten drunk on lemon extract and Jamaica ginger.

"I have property in Victoria," he told the judge. "It bears me an income. Sometimes I send for the interest; some years I don't." Even as he spoke he shook all over his head, his hands, his whole frame shook as though he had the palsy. "Need a bracer, I guess," he explained.

Had to Mix It

On the desk sat two bottles of the Jamaica ginger. Chief Carter motioned to them as he asked, "Can you drink that stuff straight?"

"Oh no, that is, you know, not at first. Oh, indeed no," came the explanation as he twisted his hat in a roll. "You see, Mr. Carter, at first you have to dilute it with a bit of water and sugar, but after three or four drinks, why you can take it straight, then."

"But is that your idea of a good time?"

"Well no, but it is in a dry town."

Got North Bend Booze

Last Friday he came in from Powers with $50; yesterday he had $125 left. He said that in the meantime he had been drinking heavily. At first friends of his bought him whiskey. He bought two flasks at $5 and he said his friends got it in North Bend. City attorney Brand tried to find out who they got it from, but Cameron declared he did not know and he stuck to his story. And finally when the whiskey was all used up he started in with using the lemon extracts and the Jamaica ginger. There was a friend with him then.

Friend Emptied Bottle

"We sat up in the room Saturday afternoon drinking this ginger, just like Hoosiers," confided Cameron, "when Ed, he got up and went over to the window. I saw him smell of a bottle and then he says, 'Dan,' he says, 'Dan it's whiskey.'"

"No! I said, it can't be, but it was, and so we finished that in a hurry." Chief Carter wanted further information. "What does that ginger feel like when it's going down?" he queried.

Here Cameron, in anticipation of the question, was already rubbing his poor stomach. He looked up. "Oh, it's awful," he murmured. "Awful. It cramps your insides all out of shape. But still—" and he paused, "until a fellow's got to do something. You know how it is Mr. Carter."

He said that he went to a drug-store and bought one bottle of the ginger and later went back again. "I bought three bottles and then I had cleaned them out entirely," and he started in with the grocery stores. Judge Butler administered a severe talking to, told Cameron he was killing himself and that an undertaker would be needed before long.

Gives a Bracer

"Yes—I know it. But judge, can't you let me have one of the bottles back. Just to sober up on you know," he pleaded. "Look, judge, look here, I am all a tremble and a shaking now for want of a drink."

And very reluctantly the judge allowed the pouring out into another bottle of a couple of good swallows of the fiery liquid that he "might have something to sober up on" and Cameron went slowly out the door, promising to heed the many instructions to leave booze alone.

BOOST ROAD BONDS

TRY TO GET PROMINENT MEN TO SPEAK IN COOS COUNTY

S. Benson Writes That He Will Try and Come—Gov. Withycombe Unable to Come at Present

Chas. Hall, president of the Coos County Good Roads Association, has been endeavoring to get a number of prominent Oregon men to come to Coos county and talk in behalf of the proposed bond issue for building permanent roads which is to be submitted at the time of the primary election.

This morning he received a letter from S. Benson, the Portland millionaire philanthropist and good roads enthusiast, saying that he would try and be here. Mr. Benson is now in Pasadena, Calif., and has been in rather poor health. If his health permits, he will be here.

Gov. Withycombe Writes Governor James Withycombe wrote as follows in response to Mr. Hall's invitation to him to aid in the Coos county campaign.

"My sympathies are entirely with you and I wish I could be of direct assistance, but as I have already replied to your Fellowship Club, it is not going to be possible for me to get to Coos county at this early part of the year on account of other engagements.

"However, I do plan to visit both Coos and Curry counties later in the summer and am looking forward to again meeting with my friends in your portion of the state. I hope at that time, even if I do not have the opportunity to assist in your campaign, to see some of the results of it in the nature of road improvements."

TO TALK GOOD ROADS

MR. CANTINE WILL ADDRESS MEETING THERE TONIGHT

Will Inspect Roads North of Bay and in Ten Mile District—Will Take Up Other Matters

The North Bend Chamber of Commerce will meet this evening and Assistant State Highway Engineer Cantine will address the gathering. Tomorrow he will visit the section north of the bay and on Friday inspect the roads at Ten Mile.

This is the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and the railroad celebration and other matters will probably come up.

LENT OPENS TODAY

ASH WEDNESDAY OBSERVED BY CHURCH SERVICES HERE

Opening of Six Week Penitential Season in Catholic and Episcopal Churches

Today, Ash Wednesday (Dies Cinerum), derives its name from the ancient practice in the church of sprinkling ashes on the heads of those who were put to public penance and temporary excommunication on that day. It is the beginning of the Lenten season which lasts until Easter Sunday. It is the great penitential season of the church, commemorating the forty days spent by Christ in the wilderness. The season has been appropriately taken by the church as a fitting preparation for Easter, and especially the observance of Holy Week, with its solemn lessons on the suffering of Christ.

In accordance with the ancient and primitive custom of the churches throughout Europe, the season has been set apart by the Episcopal churches on the Bay for special devotional services, announcement of which will be made later. At North Bend there will be a Lenten Mission the general theme of which will be: "The Building of a Positive Christian Faith." At Emmanuel church, Marshfield at 10:30 there was a service, with an address by the rector: "Why a Lenten Season," and at 7:30 in the evening there will be a service at Empire.

Special services were also held in the Catholic churches.

TAXPAYERS ORGANIZE LEAGUE

Serious Consideration to Be Given Causes of High Taxes and Expenditure of Public Money.

The Benton County Courier says: About two hundred and fifty taxpayers of Benton county met in the circuit court room at Corvallis, Saturday, January 8, as previously arranged and announced to organize a Benton County Taxpayers' League for the purpose of formulating plans and putting in motion a machine that will bring about a substantial reduction in the taxes of the county—not a temporary makeshift, but a substantial and thorough job that will be effectual for years to come.

That something is radically wrong and that drastic action is necessary was shown when Mr. Ingle read a summary of the increase of taxes for the past 12 years in Benton county—an increase of nearly seven hundred per cent, or from $43,000 in 1903, to $301,000 for 1914.

WIRELESS STATION TO BE DONE AUGUST 1

Lieut. R. G. Coman Says Money Must Be Spent Before End of Fiscal Year—Returns South

Speed is necessary in the erection of the government wireless station that the money may be used before the end of the fiscal year and not revert back to the treasury, is the statement of Lieut. R. G. Coman, of the U. S. Navy who is here regarding the matter. He says actual work will be started next month and that the whole thing must be completed by August 1. It is to be one of the most powerful stations on the Pacific coast.

Lieut. Coman was at Bandon and telephoned a message to the Cape Blanco station for transfer to Mare Island. He had an answer back inside of 40 minutes.

He said that Mare Island by August 1 will see the starting of the first dreadnaught to be built on the Pacific. An effort is being made to have the vessel named California. This ship will mean the employment of between 6,000 and 8,000 men at Mare Island, all of whom live in Vallejo.

JAS. BOWEN DEAD

PIONEER BARBER OF MARSHFIELD SUCCUMBS AT FRISCO

Owned Present Site of Chandler Hotel Many Years Ago—Was Civil War Veteran

Word has been received here of the death of James Bowen, a pioneer barber of Marshfield, at San Francisco last week. He was 69 years old and death was due to a complication of ills.

Bowen was engaged in the barber business here for many years and left about a dozen years ago with his family for California. He served as a drummer boy in the Civil War and was active in the G. A. R. He never lost his longing for his snare drum and often played it on public occasions in Marshfield.

His wife was formerly Miss Deborah of Curry county. She and her daughters, Misses Mattie and Marie, survive him.
